Fortas Quits In Fight For Chief Justice Job

Johnson Accepts Letter

In a letter to the President, Fortas said that the continued efforts to secure Senate confirmation of his nomination, even if ultimately successful, would result in a continuation of attacks upon the court.

"With deep regret I have accepted and concur in the request of Mr. Justice Fortas and am withdrawing his nomination as chief justice of the United States," a brief presidential statement said.

REAFFIRMS BID

"I believed when I made this nomination, and I believe now, that he is the best qualified man for this high position," Johnson said.

The letter was released at the Supreme Court simultaneously with its delivery to the President at the White House.

Fortas' request that his controversial nomination be withdrawn followed a vote in the Senate Tuesday which fell 14 short of the two-thirds necessary to cut off a filibuster by opponents.

The 58-year-old justice, appointed to the Supreme Court by Johnson in 1965, started off his letter by saying he had noted the failure of the motion to end the filibuster in the Senate.

WORK ON MONDAY

He coupled this with the observation that the new term of the court will begin on Monday and that "I will, of course, be participating in its work as associate justice."

"In view of these circumstances," Fortas wrote, "I ask you to withdraw my nomination as chief justice.

"Continued efforts to secure confirmation of that nomination, even if ultimately successful, would result in a continuation of the attacks upon the court which have characterized the filibuster—attacks which have been sometimes extreme and entirely unrelated to responsible criticism.

COURT MATTERS

"Attacks of this sort would be especially inappropriate and harmful to the court and the nation if they should continue

Conservationists See Bay Splotched With Oil Wells

Commercial drilling for oil and gas in San Pablo Bay could result in dotting the bay with 234 platforms, the Marin Conservation League warned the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday. (Other supervisors stories, page 7.)

This, together with a similar warning from a Bay Conservation and Development Commission report presented by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, induced the county supervisors to call for more clarification from the state Lands Commission, which has received applications for oil and gas drilling.

The supervisors decided to ask a representative from the lands commission to appear before them next Tuesday at 1:45 p.m. At the same time, Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen will send invitations to Contra Costa, Sonoma and Solano counties to next week's hearing.

"We are concerned for all of San Pablo Bay," said Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League. He noted that drilling would be limited to one well for each 320 acres on the 75,000-acre bay. "This, if carried to the ultimate, could bring to the bay about 234 platforms. . . . We feel this could be detrimental to the safety of boatmen and especially hazardous to airplanes in the area off Hamilton Air Force Base runways."

"The esthetic and scenic value for many thousands of people could be destroyed," said Gregg.

"Drilling off Santa Barbara is now required to be at least five miles offshore for esthetic reasons," said Supervisor Behr. He said a report from BCDC notes that "scenic values of the bay outweigh potential benefits from drilling."

"We should also ask other counties so that we can have concerted action," suggested Chairman Kettenhofen.

Of San Pablo Bay's 75,000 acres, 25,000 acres lie within Marin County, said Pierre W. Joske, county director of recreation and parks. About 6,000 acres is shown on the Marin County Parks and Recreation Plan as recommended reserves for natural habitat for native waterfowl and migratory bird life.

Lt. Col. Donald Poe, base installations engineer for Hamilton Air Force Base, announced he is also concerned and will attend next week's meeting. "I'm very cold on the whole issue," he explained. "I really don't know what it's all about at this point."

Rusk Slaps Soviet Move Into Prague

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today denounced the Soviet military intervention in Czechoslovakia as repugnant and dangerous to peace, and declared it had "sent a shock wave of indignation and apprehension around the world."

Rusk, making his first U.N. speech, was interrupted by three demonstrators in the public gallery who shouted and displayed a banner saying "stop the War in Vietnam" before they were hustled from the chamber by security guards. Another demonstrator, who stood and displayed a sign declaring 'Big Firms Get Rich, GI's Die," also was ejected.

Rusk told the 125-nation General Assembly that the United States wants peace in Vietnam and is ready to halt the bombing of North Vietnam "the minute we can be confident that this would lead toward peace."

"An honorable settlement is possible," he said. "What remains is for Hanoi to get down to the serious business of making peace in Paris."

He warned the Soviet Union that the United States did not accept its contention that he U.N. charer gave Moscow the right to intervene unilaterally in West Germany if it determined that a resurgence of nazism existed.

"Any such action," he said, "would lead immediately to self-defense measures pursuant to the North Atlantic Treaty."

Harriman Rips Reds' Use Of DMZ

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman today accused North Vietnam of preparing a massive new invasion of the South, but he warned such an attempt would fail.

Harriman said trails, weapons caches and bunker complexes found by allied forces indicated the enemy has transformed the once-neutral demilitarized zone into a staging area for troops preparing to move south.

Harriman made the charges at the 24th session of the Paris peace talks to Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam.

He added, "Military victory for Hanoi and its Viet Cong agents is impossible."

In addition to the trail network, Harriman said allied forces sweeping the DMZ found a major complex of 350 fourman bunkers, watch towers and a complete communications net, and munition dumps containing hundreds of rounds of antitank rockets, artillery shells and more than 125,000 tons of ammunition.

The American diplomat also challenged victory claims broadcast by Radio Hanoi and South Vietnam's National Liberation Front. One claim was that liberation forces had wiped out 442,000 American, allied and South Vietnamese troops since early spring.

Redwood National Park Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a bill establishing a Rewood National Park in Northern California. The action automatically transferred to federal ownership most of the 28,100 acres of private timberland within the park boundary, including nearly 10,900 acres of virgin growth redwood trees more than 1,000 years old and ranging up to 367 feet in height.

The park boundary also includes three California state parks totaling 27,500 acres—subject to donation by the state—and not more than 2,400 acres of additional private land to be selected by the Secretary of Interior.

Mrs. Johnson Will Aid Humphrey Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey plan a nationally televised political duet —their first joint campaign appearance.

The White House said today the wives of the President and Vice President will discuss politicking on the syndicated Mike Douglas Show to be videotaped Friday in Philadelphia for telecast Monday.

Reagan May Appoint New Judge By Nov. 1

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Candidates for Marin's newest judgeship will be screened under tight security, and even the names of the screening committee members will be kept secret, it was learned yesterday.

Paul R. Haerle, the governor's appointments secretary, said the committee's meeting dates and places and recommendations also would be kept under wraps.

The governor may make his decision by Nov. 1 on who is to get the $30,572-a-year superior court judgeship.

The committee will not come up with its own list of names, but will review a list of candidates given to it by the governor, Haerle said. The same list of candidates also will be reviewed by the board of governors of the State Bar of California, he said, adding the same procedure has been used in the past in other counties.

Haerle confirmed a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal that the committee would consist of one Marin superior court judge, a representative of the Marin County Bar Association, and three lay persons. The judge and lay persons are to be appointed by the governor, but this has not been done yet, Haerle said.

Judge Harold J. Haley is expected to be the judge on the committee because he is the only Republican among the present four judges. He probably also will serve as chairman of the committee.

Despite Haerle's insistance that the committee's membership will be secret, the president of the Marin Bar, John L. Rockwell of San Rafael, reported Friday that he was selected by the association's directors to represent it on the committee.

The association earlier this month sent the governor the confidential results of a poll of its 120 members on who should be appointed to the judgeship. The eight candidates on the poll ballot, who may not necessarily be on the governor's list of eligibles, were Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, Supervisor Peter H. Behr, A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., former Assemblyman John A. Busterud, Robert W. Corlett, E. Warren McGuire, Robert A. Smallman and Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Henry J. Broderick of Tiburon, who practices law in San Francisco, is reported to want the appointment, too, and is a close political friend of Haerle, formerly of Santa Venetia. He did not seek the Marin Bar's recommendation and was not among those recommended.

Death Car's Driver Had Fatal Record

I-J Special Report

SUSANVILLE — The driver of the car in which five high school girls were killed Saturday was convicted of misdemeanor manslaughter two years ago in the traffic death of a 4-year-old boy, the California Highway Patrol in this Shasta County community reported today.

Warren Martineau, an 18-year-old Shasta College student, was driving the car carrying the girls — including a former San Anselman — when it rounded a curve at 70 miles per hour and rammed a logging truck, the highway patrol said. Martineau, who was driving to a football game, also was killed.

The highway patrol reported that Martineau's manslaughter conviction resulted when the car he was driving killed a boy in Redding. His license was suspended for a year and he was ordered to work on public works projects.

Officers said two full beer cans and an empty one were found in the wreckage of Martineau's car, Saturday. Blood samples from his body were being tested at the state Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification in Sacramento and the results

PLAINLY MARKED

Red Guns Down Hospital Copters

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners yesterday shot down three U.S. helicopters carrying wounded soldiers and Marines although the aircraft were plainly marked with red crosses, U.S. military spokesmen reported today.

One helicopter was a Marine Corps CH34 assigned to fly wounded from the Thuong Duc area where a U.S. Green Beret Special Forces camp was in the fifth day of a siege by a North Vietnamese division of 7,000 men. A spokesman at Da Nang said there were no injuries.

The other two helicopters were U.S. Army medical evacuation helicopters flying wounded men 16 miles west of Tam Ky where a Communist force of unknown size ambushed units of the 198th Infantry Brigade and wounded 28 Americans.

A spokesman for the U.S. Military Assistance Command said seven soldiers were wounded on one helicopter and three were wounded on another. An undisclosed number of wounded were believed killed in the crashes but there was no official figure. One helicopter crashed and burned, the other was recovered.

North Vietnamese gunners also shot down an A4 Skyhawk acting as artillery spotter for the battleship USS New Jersey, but they paid dearly for it. The mighty ship swung her 16-inch rifles from the targets she was devastating near the Demilitarized Zone and blew the antiaircraft batteries to pieces.

The two pilots were rescued as the United States chalked up its 902nd air loss of the war over the north. Two other A4 Skyhawks were lost, apparently by accident, during landings and takeoffs at the Chu Lai Air Base in South Vietnam. Both pilots, Marines, escaped.

The helicopter incidents marked a new flareup in fighting just west and southwest of Da Nang where a small force of Americans and Vietnamese holding the Thuong Duc base were blocking a main Communist invasion route toward Da Nang.

The Communists lobbed artillery into the base again today in a move reminiscent of the 77-day siege of Khe Sanh and used heavy machineguns against planes flying supplies into the base some 30 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The siege of Thuong Luc was beginning to creep into Communist propaganda broadcasts and Radio Hanoi said today Viet Cong troops had cut off a relief column attempting to lift the siege. It quoted Western correslondents as saying "so heavy was the torrent of shells that it was impossible to fly in reinforcement."

Widow, 89, Returns To India Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 89-year-old Los Angeles widow leaves for India today to resume work she took up 15 years ago at the request of the Indian leader, Mahatma Ghandi. Wealthy Honsinger Fisher said yesterday at a news conference that she will return to Literacy House in the state of Uttar Pradesh to help train teachers to work with Asian illiterates.

Mrs. Fisher

Mrs. Fisher began teaching in Haverstraw, N.Y., in 1903 and later taught in China, England and France before settling in India in 1920. There she met and married Frederick Bohn Fisher, Methodist bishop of Calcutta and Burma.

Ghandi urged her in 1947 to work with village peasants. Five years later she started Literacy House, a nonprofit, nonsectarian U.S. organization.

Red Cross Deaths

GENEVA (AP) — The International Red Cross Committee announced today that two of its delegates, a Swede and a Yugoslav, have been killed in the fighting in Biafra.

They were identified as Dr. Dragan Hercog, 32, a member of the Yugoslav surgical team, and Robert Carlsson, 32, of a Swedish distribution team.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors postponed the transit district meeting one week because there are too many meetings scheduled for this week.

Russ Lunar Visitor Had Hot Trip Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's space adviser says the Soviet Zond 5 mooncraft was a success because it re-entered the earth's atmosphere intact—but he says the heat would have been uncomfortable for any astronaut.

The heat was caused by the capsule's steep re-entry angle, Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said yesterday.

Jet Tanker Crashes

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A U.S. Air Force KC135 tanker, loaded with jet fuel, crashed in flames today at Uttapao, a base for B52 bombers flying missions over South Vietnam. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said three of four crewmen were killed.

The spokesman reports the four-engine jet crashed 250 yards from the end of the 11,000-foot runway on takeoff. The base is 75 miles south of Bangkok.

The cause of the crash was unknown.

Czech Censorship

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new press control board has withheld approval for publication of a new magazine by the outspoken Czechoslovak Writers Union.

The board, created in response to Soviet demands for tighter information controls, approved the registration of 11 new periodicals yesterday while postponing decisions on the applications of 10 others, the official CTK news agency said.

A proposed new Writers Union magazine called Listy, meaning Letters, was among those not approved, informants said. It would have been successor to Literarini Listy, the Writers Union organ branded as "counter-revolutionary" by Moscow and discontinued after the Aug. 20 Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Jurors May Travel

SAN JOSE (AP) — The Braun-Maine murder trial jury has finished its work for the week, but the judge and attorneys will meet tomorrow for argument on whether the jury should travel to Ukiah so Susan Bartolomei can be a witness.

Prosecutor Arthur B. Broaddus wants the jury to make the trip to see the 19-year-old girl, paralyzed and speechless from four or five bullet wounds. Broaddus argues she is in no condition to make the three-and one-half-hour trip here.

Taft-Hartley Invoked In Port Strikes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Acting on steps by President Johnson "to remove a peril to the national healthy and safety," a federal judge last night ordered 75,000 striking longshoremen back to work at ports from Maine to Texas.

It was the seventh time since 1948 a president had invoked the Taft-Hartley Act's 80-day "cooling off" period to end a walkout by the International Longshoremen's Association.

UNION TO OBEY

Thomas W. Gleason, ILA president, said the union would order the dockworkers back to work, but all 75,000 would not be able to return until tomorrow.

"We will abide by the law," Gleason said.

Administration officials claimed a dock strike from the Atlantic to the Gulf Coast would cost the United States $100 million a month in balance of payments and would sap the strength of the dollar at home and abroad.

Federal Court Judge Sylvester J. Ryan issued a temporary restraining order against the ILA strike pending a hearing on an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act. He set Oct. 9 for the hearing.

DEADLOCK REPORTED

Johnson sought the injunction to end the day-old walkout which began at midnight Monday when a presidential board of inquiry reported the "parties unable to reconcile their differences over the exceedingly difficult issues."

The board of inquiry said the "two overriding issues" were automation and mechanization and a union desire to have other conditions standardized at ports involved. Federal mediators will work with both sides to try to resolve the dispute.

New Teacher Halt Looms In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The threat of a new teachers' strike loomed in New York City as city officials labored to restore the precarious school peace upset by renewed violence in a Negro-Puerto Rican experimental school district in Brooklyn.

Albert Shanker, president of the 55,000-member United Federation of Teachers, raised the possibility of a new walkout against the 1.1-million-pupil public school system after the violence Tuesday in the Ocean Hill-Brownsville district.

Ten policemen were injured and more than a dozen persons arrested as angry parents, children and demonstrators clashed with police over the return of about 80 disputed teachers to the district.

The city's public schools were closed today because of the Jewish holy day of Yom Kippur, giving all sides in the dispute over local control of teachers a day to cool off.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, whose mediation efforts helped conclude the crippling three-week teachers strike that ended only Monday, pledged the full resources of the city to back that peace settlement.

In a radio address Lindsay declared: "I want to make it absolutely clear that no further disturbances of this sort will be tolerated. Stakes are too high. If we do not retain education under the law, we will have neither education nor law."

Armed Threat Ends Riot In South Carolina Prison

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina's top prison official calmed rioting prisoners yesterday and later expressed optimism that an "understanding legislature" will help him solve their grievances.

Ten inmates and six guards were injured during the five-hour riot that abruptly ended when William Leeke, director of the state Department of Corrections, threatened to send in troops armed with bayonets and tear gas.

Leeke said the 10 injured inmates were hurt by fellow prisoners.

Prison officials reported today there were no disturbances during the night.

Leeke met with a committee of inmates after order was restored and later addressed all the prisoners on the athletic field, promising to continue working to correct inadequate conditions.

"We have an understanding legislature," Leeke told newsmen later. "And we hope for funds to make these changes."

He referred specifically to plans to tear down the 104-year-old cellblock No. 1 that is dark, drafty and generally dismal. Other grievances included complaints about the food and alleged roughness when searching prisoners.

Oldest Ocean Bottom Found

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Scripps Institution of Oceanography scientists report finding sediments 150 million years old on the ocean floor near the Bahama Islands.

The sediments would be 50 million years older than previously found sediments, the scientists said.

The sediments were found during operation of the institution's deep sea drilling program. Scientists said the discovery indicates that conditions much like those of today have prevailed at that spot for at least the last 150 million years.

ly with folded hands during the 37-minute Rusk speech. When the secretary of state concluded, neither Gromyko nor other Communist delegation heads joined in the applause.

Dealing at length with the Czechoslovak invasion, Rusk declared the Soviet action "has shaken hopes for better East-West relations" and "raised doubt and discouragement about many a hopeful venture."

"President Johnson's diligent efforts to build bridges of common interest and contact between East and West have been attacked and misrepresented," he said. He added that the Russians were now trying to devise a justification for what he called a "gross violation" of the U.N. charter.

Rusk asked whether recent arguments published in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda meant that the Kremlin was disavowing charter prohibitions against the use of force as long as such action took place within the Soviet bloc.

would be known in a week, the highway patrol said.

Students and faculty of three Redding high schools paid tearful tribute yesterday to the five girls, all 17, including Shelly Jane Roberts, formerly of San Anselmo.

Caskets of the five girls — four of them cheerleaders — were in a row against the wall of the Enterprise High School gymnasium as five ministers held the joint service. The girls were students at the school.

Services were held for Martineau at the same time in a church across the street from the school.

Classes at the three high schools were dismissed so students could attend the gymnasium service. About 1,100 students gathered for the final tribute.

Job Of City Manager Is Cotati Topic

Cotati City Council will act tomorrow on creation of the office of city manager when it meets at 7:30 p.m. at the Cotati fire hall.

Officials said residents have long sought the change in government form. Expected to be appointed to the new position is Gordon Howe, 62, who was hired last month as clerk-administrator.

A former city manager of Saratoga and Seaside, Howe would continue at his present salary of $833 per month. He had recently been employed as a building inspector for the Sonoma County School District, and lived in Sebastopol before moving to Cotati.

Also on the agenda is an ordinance which would double all business license taxes to oring added revenue. Also discussed will be an agreement with the Cotati Elementary School District in which the city is asked to pay for oversizing of water lines to the new Thomas Page Elementary School under construction on Richardson Avenue. The line will be enlarged from four to eight inches.

Also heard will be a request from Kenneth Garner for waiver of curbs, gutters and sidewalks for his property on east Sierra Avenue.

and the end of August. Vietnamese and allied losses were less than 14,000 troops killed in action. Of these 6,616 were U.S. troops. More than 68,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers lost their lives in the same period."

Earlier today Harriman called for a North Vietnamese pledge to refrain from exploiting any American bombing halt and thus open the way to serious peacemaking.

Harriman's statement, made to newsmen before entering the 24th session of the peace talks, appeared to take account of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's qualified campaign promise to end air attacks on the North.

Without commenting on Humphrey's proposal, Harriman said: "It would be very easy for North Vietnam to bring this conference to fruitful discussions. All they have to do is to indicate they are prepared to restrain the military advantage that might come to them from the cessation of the bombing."

North Vietnam officially rejected Humphrey's proposal.

Thuy told Harriman: "Whoever the president of the United States is, he is doomed to failure unless he correctly solves the Vietnam problem on the basis of respect for the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights."

"Mr. Humphrey, like Mr. Johnson, still demands reciprocity. Moreover, he even threatens to resume the bombing of North Vietnam. We repeat once more that we do not accept any kind of reciprocity.

"As regards Mr. (Richard M.) Nixon, the warlike presidential candidate of the Republican party, he is clearly not satisfied with Mr. Humphrey's words, though they are deceitful ones."

while the court is in session, engaged in the adjudication of issues of great importance to the nation as well as the litigants."

There was no immediate comment at the White House on the Fortas letter.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, had said Tuesday he planned to decide by the end of the week whether to try to overturn the Senate vote against Fortas' nomination.

LETTER CONTENTS

Fortas, whom Johnson had nominated June 26 to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren, told the President in his letter he did not want to provide the occasion for a situation marked by continuation of attacks on the court.

"My action in submitting this request for withdrawal should avert the danger that it will occur," Fortas said, "and I hope that my withdrawal will help to put in motion a process by which there will be an end to destructive and extreme assaults upon the court."

Fortas said he appreciated the confidence Johnson had shown in his qualifications by nnominating him for the nation's highest judicial office.

He said he also wished to thank colleagues at the bar and in the law schools for their support and also members of the Senate who had supported him.

"I pray that we shall see, in all of our nation, renewed dedication to the principles of fairness and justice and moderation, without which our democracy cannot continue," Fortas said.

OTHER NOMINEE

He added that it was in this spirit that he respectfully requested Johnson to honor his request for withdrawal of the nomination.

Fortas' letter, in which he said he intends to continue as an associate justice, appeared to wash out Johnson's nomination of U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry of Texas to be a member of the Supreme Court.

In submitting Fortas' name to the Senate, Johnson also nominated Thornberry to take Fortas' place as an associate justice.

Sausalito's Boom: The Extra Traffic

Sausalito's traffic ticket business is booming, the city council learned last night when Police Chief Edward S. Kreins appeared before it to request additional help to process a bumper crop of outstanding warrants.

Kreins said there was $150,000 in warrants, mainly for traffic violations, in the files waiting to be processed.

The council authorized hiring a part-time police clerk to work 20 hours a week for $2,000 for the remainder of the year on the paper gold mine.

The city's revenue in the fiscal year ending last June 30 was $106,680, a 50 per cent jump over the previous year's $70,681, Kreins reported today.

The chief said his department issued 1,145 traffic citations in August this year, compared to a total of 1,349 citations issued by the sheriff's department and California Highway Patrol combined in the first eight months of this year.

Liquid Crystals Helping In Medicine, Color TV

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Materials that seem a contradiction in terms — liquid crystals — are moving strongly into prominence in such diverse fields as medicine, materials testing and color television.

A liquid crystal is a compound that exhibits both the fluid characteristics of a liquid and the optical properties of a crystal.

All of those known so far are organic compounds. They are not rare. About one in 200 organic compounds is a liquid crystal and there are thousands upon thousands of organic compounds.

The most striking feature of liquid crystals is the series of vivid color changes they undergo with even very slight variations in temperature. This has made them extremely valuable both for many kinds of medical research and for an increasing number of industrial applications.

Current uses include charting the effects of nerve-blocking drugs, diagnosing cancer, mapping the flow patterns of airframes in wind tunnels and developing color television that can be viewed in direct sunlight.

Liquid crystals were first observed in 1888 by the Austrian botanist Friedrich Reinitzer, who noted that there were two distinct melting points for one organic compound, cholesteryl benzoate. At 145 degrees C. the solid turned to a cloudy liquid and at 179 degrees the liquid became clear.

A German physicist shortly thereafter found that the cloudy phase contained areas that seemed to have a crystal-like structure. He suggested the name liquid crystal; arguments have followed, but the name stays on.

Research on liquid crystals continued until the early 1930s, when interest began to dwindle. One reason was the apparent belief that all important problems in this area had been solved; another was the seeming lack of practical applications.

There was a renewal of interest in liquid crystals in the late 1950s.

Exactly who sparked this revival and precisely when is an area of some disagreement among the experts, who nevertheless agree in giving credit to Dr. Glenn H. Brown and Dr. James L. Fergason, now director and associate director, respectively, of Kent State University's Liquid Crystal Institute.

In the USSR, a group headed by Dr. I. G. Chistyakov of the Pedagogical Institute at Iwanowo undertook a comprehensive study of liquid crystals in the early 1960s.

Many of these substances are colorless as liquids. When cooled through their liquid crystal phase, they undergo a series of bright color changes. The rate of change from color to color, as well as the exact temperature at which specific color changes occur, are invariable for any given compound.

Mixtures of these materials have, therefore, found application for measuring surface temperatures, as well as temperature variations. This property is the basis for nondestructive testing of such industrial equipment as metal castings, semiconducting devices, printed circuit assemblies and other items in which flaws produce differential heat flow.

It is also the basis on which doctors at the University of Washington School of Medicine, working with researchers from the Boeing Co., are using liquid crystals to evaluate blood circulation following surgery to relieve chronic pain, according to Boeing's Dr. Wayne Woodmansee. They hope to determine if blood circulation improves following surgery.

Pain arising from various kinds of spasms can often be relieved by blocking the sympathetic nervous system. This block is followed by dilatation of those vessels whose nerve supply has been cut off. If circulation is not improved, amputation may be necessary.

Changes in the temperatures of neurological and vascular pathways are accurately reflected by color variations in liquid crystals painted on the skin, the higher the blood flow and the warmer the skin.

The ability of liquid crystals to reflect very small temperature changes in the human body is also being used in cancer research at Roswell Park Memorial Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., to determine whether tumors are malign.

Areas of suspected cancer are coated with carbon black, then covered with a layer of liquid crystals, says Dr. James F. Holland. Warmer regions, indicating malignancy, appear blue; benign tumors appear reddish. By prepainting the suspected areas, surgeons can determine exactly where surgery should be performed.

Barham May Face Ouster Over Wallace

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Charles (Clay) Barham of Novato, unsuccessful GOP candidate in the June primary, has been ordered by the chairman of the California Republican Central Committee to explain his endorsement of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for president — or face expulsion within 30 days from the committee.

Barham, who assailed his primary opponent, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, as a disloyal Republican, publicly endorsed Wallace Sept. 20 at a Wallace dinner in Santa Rosa.

The state GOP chairman, James W. Halley of San Mateo, advised Barham Friday that the endorsement violated a central committee bylaw prohibiting members from endorsing candidates of other political parties.

A spokesman for the central committee said Halley's order was automatic following a complaint filed with the committee against Barham by Charles Michals, chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee. Michals' complaint indicated it was sparked by an Independent-Journal report of Barham's endorsement, the spokesman said.

Barham must answer the complaint by Oct. 26, or will be dumped by the committee, or which he has been a member for the past four years.

Barham has the right to demand a public hearing before the committee, the spokesman said, adding that this provision rarely is invoked by persons asked to resign.

Barham, contracted last month by the I-J after his endorsement of Wallace, insisted he still was "a real Republican, but I feel that the Republicans and Democrats are more representative of the government than they are of the general populace. Wallace might help to bring the balance of power back to where it belongs between the people and the government," he said.

Barham still is registered as a Republican.

OBITUARIES

Clarence A. Bowman Dies At 70

Clarence A. Bowman, first business manager at Marin General Hospital, collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, at his home at 96 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael, yesterday. He was 70.

Bowman was business manager at Marin General from 1952 to 1954 and before that held the same position at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco for about 20 years.

After resigning from the Marin General Hospital post, Bowman worked part time for Sunny Hills as business manager. He then retired.

A widower, Bowman's wife, Dr. Lillie L. Bowman, a school administrator, died in 1966. She was director of the bureau of research for San Francisco schools.

The couple lived in San Francisco until moving to San Rafael in 1942.

Bowman was found dead at 3:30 p.m. by a neighbor, according to Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig. He was lying in the main doorway.

Craig said Bowman had complained of dizziness earlier in the day and had completed a shopping trip when he collapsed. Bowman had a history of heart trouble, according to friends.

ORVIN GASTON

Orvin B. Gaston of Vallejo, retired assistant publisher of the Vallejo Times-Herald and father of Mrs. William Siler of Novato, died unexpectedly early today in a Vallejo hospital.

Gaston, 67, was admitted to the hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of a heart ailment.

Widely known in California newspaper circles, Gaston retired in 1957 after 23 years as assistant publisher. Since then, he continued to serve the newspaper in an advisory capacity.

A native of Santa Rosa, Gaston was reared in Nebraska and graduated from the University of Nebraska.

Gaston went to Vallejo in 1923 as the city editor of the old Evening Chronicle. In 1927, the Chronicle was bought by the publisher of what became the Times-Herald, Luther E. Gibson.

Gaston was a member of the Masonic Order and the Shrine Club in Vallejo, and was a past member of the Solano County Republican Central Committee, past president of the Solano County unit of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, past president of the Vallejo library board and a past president of the Vallejo Rotary Club.

Woman Suffers Fractured Skull

A San Francisco woman suffered a fractured skull yesterday afternoon when she ran into the side of a moving car in the 1000 block of Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police said.

Geraldine Ruth Zeis, 34, employed as a dental hygenist in San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Police said she tried to cross the street in midblock and ran into a car driven by Harry James Hutton Jr., 45, of Penngrove, Sonoma County.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

President's Violence Panel Explores Mental Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential commission on violence is probing into the dark alleyways of the human mind to try to find what makes a man an assassin.

The panel stepped gingerly clear of the specific slayings of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in its search for some common thread to explain the assassinations that have shaken the nation in recent years.

Top Secret Service officials were called to today's closed session. They included Director James J. Rowley, Thomas J. Kelley, assistant director for protective intelligence, and Charles Humpstone, who oversees the presidential guard.

The commission, created by President Johnson as Senator Kennedy lay dying last June, turned to assassinations as it began its third weekly session of testimony in a wide survey of American violence.

Unlike the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the violence panel is making a general study that embraces everything from anti-war protests to street muggings.

Lloyd Cutler, executive director of the commission, said there would be no attempt to delve into the specifics of the Kennedy and King slayings. Any testimony that did touch on the deaths was expected to be quite guarded since trials are pending in both 1968 shootings.

The scheduled witnesses yesterday included two psychiatrists and playwright Dore Schary, chairman of the Anti-defamation League.

Storer, Friends Go On Cruise

More than 150 backers of Supervisor Thomas T. Storer joined him last night on a moonlight dinner cruise of San Francisco Bay on the Harbor Emperor.

The boat, leaving Tiburon at 8 p.m., cruised for an hour and a half, while volunteers served buffet dinner to the guests. The Styx River Ferry band, composed of Marin County youths, provided music.

Low Income Rental Proposal Tossed Out

Marin County Housing Authority directors last night declined to change policy so an entire apartment house could be leased for occupancy by low income families under the authority's leased housing program.

Under policy, the authority does not lease more than 10 per cent of the units in any apartment or any area.

Neil T. Little, manager of the program, urged the change saying there was a chance he could lease all units of an apartment in San Rafael which would be suitable for elderly persons.

Chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the premise of the program has been scattered housing and any grouping would be contrary to that plan.

Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, said no change would be recommended in any city without the sanction of that city.

Ehrlich said he felt the program was accelerating and he didn't want to introduce a "much more controversial concept" which he saw as "low income housing without a vote."

Ehrlich contended that the authority "sold" the program on the grounds that it would not be "low income housing in the sense of grouping together."

Stutsman said, "we do not wish to segregate persons of low income," but if the authority cannot acquire the needed apartment units under its present operation, it should look at other methods.

The authority has a program for 200 units in Marin County including the cities of Mill Valley, Sausalito, Novato, Tiburon and San Rafael.

Ehrlich said if the program bogs down after 100 units are leased then directors could consider an alternative method.

Little expected that 55 units would be leased under the program by the end of this week. There are more than 200 applicants on the waiting list, he said.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

SENIOR HOUSING — Gave tentative approval to a two-acre site along Tamal Vista Boulevard, in an unincorporated area across the street from the Cooperative Center in Corte Madera as suitable for a 56-unit for housing for elderly. Robert Mahar, director of planning and production, West Coast Turnkey Corp. of Seattle, Wash., said he would offer a development proposal for the site on speculation with no commitment from the authority.

NORTHGATE SITE — Gave Stutsman authority to discuss with proposed developer of a 40-unit Golden Hinde Senior Citizens Home, Golden Gate Boulevard and Los Ranchitos Road, the possibility of conveying their rights to another developer.

HOMESTEAD UNIT — Received a report from Stutsman that the 28-unit senior citizen housing in Homestead Valley is 62 per cent completed, ahead of schedule and occupancy expected to start Jan. 1, 1969.

TENANT RELATIONS — Approved a questionnaire to be distributed by Melvin Randolph, housing manager, to ascertain the opinions of tenants on various matters.

HILARITA HOUSING — Received a report from Ehrlich that Tiburon had adopted a policy approving moderate income housing for the Hilarita housing site, and agreed that the authority wasn't in a hurry to close out the Hilarita project, which has to be abandoned by June 1972.

NOVATO HOUSING — Postponed scheduled review of plan for 40-unit senior citizen housing in Novato because plan wasn't available.

Drath To Talk On Saturday

Phillip Drath, Democratic nominee in the Sixth Congressional District, will speak at 8 p.m. Saturday at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

The film "Voyage of the Phoenix" about Drath's trip on a Quaker voyage to deliver medical supplies to the Red Cross in North Vietnam will be shown.

The Independent-Journal yesterday erroneously reported that the talk would be tomorrow.

Campaign Leader

Francis V. Keesling Jr., San Francisco insurance executive, has been named Northern California chairman of California Citizens for Nixon/Agnew by Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, statewide chairman of the campaign.

Wage Hikes For Housing Employees

Directors of the Marin County Housing Authority and Marin County Redevelopment Agency last night granted employees raises averaging 4.8 per cent.

Individual raises ranged from 25 per cent in one position which was reclassified to none in one job, reported Donald O. Stutsman, executive director.

Stutsman was granted a 6.1 per cent pay boost of $84 a month to a monthly $1,454.

The raises were granted after directors review recommendations resulting from a study by the State Personnel Board. The total cost of the wage boosts was $5,880 a year.

Stutsman noted that there had been no boost in the salary schedule since May, 1967, but there had been the annual step increases. The raises covered 16 employees, six of them under the redevelopment agency, he said.

Wayne Denies Wallace Slate

MONTROSE, Colo. (UPI) — Movie star John Wayne denied emphatically yesterday reports that he had been picked by former Alabama Gov. George Wallace to be his vice presidential running mate.

Wayne issued the denial from a movie location on a high mountain meadow southeast of here. He refused further comment on the reports.

Michael Wayne, son of the actor, said his father had "been a Nixon Republican for years and years.

Books Sought For Library Booster Sale

Books are still being collected for the annual book sale sponsored by the Mill Valley Library Association at the Fall Arts Festival, Oct. 12-13 in Old Mill Park.

Book donors may deposit books at the library or call the library for home pickups. The Mill Valley Rotary Club will participate in the sale at the festival.

Land Market Program Urged In Marin City

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency last night urged a marketing program to facilitate development of ridge lots and stimulate community development in Marin City.

Plans by the California Development Corp. last year to develop the area with townhouses and single-family homes have not materialized.

Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, said the corporation was a basic element in development plans and there "has not been an adequate replacement."

Director Phillip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the agency should "get on a marketing program" and develop a plan for all of its lots, either "open them up or get a broker."

Last year the agency offered 12 lots on Guy Circle and Keys Court for sale, out of 39 the agency owns in the vicinity and deposits were made on five.

Two depositors, Frank Myers of San Rafael, and A. F. Kress of Mill Valley, asked last night for more time to meet the financial conditions imposed noting it was their original understanding that other development was to take place as well and they couldn't proceed alone. The three others whose options remain ufulfilled, were not present.

Harold Stockstad of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs suggested that the agency offer 10 more lots for sale in the area, indicating that if as many as 22 were available the greater development potential might prove attractive to investors.

Antidraft Figures Get Trial Date

The seven men, including a former Corte Madera resident, arrested last October during antidraft demonstrations will go on trial at 10 a.m. Nov. 18 in Department Six of Alameda County Superior Court.

The former Marinite is Michael J. Smith, 27, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and a leader of the 1964 Berkeley Free Speech Movement and the Progressive Labor Party.

The men, charged with conspiracy to trespass and to resist and obstruct police, have won several trial delays, the latest to Monday when the trial date was finally set.

'Save Kent Island' Fund Drive Hailed Clear Success

Dr. L. Martin Griffin Jr., chairman of the drive to save the 100-acre island, in Bolinas Lagoon, from commercial development, said that $91.626 had been raised or pledged to pay the island's former owner, Mrs. Thomas T. Kent Jr. of Kentfield. (Another supervisors' story, page 1.)

Griffin appeared before the Marin County Board of Supervisors and presented chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen with title to the property.

The drive was a marked triumph for conservationists, since it was originally estimated it would take three years or more to raise the money. The goal was reached in about 18 months.

In February 1967, the Nature Conservancy, a national conservation group, announced it had purchased the land from Mrs. Kent for $85.000 and deeded it to the county for preservation as a wildlife refuge.

The "gift" was made amid plans by the Bolinas Harbor District for major development of the island.

It was later disclosed, however, that no money had been paid Mrs. Kent, that $10.000 had been pledged by the Audubon Canyon Ranch as a down payment and that she was holding a mortgage on the ranch for $50,000 more.

The audubon group, Nature Conservancy and the Marin Conservation League then set out to raise the money.

Dr. Griffin said the $91,626 includes interest and legal and title fees in excess of the $85,000 purchase price. He said only $8.000 of the total, which has been pledged, remains to be collected by the Audubon forces.

Griffin reported that $73.626 came from private contributions. $15.000 was donated by the Audubon Canyon Ranch and $3.000 contributed by the Marin Conservation League.

"The tremendous local and national interest in saving Kent Island indicates that the primary value of Bolinas Lagoon is not commercial development but the preservation of its wildlife, nearly extinct elsewhere in the Bay Area, for human enjoyment," Griffin said in a statement read to the supervisors.

The supervisors praised the efforts of the three organizations and referred to the parks and recreation commission a suggestion that a commemorative plaque be placed on the island.

Griffin said the three groups would now concentrate on halting pollution of the lagoon and developing a master plan to preserve tidelands and open water with antisiltation measures and minimum dredging.

Improving Sidewalks At Schools Win Nod

The county will give priority attention to improving sidewalks near Greenbrae School, Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley and Pleasant Valley School in West Novato, supervisors decided yesterday.

The priorities were recommended by the county public works department.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, supervisors voted to offer county aid in installing sidewalks on the basis of one-fourth county, one-fourth school district, and one-half property owners abutting the sidewalk.

The supervisors will send offers of aid to the first four on the priority list. "If the first four do not respond within 30 days, we can send letters to the next four on the list," said Behr.

1. Greenbrae School — Corner of Eliseo Drive and Bretano Way, estimated cost $200.
2. Marin Terrace — Harvard Street from California to Princeton, $3,000.
3. Pleasant Valley — Sutro Avenue from Oak Valley to Vineyard, $3,700.
4. Pleasant Valley — Vineyard Road from Sutro to the school, $4,600.
5. Tamalpais Valley School — Marin Avenue from Laurel to Ross, $7,500.
6. Hartzell School — Los Ranchitos (east side), from Constance to walkway, $3,000.
7. Adeline Kent School — Kent Avenue from Woodland to North, $3.500.
8. Wolfe Grade School — Laurel Grove Avenue from Sir Francis Drake to Oak, $3,000.
9. Gallinas School —North San Pedro Road from School to Oxford, $1,500.
10. Edna McGuire School — Lomita Drive from Ashford to Somerset, $500.
11. West Marin School — Shoreline Highway from school to A Street, $2.500.
12. Tamalpais Valley School—Marin Avenue from Maple to Laurel, $2.500.
13. Wolfe Grade School — McAllister Avenue from Drake to Acacia, $4.800.
14. Hartzell School —Los Ranchitos (west side), from Las Gallinas to North San Pedro Road, $6.000.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

RUNWAY STUDY — Approved a $3,225 outlay for a one-year study of crosswinds at Gnoss Fieeld to determine where an additional runway should go.

AB-1797 — Approved in general the concept of the proposed Assembly Bill 1797, which would put an extra tax on gasoline and on tickets for certain sporting events to provide local and countywide recreational facilities. At the suggestion of Behr, the supervisors decided to keep their position "flexible" on the details of the bill.

BONDS — Voted to charge the City of Belvedere $50 a year for processing certain bonds and named a committee to decide whether this fee should be made permanent for all cities.

APPEAL — Voted 4-1, Thomas T. Storer dissenting, to reduce from 15 days to five the period for which an employee can be suspended without right of appeal. Storer preferred a three-day period.

COMMISSION — Set $50 as the maximum monthly per diem to be paid to members of the personnel commission.

CHANGE — Authorized a $56,250 change order on the South San Pedro Road widening project because of the need for better roadway foundation material.

DEATH — Rejected a $575,000 claim filed by the widow and six children of Inverness resident Arthur Shoemaker, fatally injured by a car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near his home last December.

JUVENILE — Increased membership of the juvenile delinquency prevention commission from seven to 11.

SHELVES — Called for bids at 4 p.m. Oct. 24 for shelves for the law library in the new Hall of Justice. The cost is estimated at $9,500.

DRAPES — Asked bids at 4 p.m. Oct. 24 for an estimated $35,000 in drapes for the Hall of Justice.

TELEVISION — Called for bids for 4 p.m. Oct. 17 for a closed circuit television system for the Hall of Justice jail, estimated to cost $53.000.

ROAD — Awarded an $8.393 contract to the William K. McLellan Co. of San Anselmo for road sealing work on Lucas Valley Road and in Terra Linda.

Probe Still On In Policeman's Shooting Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police are taking another look into the shooting of a Negro mechanic by an off-duty white patrolman.

Previously the chief had said an officer had the right to defend himself and that it appeared the shooting was accidental and in self defense.

George Baskett, the victim, was shot Sunday night in a Negro district near the Hall of Justice after he joined a disturbance that resulted from a traffic mishap.

Further investigation came after the police crime laboratory failed to find powder burns on the slain man's clothing. Such burns are found when a shot is fired at close range.

The first police report had said patrolman Michael O'Brien shot Baskett while the victim was hitting the patrolman with a stick.

New County Planning Aide Busy In Marin

H. Rune Carlson, new assistant director of advance planning and coordinator of the balanced transportation study for the county planning department, is now on the job in Marin.

Carlson, who was program director for New Castle County, Delaware, will get $1.138 per month. He has a degree in regional planning from the University of Wisconsin. He worked with the city-county planning commission in Lexington, Tex., before going to Delaware.

Oak Manor Women Lose Gutter Fight

Marin County's public works department won the battle of the gutter fills in Oak Manor before the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday, over the objections of two young women who fought to the bitter end.

The end came in a unanimous vote by the supervisors that the county ordinances against gutter obstructions would be applied uniformly throughout the county, and encroachment permits will be issued in Oak Manor only for extreme hardship cases, just as permitted elsewhere.

"Each driveway will be inspected individually upon the owner's application for a permit," said Public Works Director Donald R. Frost. If it is impossible to reconstruct the driveway without great expense, Frost said he would issue encroachment permits.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer wanted to know what would constitute "great expense." Frost explained he refers to about six homes in Oak Manor where the driveways are so steep that they would have to be regraded and reconstructed. Frost added that reconstruction of the rolled curb to take the bump out of the driveway entrance would not be considered "great expense." He estimated this could be done for $200 or $300.

"I consider $250 to $300 a great cost," declared Mrs. Gail Rickets of 68 Gregory Drive, who protected her concrete gutter fill from the county jackhammer by leaving her car parked across the driveway.

She and her neighbor, Loi Wing of 62 Gregory Drive, charged that board gutter fills have reappeared where the fills were ripped out by county crews, and the "streets look worse than they did before."

There were only three members in the audience, including the two women, when the supervisors decided to make no exceptions in Oak Manor. "I don't know what happened to the others," said Mrs. Rickets, looking forlornly around the empty supervisors' chambers.

Court Sets Hearing On Marijuana Sale

Preliminary hearing for two Lagunitas men charged with selling marijuana Friday was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for 2 p.m. Oct. 25.

Edwin M. Richmond, 20, and Steven Riall Moore, 21, both had bail set at $500. Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. offered to release them on their own recognizance if they would live with their parents pending trial.

Soils Board Lunches Hit; Cash Voted

The Marin Soil Conservation District — which this year will spend 44 per cent of its budget on directors' lunches and convention expenses — was voted more county money yesterday.

The board of supervisors, which annually contributes to the district treasury, gave $750 earlier this summer — $1,000 less than the district board had asked. The soil board came back and asked for the full amount.

The supervisors voted the district $337.43 in new funds to let the district begin the 1968-69 year with the same reserve strength as in 1967-68.

The district has adopted a 1968-69 budget of $1.440, up $300 from last year.

The compromise contribution was proposed by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, who earlier wanted to cut off the soil board with no new funds. This was after he learned that the five board members had spent $223.93 last year for lunches after nine meetings.

Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen attempted to appease Storer by noting that the directors served without pay and received no per diem, but the supervisor from West Marin retorted:

"These men are wealthy ranchers. If you total them up, you'd come up with a net worth of about 10 million bucks."

"Well, I tell you I can," gagged Supervisor Thomas T. Storer. Everyone roared at the mischief.

BUDGET LETTER

The soil board sent a letter describing this and last year's budget. It said it needs county funds to undertake soil conservation studies financed by the state. The board undertook a drainage and sediment control plan for the Lagunitas and Walker Creek watershed last year with a $10,000 state grant and is awaiting a $25.000 state grant for a survey of the Walker Creek Reservoir.

Out of general expenses totaling $967.43 last year, the $223 lunch item was surpassed only by the salary of recording secretary Matt H. Klemmer, $420. Other expenses were a director's trip to the annual convention of California soil conservation districts, $100; organizational dues, $75, and equipment insurance, $31.

The board appropriated $654 out of this year's budget for "directors — administrative — conventions expense — lunches and travel."

OTHER LUNCHES

Later in their meeting, the supervisors got into another luncheon hassle involving county employees. Donald R. Frost, public works director, asked the board to allow certain executives to charge business lunches in Marin to the county. The cost of out-of-county business lunches is reimbursed.

A majority of the board, led by Behr, was against the plan for fear of abuses. The issue was deferred until budget time next year.

School Office Is Burglarized

Office and school equipment was stolen from the Sausalito School District office at 630 Nevada Street Monday night police said.

Taken were an IBM electric typewriter, dictater-transcriber machine, adding machine, portable tape recorder, phonograph, seven sets of earphones and records.

Police said the thieves broke windows with rocks and then crawled through them.

San Marin Vandalism Reward Set

Vandalism of the landscaping at San Marin has reached such proportions that both the caretaker and the San Marin Improvement Association have offered rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for breaking trees, according to Ronald Lewton, publicity chairman.

Clinton Petker, who maintains the landscaping around the San Marin Club and the median strips, offered a $25 reward. This was matched by another $25 from the association at the regular meeting of its board Monday night, according to Lewton.

Kenneth Johnson of Perma-Bilt Homes said that his company has placed a night guard on duty to prevent vandalism and thefts from their new homes.

The San Marin Improvement Association board also:

STOP SIGN — Approved requesting the city to install stop signs at the intersection of San Carlos Way and San Andreas Drive, and to enforce the 25-mile-per-hour speed limit in the subdivision.

FEDERATION — Wayne Sartain, president, reported that six out of nine other homeowner groups in Novato have expressed interest in the improvement association's proposal for a federation of such groups.

SCOUTS — The board voted to sponsor a Cub Scout Pack. The All Saints Lutheran Church at San Marin Drive and Novato Boulevard has offered its facilities as a meeting place.

CLEANUP—Assigned various areas for the Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and the men of the association to clean up on Oct. 12, the first day of the citywide cleanup campaign.

Commuter Bus Stalled By Lack Of Patronage

A proposed chartered commute bus between Novato and San Francisco, did not get enough passengers to start service Monday as originally planned. Wayne Bulette, chairman of the bus committee, has informed the San Marin Improvement Association board Monday night.

Bulette said that he still hopes that enough will sign up in the near future to start the chartered commute bus.

The plans now call for routing the bus from San Marin down Novato Boulevard and South Novato Boulevard with pickups at points which would be convenient to commuters, he said. The route of the bus would be designed to meet the needs of the commuters from any portion of Novato, he said.

It would pickup its passengers and go nonstop to San Francisco before 8 a.m. and return, leaving the city after 5 p.m. he said.

Hamilton Seeks More Work Bids

The procurement office at Hamilton Air Force Base awarded contracts Monday totaling $9.321 and called for bids for new work on the base and at the Mill Valley Air Force Station.

Contracts went to Hayco Inc. of San Rafael, $5.053, to construct storm entrances to various buildings, and $3,313, to replace doors at the Mill Valley Air Force Station; to General Electric Co. of Burlingame, $125, and Electrical Appliance Service Co. of Oakland, $830, for washer, dryer and refrigerator parts.

Bids were asked 10 a.m. Oct. 21 to replace the cold storage plant at Hamilton and for 2 p.m. Oct. 18 to repair approach lighting at the base. Bids to replace condensate tanks in the heating plant at the Mill Valley station will be opened 2 p.m. Oct. 1.

The defense surplus sales office at Hamilton announced the sale of scrap lead, copper wire and cable at 1 p.m. Oct. 29.

Couple Hurt In Car Crash

An Oakland couple was reported in satisfactory condition at Palm Drive Hospital, Sebastopol, with injuries suffered in an accident at 12:35 a.m. yesterday on Highway 116 near Woodworth Road, Cotati.

Merrill H. Berry, 75, suffered lacerations of the face, while his wife, Faith M. Berry, 77, suffered multiple contusions of the head and hands.

California Highway Patrol reported Berry fell asleep at the wheel, and the car ran off the road striking a fence and drainage embankment.

Youths Deny Charges In Municipal Court

William Paul Ferral, 20, of San Rafael, and David P. Smith, 20, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of having alcohol in a public place and having a device for smoking a narcotic Sept. 15 in San Rafael.

The two men were ordered to appear Monday for setting of a preliminary hearing.

Proposition 9 Gets Real Estate Board Support

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Proposition Nine property tax measure has won support of the California Real Estate Associaciation board of directors.

They listened to proponents of the measure Monday, then expressed almost unanimous support, said spokesman David Robinson.

The proposition, originally suggested by Los Angeles County assessor Phillip Watson, would limit property taxes to 1 per cent of market value. Over five years, all use of property taxes for public education and welfare would be phased out.

Watson arrived for the weekend convention to speak in behalf of the measure, but left complaining of chest pains and was flown to a Los Angeles hospital.

The proposal was termed a "fraud" by Caspar Weinberger, state finance director, in a sharply worded speech.

Teacher Priest Tells Marriage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— A Jesuit priest who testified for the defense in the obscenity trial of the "Love Book" confirmed yesterday that he has married a theology teacher he met while teaching at the University of San Francisco.

The priest, 40-year-old Rev. Robert J. Brophy, who declined to say where or when the marriage took place, married Mary Lou Burg. He is now on the faculty at California State College in Long Beach.

The Rev. John F.X. Connolly, vice president of the University of San Francisco, said he had heard about the marriage.

Youth Is Booked In Auto Theft Probe

A 14-year-old Novato boy was booked into Juvenile Hall Monday on suspicion of car theft.

San Rafael police reported an officer noticed the youth in the car because he looked so young and then noted no license plates on the 1969 Javelin. The boy was stopped and the car returned to Dexter Pontiac GMC and Rambler, Fourth and E streets, San Rafael.

The liars dice tournament, which began at Gatsby's in Sausalito Sept. 10, is still in progress and expected to continue through most of next week. It had been scheduled to end Monday.

The tournament, for the benefit of the Boy's Club of Southern Marin in Marin City, is held daily from 2 to 6 p.m. Each contestant pays an entry fee which will be used to purchase equipment and expand the boys club program.

The event is similar in structure to a tennis tournament, with winners of each match playing off until the ultimate liars dice champion has emerged.

Report Date Set

Key Is Believed Used In Stealing Station's Cash

A thief who may have had a key stole $90 from Julian's Strawberry Shell Service Station in Strawberry early Sunday, Marin sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Officers said there was no sign of forced entry to the station office. The money, receipts for the day, was in a canvas bag, they said.

Other burglaries reported by the sheriff's office included the theft of blankets, linen, clothing and ceramic work from the weekend home of Ernest W. Schwartz of South San Francisco on Valley Ford Road in Tomales Saturday night.

The theft of two cameras, worth $500, from Cary A. James' home at 40 Castle Rock Drive, Homestead Valley, sometime from Sept. 5 through 17, while James was on vacation. He discovered the theft Sunday, he said.

The wood duck (ari sponsa) is universally accepted as the most handsome of all ducks in the United States.

Tiburon Building Value Increases

Seventeen building permits with a total construction value of $629,656 were issued by the Tiburon Urban Development Department in August, Development Administrator Phil V. Scott has reported.

Building showed a strong increase over August, 1967, when 16 permits with a construction value of $397,545 were issued.

A total of $1,331 in fees were collected in August as compared to $1,143 in fees last year, Scott said.

Wallace Wins Shea Stadium Rally Appeal

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice ruled yesterday that third-party presidential candidate George Wallace is entitled to use Shea Stadium for a rally Oct. 9.

Justice Harold Tessler overturned a decision by August Heckscher, New York City parks commissioner. Heckscher turned down last Thursday a Wallace application to rent the 56,000-seat city-owned stadium. He said he had "absolute discretion" to ban a political gathering at the park used primarily for sports events.

But Justice Tessler ruled: "There are few events if any that suggest themselves to the court's mind that can be truly characterized as being of greater 'civic, community and general public interest' than the appearance of a major candidate and contender for the office of the presidency of the United States."

Stanley W. Little of Fairfax was named Second District chairman, and Harry Trowbridge of Tiburon was named chairman in the Third District.

He plans to have them sitting side-by-side at tables, ready to answer questions from students.

Mertle Condemns Bagley's Voting

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, attacked during the primary by his conservative opponent as "a better Democrat than a Republican," now is under fire from his Democratic opponent for being a GOP party-liner.

Robert E. Mertle, the Democratic nominee seeking to unseat Bagley in the November election, declared at a reception Sunday in Sausalito that "our liberal talking incumbent assemblyman" had failed to support gun control legislation that was defeated by the 1968 Legislature.

Bagley "once again sided with the Reagan-Rafferty controlled Republican caucus when it comes to voting," declared Mertle.

The reception was at the home of S. Robert Politzer.

"Ignoring the public outcry for action," Mertle said of Bagley, "he continues his Bagley balancing act. Publicly, this man takes liberal stands in what he knows is a liberal district," said Mertle, "then, when the issue comes to a vote, in order to maintain his support in the party, Bagley sides with the conservative Republican caucus."

Observing that voters in the Seventh Assembly District, which includes all of Marin and southern Sonoma County, had "overwhelmingly supported Rockefeller, McCarthy and Kennedy," Mertle concluded that "these voters should realize that they do not have an effective representative in Sacramento."

Baar Roasts County Spending, Planning

Louis H. (Bud) Baar, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, last night attacked county government spending as "going at an insane pace."

"At the rate the taxpayers' money is being spent in various and sundry forms, it won't be too long before people will not be able to afford to live in Marin," said Baar at the opening of his headquarters at 1817 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

He attacked the county planning department's budget and the supervisors' granting of three weeks of vacation to county employees after one year of service, adding "we must return to a program of fiscal sanity."

Baar also criticized his opponent, incumbent Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, for voting against cutting the planning department's $390,000 budget by $125,000. "We have 29 people in the planning department, and I'd like to see some samples of what they have accomplished in the last four years," said Baar.

Referring to County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker's recent comment that houseboats in Richardson Bay "look much more appropriate than Howard Johnson's development," Baar said "that type of thinking is hard to believe."

Candidate Urges Action For Marin City Business

Donald J. O'Leary, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Third District, today urged "immediate steps" by county supervisors and the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to develop businesses in Marin City.

"There are 32 prime business acres sitting in the middle of the community, and not a blessed thing is being done about them," said O'Leary in a press release.

Commercial development there would give jobs to Marin City residents and "open up the community to the outside world."

Businesses in the community will succeed only if they can attract patrons from the rest of the county, O'Leary said.

He asserted that the Small Business Administration is ready to make loans at favorable rates with minimum conditions to members of minority races.

O'Leary added that development of new businesses in Marin City should not be restricted to residents in the community. "We don't want a black Chinatown here," he said.

"We have a resource and an opportunity that is not being realized," said O'Leary.

Extra Footage For Sign Gets Committee Nod

A variance allowing an extra 100 square feet in signs for the Shapiro estate building at 493-503 Miller Avenue was approved last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, Jeanne McLean, secretary, reported.

Under the city's sign ordinance the property would be allowed only 100 square feet in signs instead of the 200 square feet granted with the variance, Mrs. McLean said.

Commissioners said the variance was approved because the ordinance limitation would not allow adequate signage for the several uses in the building.

Revised plans fort he Fotomat Corp.'s film booth on the Purity parking lot at East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto were also approved.

No action was taken on plans for a soft drink and coffee machine enclosure for the bus depot, Mrs. McLean said.

$9 Million Airport Expansion Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's Public Utilities Commission has approved plans for a $9 million expansion of United Air Lines facilities at International Airport.

Approval given yesterday was for plans which include a $5 million expansion to the firm's maintenance base and a $4 million office and service structure.

Pleads Guilty

Richard Alfred Scrimshaw, 25, of Honolulu, pleaded guilty Monday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglary Sept. 1 in San Rafael. He was placed on three years probation and ordered held for Hawaiian authorities for extradition.

Driver Booked After Accident

A San Anselmo man was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts on his face and then booked into County Jail following an accident at 2:20 a.m. today in San Anselmo.

Michale Lee Humphrey, 29, of 210 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, was booked on suspicion of being drunk in an auto after his car hit the side of one driven by Terry Alan Tatum, 26, of 56 Suffield Avenue, San Anselmo, at the intersection of San Francisco Boulevard and Sonoma Avenue, police said.

He made bail of $125 and was scheduled to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Youth Arraigned In Assault Case

Carl Hayes, 19, of San Anselmo, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of assault causing great bodily injury Sept. 25 in San Anselmo.

Hayes is charged with throwing a soft drink bottle which struck his half-sister, Carmen Ferrari, 6, on the forehead, causing a head injury which required surgery.

Hayes was to appear again in court this afternoon with counsel.

The October meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission will not be held on Oct. 9 because of prior conflicting commitments by the commissioners.

Chairman Melton Ferris announced that the meeting has been rescheduled for 2 p.m. Oct. 23 at the Civic Center.

$5-Million Cross-Country Marijuana Haul Thwarted

NEW YORK (AP) — A station wagon police said was loaded with 664 pounds of marijuana worth $5 million on the illicit market was seized today as it ended a cross-country trip from California.

Six detectives from the city narcotics bureau stopped the car at gunpoint as it emerged from the Lincoln Tunnel at Twelfth Avenue and 42nd Street.

They identified the two men inside as Orlando Sanchez, 34, of Huntington Park, and Heriberto Moreira, 41, of Los Angeles, both Cuban nationals.

Police said the seizure climaxed an investigation that started six months ago when they received information that a large quantity of illegal drugs were being prepared for distribution in the Metropolitan area.

They said the marijuana apparently was grown in Mexico and packaged on the West Coast.

Conservationists Sue Over Dump

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two conservation groups have filed a suit to stop the City of Albany from filling in part of San Francisco Bay at a refuse dump near Golden Gate Fields racetrack.

The suit, which claims the dump is illegal and seeks an injunction to halt further filling, was filed yesterday in Alameda County Superior Court by the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association.

"The Albany City Council refuses to recognize that the Bay is a single body of water of irreplaceable value to the public and not potential real estate to be developed irresponsibly by a single city," Save the Bay President William E. Siri told a news conference.

Novato To Negotiate For Office Annex Site

Novato Councilman M. E. Babe Silva last night was authorized to negotiate for the R. J. Busher property adjacent to the Novato police station for an addition to the city offices.

The city council had previously authorized former City Mgr. J. Julien Baget to negotiate, but he left office before negitations were completed.

Police Lt. Glenn Wright was authorized to go to Los Angeles for two day to investigate applicants for police positions in Novato. Five of the ast six men hired by the Novato Police Department have come from Southern California, reported Police Chief Robert Di Grazia. The department has openings for two officers and one cadet, according to the chief.

The council postponed until a closed session at its Oct. 8 meeting, consideration of an appointment to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council vacated by Baget, and the discussion of candidates for a human rights commission.

Contest Deadline

Friday is the deadline for sign-ups for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department's punt, pass and kick contest. Applications for boys, ages 8-13, are available at the community recreation center, 415 Sycamore Avenue.

LBJ Urges U.N. Effort For Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — "There is still hope," says President Johnson, "that the United Nations can help us find and implement an honorable settlement" to the Vietnam war.

Johnson made the statement yesterday in his annual report to Congress on U.S. participation in U.N. activities, but did not specify what role the world body could play in bringing a war settlement.

The President noted that peace-seeking efforts on Vietnam through the United Nations during 1967 were not successful.

Among those efforts was Secretary General U Thant's three-point plan for a U.S. bombing halt in North Vietnam, de-escalation of the fighting by both sides and a conference of the belligerents.

NOVATO PLANNING

Minority Hiring, Housing Studied

Suggestions on how Novato might attract applications from minority groups for city jobs and what the city council can do to get low cost housing for the city were made last night at a meeting of the Novato City Council and people concerned with minority group problems.

No formal action was taken by the council during the discussion with representatives of the Novatans for Racial Equality, the Marin County Human Rights Commission and Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The council set a special meeting for 8 p.m., Nov. 5 to continue the inquity.

L. Charles Smith of Novatoans for Racial Equality asked the city council: (1) to actively recruit black people for city employment; (2) to expand the leased housing program; (3) to hold a conference on Novato's social needs and goals and (4) to appoint a city human rights committee.

On the first point, Charles L. Foster, director of finance, reported that the city used local newspapers, papers in San Francisco, Sacramento, San Jose and Los Angeles, as well as other periodicals in recruiting for city employees, depending on the job.

Smith asked that the city use radio stations which cater to minority audiences. He was asked by the council to report at the Nov. 5 meeting on such costs so the city could make comparisons.

Clarence R. Johnson Sr. of HUD suggested that the city use the Urban League skills bank in San Francisco which is a clearing house for skilled personnel on a nationwide basis.

A suggestion that Novato use not only Marin County employment agencies but also those in Petaluma and Santa Rosa, was made by Weiland E. Potts, also of HUD.

"Land prices are strangling low cost housing; even the federal government cannot afford some land for low cost housing," Johnson said during the discussion.

Smith asked that the city direct the planning commission to lower the standards for housing in the city.

Mayor Harley McAskill said that the city did not direct the planning commission in such matters and that the city had the same codes as the state.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said that lot costs in Novato were $8,000 to $10,000 per developed lot where the same lot in Petaluma sells for $4,000 to $5,000.

Johnson said that before the council could consider any such course of action, it must first determine whether it wants low cost housing for sale or for rental.

Austin J. Thompson, director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission urged the appointment of a "miniboard" to advise the city council on the needs and wants of the community in dealing with minority groups. He said that Sausalito, San Anselmo and Mill Valley had such boards.

The council asked Thompson to furnish them with the ordinances or resolutions from these three cities for study before it would consider setting up such a board. The council also asked for the cost to the taxpayers in staff time for studies needed by the committee.

Womack said that he could see a duplication between the county and city staffs on the works of the committee.

Mayor McAskill said that when the council had more information on the scope of the problem, the needs of the community and interest in it, then he would be glad to call and preside over a conference, but not until then.

Nine Dogs Run Afoul Of Novato's New Law

The first day of the enforcement of Novato's strict dog leash law found nine dogs picked up by the city's new dog catcher, according to Novato Police Chief Robert Di Grazia.

Of the nine dogs picked up, five were identified by license tags and returned to owners, who were cited under the new city ordinance, Di Grazia said. The other four were taken to the new humane society pound on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, the chief said.

"It is true that just the threat of having their dogs picked up has made people keep them confined to their yards," the chief said. He said that his officers, in patroling the city, had made special note to watch for dogs.

"In neighborhoods where there had been numerous dogs, none could be found," the chief said.

New Panamanian President Sworn

PANAMA (AP) — Dr. Arnulfo Arias, sworn in as president yesterday, promised his first action will be to order a general audit of Panama's finances to expose the "reality of the frightful external and internal debt."

In his inaugural speech, Arias, beginning his third term in 20 years, said Panama is in a "state of lamentable fiscal bankruptcy."

The 67-year-old Arias, watched the largest military parade in recent memory here after taking office. He was twice overthrown as Panama's president.

Youth In Custody; Court Date Ordered

An attorney for David Clark Knowlton, 19, of Sonoma, entered a plea of innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge Knowlton had marijuana in his possession April 19.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., advised that Knowlton was in Sonoma in custody of the California Youth Authority, issued a bench warrant and an order to the CYA for his return. Preliminary hearing was set for 10 a.m. Oct. 8.

CRANSTON: The Fragile House That Alan Built

(This is the third of a series of five articles on Alan Cranston, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate, written for the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram and reprinted by permission.)

By FRANK ANDERSON

As necessity is the mother of invention, so is Alan Cranston the papa of the California Democratic Council, born in 1953 in the midst of state party despair and despression.

Organization of the CDC followed a Republican sweep in the general election of 1952. As a result of the landslide, the GOP held 111 of 162 elective partisan offices in California, with only one Democrat — Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown — holding partisan statewide office.

Up to 1953, when Democrats met at Stockton to ratify Cranston's proposal for developing a means of making pre-primary endorsements in Northern California, their party could boast only one Democratic governor in the 20th century. This was despite a Democratic voter registration edge of 3-2.

His formula for party pro-prosperity at the polls called for forming councils of Democratic clubs in each assembly and congressional district to work for the nomination of a single endorsed Democratic candidate in the primaries.

In November, 1953, more than 500 delegates met at Fresno to approve a CDC constitution.

AT THAT first session, John Despol, a Los Angeles CIO union leader, offered a motion to specifically bar Communists and fellow-travelers from the organization. The proposal was tabled, convention leaders claiming that the proposed CDC constitution already barred Reds by requiring members to support the state and national Democratic platforms. The convention then went on the elect Cranston the organization's first president.

Having buried party factionalism in a shallow grave, the CDC made the 1954 primary its first test of strength. All candidates endorsed by the organization won party nomination for statewide office, but in the November election all except Attorney General Brown lost to Republicans.

One of the losers was senatorial nominee Samuel W. Yorty, then a congressman and now mayor of Los Angeles. A fight over his endorsement left scars on the CDC, which in 1956 rejected Yorty in favor of the more liberal State Sen. Richard Richards for the U. S. Senate.

Yorty blasted Cranston and CDC officers, charging the convention which endorsed Richards was "wired, stacked and rigged" against him. He followed up these broadsides with a suit in which he sought to stop circulation of a party pamphlet supporting Richards' candidacy.

Named as defendants in the suit were Cranston, the CDC and Roger Kent, vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Yorty later dropped the legal action, but he never erased the CDC snub from his memory. He needled the CDC and Cranston through the years.

OTHER DEMOCRATS shared Yorty's view. It was pointed out that somehow, the more liberal candidates seemed to win CDC pre-primary endorsements with increasing regularity; and that as time went on, more liberal Democrats, and in some cases ultra-liberals, were gaining dominance in the grass-roots clubs.

Democrats, many of them with CDC endorsement, did well in 1956 legislative and congressional races, but the Republican Party was still king in Sacramento.

IN 1958 Alan Cranston had decided to lay claim to a portion of the kingdom and filed for the office of state controller. He resigned his CDC presidency and rode into office with a slate headed by Pat Brown. He was the first Democrat in 72 years to win the controller's office.

It was a big year for the CDC, which had seen all of its endorsees except the nominee for secretary of state elected. But it was also a year which revealed breaks in the hastily welded seams of party unity.

Under Joseph L. Wyatt, the Los Angeles attorney who had helped found the CDC and who had succeeded Cranston as president, the organization became a "children's crusade" of radical Young Democrats.

Wyatt, who had come out of the Young Democrats' ranks himself, either wouldn't or couldn't stop the CDC from taking ultra-liberal stands that embarrassed the party's office-holding professionals and made the CDC a target of opportunity for GOP candidates who blasted it as "the radical left wing of the Democratic Party."

The CDC called for admission of Red China to the United Nations and abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities among other things.

FOUNDER Cranston managed to beat down a CDC resolution calling for U. S. diplomatic recognition of the Peking government, but he said in a February, 1964, statement favoring trade with Communist countries that he "would not object" to trade with Red China in non-strategic materials. He dif-

Watson Deserves Credit; Prop. 9 Deserves Defeat

Los Angeles County Assessor Philip W. Watson deserves some credit.

So, for that matter, do the thousands of Californians who put their signatures to Watson's proposed constitutional amendment to qualify it for the Nov. 5 ballot as Proposition 9.

But if the proposition should pass, those thousands — along with all the rest of us — would be in for dark disillusionment. And state, counties, municipalities, school districts and special districts would be in deep fiscal trouble.

WATSON AND THE BACKERS of his amendment deserve credit for causing many Californians to take a look, for the first time, at what really happens to taxes.

As the voter examines Proposition 9, the "relief" it proposes is revealed as a cruel mirage. But an examination of it gives some needed insight into the tax structure.

HERE'S WHAT the Watson Amendment would do:

It would remove schools, welfare and anything else designated by the Legislature as "people-related" services from property tax support. And it would limit taxation of real property to one per cent of market value.

It would limit total bonded indebtedness against any real property in the state to 5 per cent of market value of the property, thus precluding any new bond issue for any purpose in many localities.

It would NOT provide one cent of revenue from any source to support schools or welfare.

It would NOT provide any way for funding major public construction, and by limiting the property tax to one per cent of market value, would make pay-as-you-go financing of such construction next to impossible.

It would NOT cut one cent from the expenses of government.

It would leave it up to the Legislature to finance schools, welfare and major public construction from some source other than the property tax. The probable — in fact, almost inevitable — choices would be vastly increased income and sales taxes.

THE AVERAGE PERSON who saved money on his property tax would have to pay out more money than before through increases in these other taxes.

Why more? Because the Watson Amendment would benefit one group: the holders of income-developing real estate and undeveloped lands. They would benefit from the reduced real estate taxes to far greater extent than they would be hit by the other increases. It is not by chance that the "Yes on 9" campaign is being carried on by a committee composed entirely of real estate brokers.

If ever there was a "soak the poor" proposal, Proposition 9 is it.

Nevertheless, its backers deserve credit for awakening Californians to the need for reform — not just in the tax structure, but in the spending of the taxes, which is where real tax relief must be found.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Labor Adds Powerful Voice To Calls For Tax Reform

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The growing demand for "tax reform" in California is such that the 1969 Legislature in all probability will have to do more to satisfy the concern of the citizenry.

Now labor has added its voice in increasing volume to the chorus heard throughout the state for reform of the tax structure. At the convention of the AFL-CIO California labor Federation recently in Sacramento, a policy statement was adopted asking a "top-to-botton" reform of the "extremely regressive state and local tax structure."

The statement asks specically for reform in the property tax field, and adoption of a pay-as-you-go withholding system for state income taxes, which the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan has opposed ever since it took office.

THE AFL-CIO claims the tax structure suffers from two basic defects, the first being that expenditures rise more rapidly than revenue with resulting fiscal crises, and that the federal tax structure, as far as income taxes are concerned, is full of loopholes which react to the benefit of the people most able to pay.

The state, of course, can do nothing about the federal tax structure. But it can do something about the state tax structure.

The increasing concern over the amounts of money the average citizen is forced to pay every year to maintain government resulted in Proposition 9, the initiative forcing a limit on property taxes, and caused the Legislature's afterthought measure, Proposition 1A, to be placed on the November ballot.

NEITHER PROPOSITION can be termed anything like complete tax reform, as both contemplate only a shifting of the tax burden from one segment of the population to another. If both are defeated Nov. 5, it will be nobody's loss, for the obvious reason that tax reform should contemplate some over-all reductions in revenue, rather than increases year after year.

These two propositions may force the Legislature out of its apathy, and cause it to start thinking about cutting expenditures.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Taxpayer Group Promotes Division

As a 50-year resident of Fairfax, I must reply to comments about the Fairfax City Council by Taxpayers for Planned Progress members J. Walla and E. R. Parkerson, both relative newcomers to our community. (I-J "Letters," Sept. 23).

Ironically, it is this very "taxpayer" group which is intentionally creating the 3-to-2 division in vote and opinion on the Fairfax City Council and bringing emotion, argument, abuse, diatribe and demonstration to our Council chambers. Walla, Parkerson and their group are supported by two present council members, hence the rather consistent 3-2 split.

Walla and Parkerson were little concerned about the former 4-1 Council when present Mayor Robert Souza fought alone against some of the grandiose plans the county had for Fairfax. The April election bought into office two councilmen who opposed certain features of the county master plan. The official "bond committee" appointed by the prior 4-1 council to push the civic center bond issue went underground as "Taxpayers for Planned Progress" and failed miserably in the June election.

Since then the members of this group have regularly come to council sessions in sufficient numbers to carry out their promise that they would create trouble for the next two years. It is they who are making an issue of "whose side you're on." What Walla, Parkerson and their organization are trying to accomplish is certainly not the betterment of Fairfax.

In view of current developments and attitudes, I feel that Fairfax Planning Commissioner E. R. Parkerson, who is also a member of the county planning staff, is suffering from a distinct conflict of interest.

Something Besides Violence Helps

It has not gone un-noticed by me that over the past few months the Independent-Journal has had beautiful pictures with interesting and constructive articles appearing on the front page.

I would hope that this will continue as it is most refreshing to be able to pick up a paper and not always have violence staring one in the face.

Perhaps your constructive ideas will catch on in some of our neighbor newspapers as well.

Cleaver Editorial Naive, Ignorant

Your editorial in the Sept. 26 issue condemning the appointment of Edlridge Cleaver to U. C. as a guest lecturer was both naive and ignorant. You stated, "he is not entitled to appear as a university faculty member." Well, just who is entitled? When will hack politicians stop interfering in academic affairs? Reagan and Rafferty preach more hate and racism than Cleaver is capable of. I think what Reagan and Rafferty are really saying is that they do not want the university to reflect the problems of the larger community. The truth is what their (sic) afraid of and that is what Mr. Cleaver will reveal when he elctures.

Humphrey's Chance In Michigan Dimmed By Deep Divisions

DETROIT — If there is one big-city state Hubert Humphrey has a chance to carry it is Michigan. The latest Detroit News statewide poll showed Humphrey and Richard Nixon running even, with 33 per cent each, 14 per cent for George Wallace and 19 per cent undecided.

But such are the deep divisions within industrial Michigan and the forces normally behind the Democratic ticket have mobilized so belatedly that the odds today are probably against the Humphrey-Muskie ticket. With the election only six weeks away, it is astonishing to find no real Humphrey organization at work. Mayor Jerome Cavanagh agreed to be co-chairman of a Humphrey committee but he has since had no word about organizing plans.

THE RACIAL tensions in Detroit are an open wound stemming from the riot of a year ago. The hostility on both sides of the black and white divide is such that the fact there has been no new outbreak seems little short of miraculous. Quick police action is credited with checking a new wave after the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. in April.

Negro leaders, such as Rep. John Conyers Jr., unchallenged for re-election in November, accuse the Detroit police of consistent and unremitting police brutality to Conyers' Negro constituents. Conyers says he spends most of his time interceding for them. He speaks bitterly of his conviction that the Kerner commission's finding of a racist America is literal truth.

On the other side, angry whites tell tales of Negro provocation and Negro crime. Out at the Ford River Rouge plant this reporter heard a long account from a white worker of how four Negroes refused to obey a police request not to park in a no-parking area, how they tried to seize the policeman's gun, and how they were finally subdued and hauled off to the station in three squad cars. Such tales with lurid embellishments in sulphurous language are the staple of white tavern conversation.

The Negro leadership is far from unified. State Sen. Coleman Young, recently named Democratic national committeeman, wants to run for mayor next year. In Detroit's population of something over 1,700,000, about 45 per cent is Negro. But whether Young would get the support of other Negro leaders is doubtful.

A rupture at the top level in organized labor has handicapped the Democrats. Walking out of the AFL-CIO and taking the UAW with him, Walter Reuther set out to form what is to be a new labor federation. He is devoting his great organizing capability to his Alliance for Labor Action.

BECAUSE OF the break with the AFL, the Auto Workers failed to come together in the AFL-CIO Council to do the organizing job that has meant so much to Democrats in past elections. Only recently have they joined ranks, thanks to the urging of Augustus Scholle, veteran head of the council.

It is a paradox of this strange time that with all the indicators showing a record income level and unemployment all but nonexistent, except for a minority in the ghettos, the party in power should be in such deep trouble everywhere. Part of the paradox is the desperate plight of the cities, with Detroit a dramatic case in point. The city government faces a $10 million deficit as services deteriorate and the state legislature refuses to increase the commuter tax while upping the Detroit payroll tax to 2 per cent, thus supplying one more incentive for the flight to the suburbs.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

'Feds' Eye Crackdown On Gas Station Games

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department are eyeing an $85 million-a-year oil company outlay on those lottery-like games which have replaced high octane as the pulling power for your neighborhood gas station.

The FTC, government watchdog on advertising, has promised a crackdown. For the present, however, the marketing battle between sweepstakes, matching coupons and other merchandising games-of-chance goes on without regulation or restraint.

THE QUESTION for federal authorities is whether this sort of competition by near-gambling is automatically licensed in a free enterprise economy, as a legitimate competitive practice. Interests of gas station operators are involved along with those of the consumer.

The cash and the sports cars do not really come for nothing, of course. According to data assembled by a House subcommittee, 11 major oil companies spent $18 million in about a year on game materials, $23 million for the prizes and a whopping $44 million to advertise the games.

While many drive-in participants do not realize it, filling station operators pay a part of the cost. By purchasing game coupons at 1½ or 2 cents each they anted up $32 million, according to the congressional survey, and their customers took home prizes worth about $24 million at retail prices.

FEDERAL ACTION, when and if it comes, could well be a precedent, for similar promotions are used by supermarkets and other retailers.

A couple of states, Maryland and Massachusetts, have already acted to outlaw such games inside their borders, but the state laws are apparently headed for court tests.

From the consumer point of view, of course, the game should be honest, and participation free, as advertised. From the station operator's standpoint, participation should be voluntary. Those points were put in question at the subcommittee hearings.

The testimony suggested that some of the games have occasionally been subject to manipulation by unscrupulous station operators or their suppliers. For example, an Easton, Pa., station operator testified he was given a winning coupon (for more than $500) by a jobber and told to give it to a good customer to popularize the Humble Oil and Refining Co. game, "Tigerama."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Yes, Arabella, There Really Is A Lettuce Cigarette With Filter

A few weeks back, this column told about a boy entering a San Rafael store to ask for a match to light his cigarette — which he insisted was made of lettuce, not tobacco. A clerk in the store was puzzled because the cigarette had a filter.

Now along comes Hal A. Dawson of Thomas J. Tierney & Associates, a Houston, Tex., public relations firm, to verify that there is a lettuce cigarette with a filter.

Not only that, but Dawson objects to unfavorable remarks about the taste and smell of lettuce cigarettes made by Dr. Gerald Hill, chairman of the Marin County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health. Dawson asks "equal time."

DAWSON'S INTEREST is that his public relations outfit represents Bravo Smokes, Inc., a Dallas company that makes cigarettes out of lettuce.

According to a handout enclosed with Dawson's letter, Bravo Smokes has been reorganized and has on the market a "totally new and completely different" lettuce cigarette, named Triumph.

Bravo Smokes, it seems, was organized in 1965 to produce lettuce cigarettes under the name of Bravo. But, according to Bedford S. Wynne, its executive vice president and general manager, the "taste and odor were generally unacceptable."

(It must have been a Bravo that Dr. Hill tried; he reported you could scarcely stand to be in the same room with it.)

The Bravo was such a nonsuccess that Bravo Smokes went bankrupt. But it has been reorganized, has acquired new patents, and come out with the new lettuce cigarette, Triumph.

"We are certain that Triumph is far superior to the original Bravo," Wynne was quoted as saying, "and we know the demand for a non-nicotine smoke exists. We are confident the new product will be accepted not only in Texas but throughout the United States."

PUBLICIST DAWSON, a thorough man, sent along two packs of Triumphs to prove that they provide, in his words, "a non-nicotine smoke that the public will not only accept but enjoy."

I tried one. The odor, on the first puff, was vaguely reminiscent of chocolate candy. There was little taste — on the first puff.

On the second puff, the odor and taste grew stronger. After the third puff, I was inclined to agree with Dr. Hill.

Sorry, Dawson. Anyhow, you got equal time.

COURTHOUSE SQUARE — Rumor has it that a bona fide offer for the courthouse square in San Rafael will be presented to the county board of supervisors within a few days. The developer, whose name has not yet been disclosed, reportedly has a proposal which has received the approval of engineer Daniel P. Coleman, on whose plan for the square the present zoning is based, and which is regarded as likely to get the "OK" of the San Rafael planning commission and city council. The "iffy" part involves how much money the county would be offered for the property, which will be surplus after the move to the new Hall of Justice at the Civic Center — sometime early next year.

ART BUCHWALD

It's Really A Wonderful Year —If Your Name Is Mrs. Robinson

WASHINGTON — In the movie "The Graduate," the hero, Dustin Hoffman, is seduced by a Mrs. Robinson. Thanks to a hit song written and sung by Simon and Garfunkel, "Mrs. Robinson" has now become part of American folklore. I hadn't realized the impact of the film or the song until I started talking the other day with a friend of mine who happened to have the same name.

This Mrs. Robinson, a middle-aged lady, said that because of "The Graduate" she's had a new lease of life.

"I didn't realize what was going on at first," she said. "But then one day as I paid my bill at the grocer's with a check, the young man behind the counter winked at me and started singing, 'Jesus loves you more than will know — wo, wo, wo.'

"A few days later, as I was getting gas for my car, I handed over my credit card and when the young man looked at it, he whistled and said, 'Where are you going tonight, Mrs. Robinson?'

"AT FIRST I was going to complain to the manager, but then I thought to myself, 'If I got two passes in one week, there must be something more to this than I'm aware of.'

"I discovered what was up when my teen-age son said, 'All the guys want to meet you, Mom.'

"What on earth for?'

"He just laughed and said, 'Heaven holds a place for those who pray—hey, hey, hey. Hey, hey, hey.'

"I got mad and said, 'Stop this drivel. What's going on with you kids these days?'

"He brought down the Simon and Garfunkel record and said, 'Coo coo ca-choo, Mrs. Robinson'."

MRS. ROBINSON continued: "When I heard the record I was flabbergasted, and when I went to see the movie 'The Graduate,' I was dumfounded. I wondered how many Mrs. Robinsons were being defamed because of one Mrs. Robinson who had gone astray."

"What could you do about it without changing your name?" I said.

"I gave it some thought and I decided the worst thing to do was fight it. So now when the grocery boy winks at me, I wink back; and when the gas station attendant starts getting fresh, I just start singing, 'Where have you gone Joe DiMaggio, a nation turns its lonely eyes on you, ooo, ooo, ooo'."

"What about your son's friends?"

"They're around the house all the time. Before the film came out they never talked to me. Now they invite me to join all their conversations, and they are interested in everything I have to say."

"WHAT DOES Mr. Robinson have to say about all this?"

"That's the amazing thing. With all this hubbub going on with the kids, he's suddenly taken a new interest in me, and for the first time in 10 years he's jealous. Every time someone sings, 'Put it in your pantry with your cupcakes. It's a little secret—the Robinsons' affair,' he seethes with rage. It's nice still to be wanted when your kids are in high school."

"I guess in the long run then, this has been a good year for the Mrs. Robinsons of this world."

"Let's say it was a bonus that none of us expected. God bless you please, Simon and Garfunkel."

As I shook hands with her an amazing thing happened. For the first time I noticed that Mrs. Robinson looked very attractive, almost, I might say, beautiful.

"Well, goodby," she said in a lovely, lilting voice.

Somehow the magic had worked. As I walked away, I started singing, "What's that you say, Mrs. Robinson? Joltin' Joe has left and gone away. Hey, hey, hey. Hey, hey, hey."

CRANSTON

fered sharply with the CDC on the HCUA issue.

This earned him the organization's scorn, and ultimately the council endorsed State Sen. Anthony Beilenson of Beverly Hills over him in the 1968 senatorial primary.

The situation got so bad for the party that Governor Brown, long a Cranston supporter, intervened in 1966 and demanded the resignation of Simon Casady, CDC president and harsh cirite of the national administration's Vietnam policy.

Brown "got" Casady. Cranston in a less active role spoke out on the CDC convention floor against what he termed Casady's "runious rule." But the Republicans continued to charge the CDC was an extremist organization, comparable in its way to the John Birch Society so bitterly lambasted by Cranston.

Stern parent though he was, Cranston staunchly defended the right of his unruly CDC offspring to take ultra-liberal positions. Or at least he did away from the CDC halls. Party office-holders, Cranston included, made it a ritual to disassociate themselves from the more radical CDC stands.

Casady wondered aloud why Brown-Cranston forces had bankrolled his campaign for the CDC presidency only to turn on him when he was elected.

ONE OF the CDC founders (not Cranston) has appraised the organization thus:

"The CDC has become more of an organization of 'eggheads' preoccupied with 'globalony' talk about world affairs rather than practical politics on the local level."

So in a perverse sort of way the CDC may have done Cranston a favor by not endorsing him in his senatorial primary race with Beilenson.

Cranston doesn't say so, of course, but there appears to be a note of relief in his voice when he tells a reporter:

"I am the CDC's founding father but not its favorite son."

Also not the CDC's favorite son is Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, who has long waged open warfare with the Cranston-founded federation of councils and at times, with Cranston.

Unruh, in fact, established a rival organization, the Democratic Volunteers Committee, and subsequently proceeded to get many state legislative candidates to run under its colors in 1964. One of them was Pierre Salinger, who defeated CDC-endorsed Cranston for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

Unruh, a practical politician dedicated to the first three rules of politics — elect, elect, elect — resents the CDC's actions of endorsing candidates and making policy statements. And he is not alone in his resentment.

In 1957, a letter signed by Governor Brown and 20 other leading Democrats, praised Alan Cranston as "the person most responsible for today's standing of the CDC in the eyes of policital leaders everywhere."

Perhaps it's not surprising to find the 1957 letter unmentioned in the Cranston campaign literature of 1968.

The CDC is handled this way in the paper entitled, "Alan Cranston A Man for All Californians":

"A backer of Adlai Stevenson in the 1952 campaign, Cranston helped found the California Democratic Council and became its first president the following year. He served for five years, resigning as leader of the organization when he ran for state controller.

"Composed of independent-thinking Democrats, the CDC and its equally independent-thinking founder have disagreed on a number of issues in recent years, and agreed on others. Although he was CDC's founding father, Cranston is not now CDC's favorite son."

Thus speaks a candidate who has attempted to remove a hair shirt and hang it in the closet with mothballs.

But the hair shirt could be comfortably warm in the election years of 1958, 1962, 1964 and 1966 when he sought an received CDC endorsement of his candidacies.

Four years ago, Cranston was as warm toward the CDC as he was hot in his remarks toward Jesse Unruh. To wit:

"Unruh has been at loggerheads with me for the past six years because I support the CDC — an organization of 70,000 working Democrats who rightfully demand a voice in the policies of their party.

"But Unruh doesn't approve of the CDC. He thinks party power should come from the top, not the bottom — with Jesse at the top."

On Aug. 28, 1968, Cranston told this reporter his quarrel with Unruh "is all patched up." If true, major suturing was involved, for in 1964 the Unruh-Cranston relationship had more cleavage than a convention of Playboy bunnies.

The controller's (Cranston's) power to appoint inheritance tax appraisers made the system a "corrupting influence" and it is "absolutely essential that the appointments be taken away from him."

But the appointive power remained, and Cranston did want the controller's post in 1958 and 1962 and got it each time with CDC blessing during the organization's most liberal years. He also wanted it a third time in 1966 but was denied, just as he had been denied senatorial nomination in the no-holds-barred senatorial campaign of 1964.

The issue of inheritance tax appraisers played a major role in each denial, as we shall see in the next chapter.

"I read 250 words per minute and I got through college. If that was good enough for me, it's good enough for my kid."

Sure, you can still get through college if you're a "normal" student reading at the average rate of 250 to 400 words per minute. It just means that throughout your college career you'll spend over 5,000 hours doing just your required reading! And that's a shame, because you could save at least 3,700 of those hours. How? By learning to read at least three times faster.

For five years now the Reading Dynamics Institute has guaranteed to at least triple your reading speed or refund your entire tuition. Thousands of people throughout the Bay Area have taken up this offer and are now reading 3 to 10 times faster. Results? Hundreds, even thousands, of irreplaceable hours saved for them to invest as they choose. Businessmen and professional people now spend more time in productive work. High school and college students have time for campus activities and taking "want to" courses, raising their grade point average, or holding down a part-time job. Imagine, if a student could cut 3,700 hours of his required reading time and invested only 2,500 of those hours in a job that paid $1.75 an hour, he could earn $4,375.00.

Reading Dynamics is an incredible education breakthrough. It is the definitive rapid reading method in the world today because their graduates consistently surpass the 450 to 600 words per minute rates aspired to by conventional reading courses. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute. Many go higher, and all understand and appreciate what they read at these staggering speeds.

FREE READING DYNAMICS MINI-LESSON

Does Reading Dynamics really work? Well there is one way to find out. Come to one of the free Reading Dynamics Mini-Lessons listed below. Whether you are out of school or in, you'll find the Mini-Lesson an exciting hour well spent. You'll learn what Reading Dynamics is all about and all of your questions will be answered. And since the Mini-Lesson is a miniature version of a Reading Dynamics class, you will probably leave reading a little faster than when you came in. Of course, if you want to read a lot faster for the rest of your life you will have to sign up for the course.

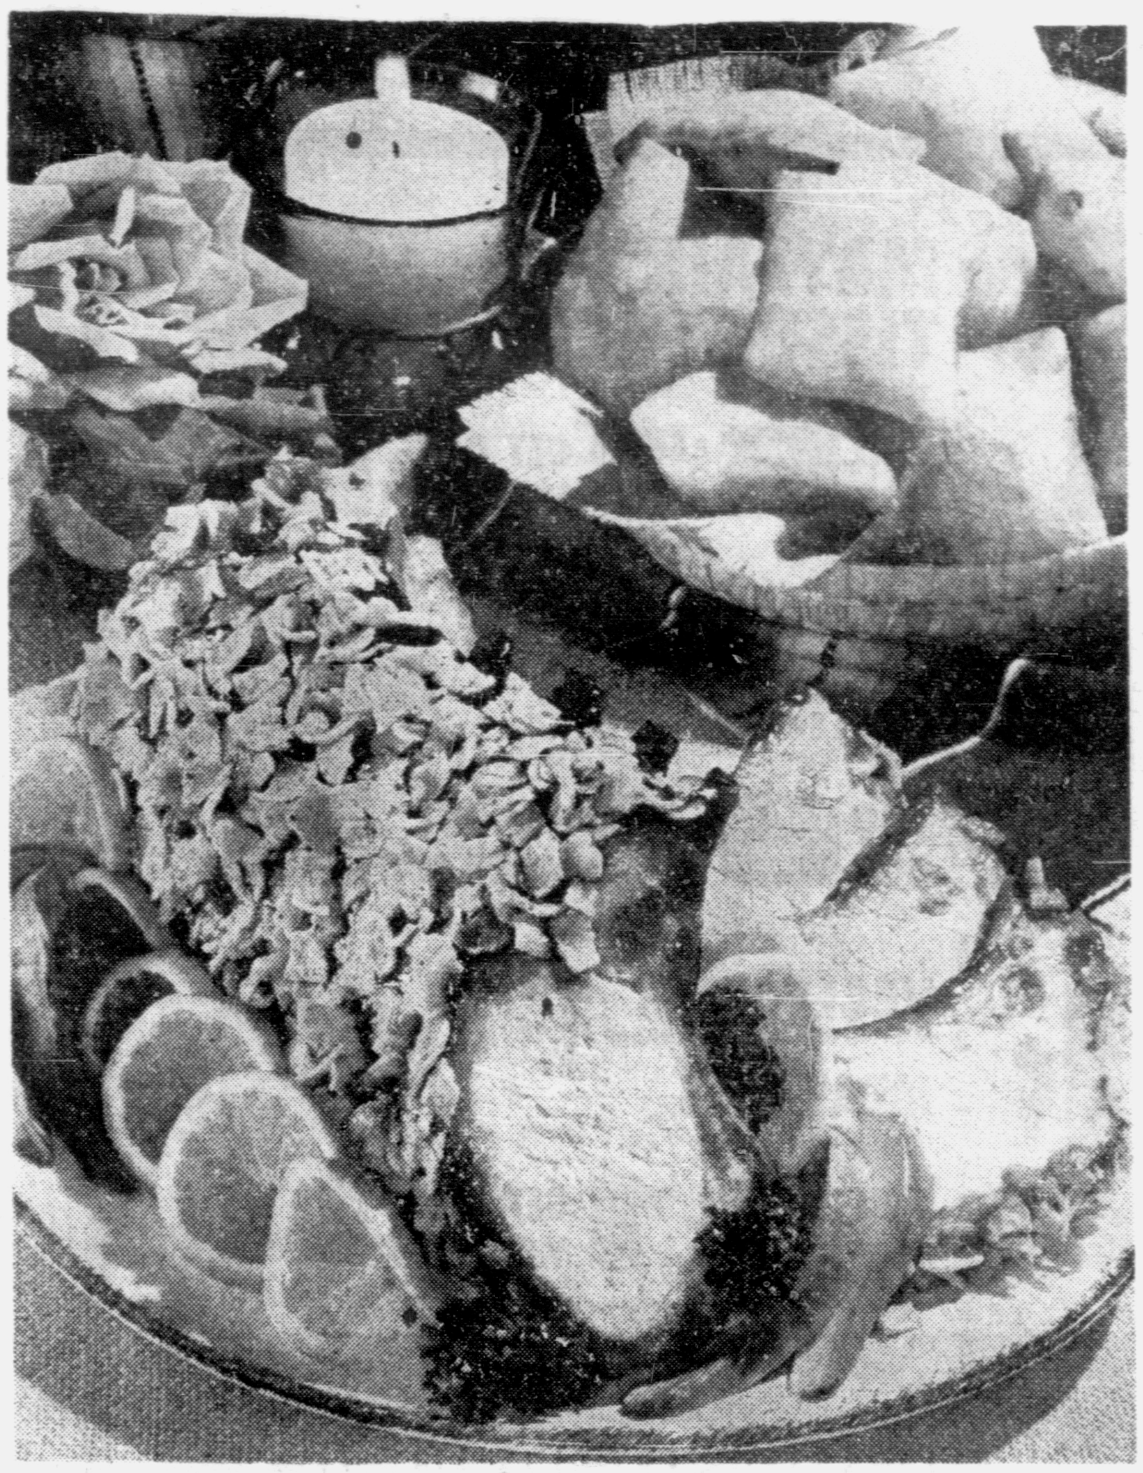
Serve A Pork Roast In Mexican Style



MEXICAN cooks give pork a subtle seasoning for an exciting flavor. A barbecue glaze and crunchy top make an elegant roast.

If your friends and family have been taking your cooking for granted lately, here's a dish that is sure to impress them. Mexican-Style Pork Loin Roast looks unlike any roast you've ever served with its ruby-red glaze studded with a crispy crust of corn chips. But it is the marvelous flavor combination of pork with the barbecue glaze and crunchy topping that will win the compliments.

If you think of Mexican cuisine as just tortillas and hot sauce, you will be pleasantly surprised at the exquisite flavor of this dish. It's been long known that Mexican cooks do great things with pork, and here's proof.

For a memorable meal, garnish the roast with orange slices, avocado wedges and green grapes to give it a south-of-the-border look. The menu could include green beans with almonds and a chopped cabbage-pineapple salad in cream dressing. For a truly authentic touch, you might want to serve with butter and honey sopaipillas (prepared from a mix) or quartered and crisp-fried tortillas (available packaged, canned or frozen).

MEXICAN-STYLE ROAST LOIN OF PORK

4 to 5-pound pork loin roast
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup apple jelly
½ cup catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1½ cups (regular size) corn chips, crushed to make ¾ cup coarse crumbs
1 avocado, peeled and sliced for garnishing, optional
2 oranges, sliced for garnishing, optional
Green grapes, for garnishing, optional

Place pork roast, fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Combine ½ teaspoon chili powder, garlic salt and salt; mix and rub over surface of meat. Insert meat thermometer point to center of lean part of loin, away from bone. Roast in slow oven (325°F.) until done, 2½ to 2¾ hours, or to an internal temperature of 170° F. While meat is roasting, prepare glaze. Combine jelly, catsup, vinegar and remaining chili powder; heat until jelly is melted. Simmer gently 2 minutes. Brush ½ of the sauce over roast 30 minutes before end of roasting time.

Roast 15 minutes; brush with remaining sauce and sprinkle with corn chips. Roast 15 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes; carve several slices and garnish, if desired, with sliced avocado and oranges and green grapes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

A Peach Cobbler Featuring Crusty Sconeflower Topping

Cling or freestone, cousin to the cherry, apricot and almond, the golden velvet-skinned peach is irreplacable. Here it's baked fresh in a delightful deep dish dessert — Sconeflower Peach Cobbler.

SCONEFLOWER PEACH COBBLER

Makes 8 servings

Peach Filling:
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoons ginger
1 cup water
4 cups sliced fresh peaches*

Scone Topping:
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
½ cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1 egg

Heat oven to hot (400°F.) For filling, combine sugar, cornstarch and ginger in large saucepan. Gradually blend in water. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened. Add peaches; keep hot while preparing topping.

For topping, sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Break egg into measuring cup and beat slightly with fork. Add enough milk to measure ½ cup. Add egg-milk mixture to flour mixture; stir with fork until dough can be formed into ball.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few seconds. Roll out to ½-inch thickness. Cut with floured doughnut cutter to make 8 circles. Do not remove centers. With floured scissors, make five snips around edge of each circle, to resemble petals. Sprinkle with sugar.

Pour hot filling into 9-inch square baking pan. Arrange scone circles with centers on top of filling in a circle, with one in center. Bake in preheated oven (400°F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until scones are golden brown. Serve hot or cold. Top with cream or whipped cream.

*NOTE: Thawed frozen peaches can be used in place of fresh peaches. Drain well, reserving 1 cup syrup. Use peach syrup in place of water. Reduce sugar to ½ cup cornstarch to 2 tablespoons.

THIS COBBLER is good when fresh peaches are in the market and in later months using thawed frozen peaches. Make it ahead and serve it cold, or for a special treat, bring it to the table hot from the oven. The "Sconeflower" top is made in the Scottish tradition of the scone. A whipped cream topping is optional.

How To Prepare, Roast Boneless Rolled Turkey

Frozen rolled turkey roasts offer preparation convenience as well as serving and penny-saving features. They're available raw, fully-cooked, or smoked, and are made either of all white meat, or all dark meat, or a combination.

A BONELESS turkey roast which is primarily white meat may tend to be dry unless care is taken in thawing and baking.

If frozen, leave the roast in its original wrapper and allow to thaw in the refrigerator for 1 to 2 days (preferably), or under cold running water. (Frozen rolls may be roasted, but take ½ hour longer than the ordinary baking time; especial care should be taken during the cooking period to see that they don't dry out.) Remove the wrapper, leaving the string in place while cooking.

To bake, preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse the roll with water, drain and pat dry. If the roast has not been pre-seasoned, rub lightly with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in a shallow baking pan, then brush with melted butter. Place in the preheated oven, basting occasionally with melted butter or drippings. If the roast becomes too brown during cooking, cover with a loose tent of aluminum foil.

Bake until done. A meat thermometer inserted in the center of the roll should register 170-175 degrees F. Let stand 20 to 30 minutes before slicing' to allow the meat to absorb juices. Remove string, and using a sharp knife, slice thinly at an angle.

ROLLED TURKEY roasts adapt well to the rotisserie. Rinse the thawed roll with cold water, drain, and pat dry. Again, if not pre-seasoned, rub lightly with salt and pepper. Insert rotisserie spit rod through the center length of the turkey roll. Insert skewers firmly in place in the roast and screw tightly. Test to ensure the roll is balanced on the spit, so that it will rotate smoothly throughout the cooking period.

Place spit in the rotisserie, and brush the roll with melted butter. Follow rotisserie manufacturer directions for temperature setting, and roast until done; no further basting will be necessary. To test doneness, insert the meat thermometer into the center of the roll, being careful not to touch the spit. The temperature should again register 170-175 degrees F. when the turkey meat is cooked. Allow to sit for 20 to 30 minutes, then slice.

BONELESS TURKEY roasts should be cooked as follows:

Weight 3 to 5 pounds, oven at 350 degrees, 2½ to 3¼ hours, in- with internal temperature reaching 170 degrees.

Weight 5 to 7 pounds, oven at 350 degrees, 2½ to 3 hours, internal temperature reaching 170 degrees.

Weight 7 to 9 pounds, oven at 350 degrees, 3¼ to 4 hours, internal temperature reaching 170 degrees.

1 Both knees of these permanent press trousers were equally dirty, but one knee was sprayed... thoroughly... with Spray 'n Wash.

2 After one minute, the trousers were put in the washer, and washed with the rest of the laundry. As you can see...

3 ... Only the knee where Spray 'n Wash was used is completely clean. On the other knee, bleach and detergent alone left some stains behind.

Gifts Presented In Unusual Wraps

By MOLLY MARIN

An unusual shower was held for John Pritchard when his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindauer, honored him at their home in the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato at a buffet supper.

John, who will claim Holly Sims of Lafayette as his bride on Oct. 26, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pritchard of San Rafael.

Gifts included a variety of tools and bar accessories, all elaborately wrapped in newspaper.

Attending the party with his bride-elect were John's parents and his brother and sisters, Leslie, Sydney and David Pritchard; Holly's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. William Sims and Robie of Lafayette; Holly's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ries of Walnut Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Ibanez and Timmy of San Rafael, Mrs. A. B. Stockton of Kentfield; and Claudine Montvernay of San Anselmo.

MR. AND MRS. Chester MacPhee of the Country Club Estates entertained members of the homeowner's association at their home. Guests spent most of the evening playing dominoes.

LINDSAY BROOKE, of Dutch Flat, formerly of Belvedere, will accompany her grandmother, Mrs. James Lewis on a trip to San Anselmo this fall. Mrs. Lewis, a longtime Belvedere resident, recently moved to San Francisco. Lindsay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooke of Dutch Flat.

LAST SUMMER Richard Kiley, the star of "Man of La Mancha," his wife and family lived in the apartment on the Tiburon waterfront, which was seriously damaged by fire late Sunday night. The apartment where the Kileys stayed was in the back of the Main Street building which formerly housed the Tiburon Gallery, and had recently been used for antiques and auctions.

CHILDHOOD FRIENDS and neighbors in the Marin Country Club Estates were included on the guest list of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Isaac, when they entertained at a barbecue at their home. The 130 guests, some from Los Angeles and Chicago, took turns barbecuing during the evening.

HEADING THE annual wine tasting festival of the International Hospitality Center, which will honor the San Francisco consular corps tomorrow night, is Richard C. Otter of Belvedere. The special guests, members and their friends will gather at the DeYoung Museum for the wine tasting event.

Teens Make Decisions, Pamphlets Available

WASHINGTON, D.C. (WMNS) — Being a teen-ager is synonymous with being a decision-maker. All teen-agers wrestle with such crucial matters as how to handle sexual drives, how to choose a career, how to become independent of parents without rejecting them. One decision that is virtually inescapable for American teenagers is whether or not to drink.

A boy or girl confronting this problem can receive first class help on making responsible decisions about drinking from the pamphlet, "Thinking About Drinking," produced by the Children's Bureau and the National Institute of Mental Health.

The pamphlet doesn't say drink or don't drink. It does not present drinking as the road to ruin. It points out that we are a drinking nation, since two of three Americans over 21 use alcohol. It urges young people to explore their own feelings about drinking. It presents insights on what the experience of other teen agers is on drinking (an average of about 60 per cent of teen-agers say they have used alcohol before leaving high school).

By means of a quiz, the pamphlet presents the facts about alcohol: How and in what length of time the body absorbs it; its effect on the mind and body; individual differences in response to alcohol, the difference between distilled and fermented alcohol. It spells out why people react so differently to alcohol.

"Thinking About Drinking" may be obtained for 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Social Services, One World Are Topics Of Conferences

By GRACE HENDERSON

MISS HELEN CALLBECK

"We are lucky in Marin in that we have so many social services," said Miss Helen Callbeck of San Rafael in recounting her vacation experiences of this summer. Miss Callbeck attended three conferences during her four week vacation, all overseas. The first was the International Conference of Social Welfare held in Helsinki, Finland.

Marin's social welfare programs are commendable when compared to other sections of the United States and some parts of the world, Miss Callbeck stated as she told of comparing information with other delegates at the conference which drew more than 2,200 to the Finland capital.

She told of the Scandinavian countries and Great Britain being ahead of the United States in the actual breadth and depth of availability of services.

For instance, Finland has a program of Homemakers Services. Members of this department are available to perform household chores of an ill or absent mother, temporarily take over the care of children in the home, or do general tasks related to keeping homes intact during emergencies.

Personnel for this department attend a training school for 21 months before reporting to a home for work. The number of Homemakers depends directly on the population of the town.

Marin County does not have this service available, but Miss Callbeck expressed a wish that it might be incorporated into services of the Marin County Department of Public Social Services where she is a consultant. Offices are in the Civic Center here.

The Social Services department was formerly named the "Welfare Office" but the word "welfare" has been changed. Miss Callbeck was emphatic in her disdain for the connotations connected with the term "welfare state." "What do they want, an ill-fare state?" she asked.

Miss Callbeck was accompanied to the conference by Mrs. Julia Rose Phillips of Mill Valley who is associated with the State Department of Social Welfare (SCSW).

From the International Conference of Social Welfare at Helsinki, Miss Callbeck and Mrs. Phillips went to Interlaken, Switzerland, for the first World Constitutional Convention. They boarded a sleeper train which brought an unusual experience. To reach Interlaken several bodies of water had to be crossed, so the railway cars were put aboard a ferry and transported to the other side where they continued on their way. "I was sound asleep the first time that happened," said Miss Callbeck, "and heard about it later."

In Interlaken, the women were met by Mrs. Altheya Clark Youngman of Sausalito, a public relations consultant at the International Center in San Francisco. Mrs. Youngman was an official delegate to the convention, representing the artists' colony which she founded.

The conference, sponsored by the World Constitution and Parliament Association with headquarters in Denver, Colo., sought to promote its theme: "People of the world must direct action to bring about global order under law."

More than 200 persons attended to compare recommendations and set up study groups to work in the interim between conventions. Thirty countries were represented by the 150 persons attending, and 35 were from the United States.

World citizens from five continents, every major religion, every color, representing rich and poor countries, old and young, all worked together demonstrating in operation what they propose to establish into law: "That people are essentially of one family of

Drop Outs May Set New Values

First of a series on the symposium "Uses of Freedom: the Teen-Agers Quest," just held by the University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

In many ways the hippies and their equivalents in other nations can be seen as a vanguard of a new culture of leisure, already glimpsed in the advanced countries as the work week diminishes.

This view of the contemporary adolescent and young adult is advanced by Dr. Kenneth Keniston, author of "The Uncommitted," and "The Young Radicals," and associate professor of psychology at the Yale University School of Medicine's department of psychiatry.

"It may be that in 50 years we will look back on the hippies as the first to begin to explore seriously the human meaning of leisure in a world where work has lost most of its importance," he told the audience of educators, physicians, social workers and youths at the University of California Medical Center symposium.

HE SUGGESTED that in tomorrow's world that it may be exploration of the senses, intense focus on personal relationships, and exploration of the realms of art, music and experience rather than work that will become the primary source of fulfillment.

"Perhaps the hippies — 'voluntary drop-outs' — are preparing the way for the day in which most Americans will be compulsory 'force-outs' from the productive process,'' Dr. Keniston said.

It's not that American society has failed, as some argue today, he said. Rather, it's the opposite.

"Our society has succeeded in many realms far beyond all expectation. It has exceeded its goals, and has no new ones. Lacking new goals, it has become exhausted by its success," he said.

And while material conditions and opportunities for choice are in many ways greater and better than ever before in history, the result is that this is an era of unprecedented student protest and unrest, the psychologist stated.

IN STUDYING the contemporary adolescent, Dr. Keniston said that one of the most paradoxical facts about student unrest in America is that the student protestors (and he excepts the black militant and other ethnic movements) are an elite group. They are socially and economically privileged, secure in status and intellectually superior. They are the "haves" of American society.

He said that studies made on "student rebels" show them to have had an even better life before college than the less-rebellious majority of their classmates. Also, he pointed out that student protest has been at its height in colleges where "objective conditions" are best —the small, progressive liberal arts colleges and great state universities.

"Colleges with fewer amenities, less faculty-student contact, and a more impoverished intellectual and social life have been quiescent," Dr. Keniston said.

He pointed out also that the countries that have been scenes of student unrest were those with advanced technology — America, Germany, Japan, France and Italy, where economic, social and in many cases political conditions were good.

WHILE ON the surface puzzling, these facts, said Dr. Keniston, are natural when explained by the theory of exhaustion through success of the values of production.

"When the values and institutions of industrial society become devitalized for the young, the elite sectors of youth — the most affluent, intelligent and privileged — come to feel that they live in institutions that lack moral authority, 'credibility'."

The work ethic that propels a people toward production, abundance, acquisition and materialism no longer applies in an increasingly "have" society, Dr. Keniston said, excluding, of course, the pockets of poverty existing in these abundant societies.

DISAGREEING WITH the New Left view that this country is run by an "establishment" or unified, monolithic, consistent power structure, Dr. Keniston said that, nevertheless, that students who talk about the Establishment are referring to something that is to them quite real. They are reacting to their sense of the exhaustion of the old order, he said.

Speaking of value systems and idealologies, the New Left may be correct in perceiving that basic value assumptions of those who occupy power positions in institutions today date from an earlier era, whose goals are now felt to be irrelevant by some of today's youth, Dr. Keniston stated.

"In a situation where youth sees older values and their representatives as irrelevant, it does not take much to trigger a major protest."

In fact, he said, conditions, including the position of blacks in this country, the Vietnam war, and dishonesty and hypocrisy of officials or administrators, are not vastly more outrageous than before in history. And conditions of students have never been so good, especially at elite colleges where protest has been most common.

"BUT THIS is precisely the point," Dr. Keniston said. "It is because some things are good, . . . because many of the problems of American society have been resolved in principle, that students can react with new indignation to existing injustices, turn to new goals and propose radical reforms."

Student unrest today marks the end of an historical era, as did the French and American revolutions, Dr. Keniston believes.

He does not see the next era as inevitably more progressive, better or more humane, and concedes that what is happening in developed nations is not happening in the underdeveloped, rather that the gap is widening. And he concedes that the corrosive pace of social change is leaving behind an increasing number of Americans alienated from the status quo in a different way from the youth elite.

But, he says, "we are moving from an era geared to solving the problem of material production to an era whose goals are not clear, and as a result the older values, institutions and personal characteristics which were needed to get us where we are have lost much of their vitality for the more affluent minority of today's adolescents."

The extension of adolescence to more persons and for a longer time, and the fact that modern societies are losing their capacities to inspire in the top segments of youth an implicit sense of allegiance, fidelity and moral respect that was the basis of more stable social orders are facts that may help to understand some of the dilemmas and behavior of today's youth, he concluded.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Repellents' Don't Always Work On Particular Pests That Sting

DEAR HELEN:

You say "Life's too short, etc." to bother with "meddleclass" females, so freeze 'em out. I wish you'd figure a way to quick-freeze this pest so she wouldn't sting. She's the kind you're better off with as a friend than as an enemy. She lights on us and makes nasty remarks about our neighbors, so you can be sure she'll do the same about us is we try to swat her down.

You'd think she would get the hint by the fact that we never return her visits. How can we work this so we'll be rid of her but she won't be vindictive about us? — TIRED OF GOSSIP

DEAR TIRED:

You can expect a few stings if you swat down this kind of pest but you'll get them anyway, so what have you got to lose? She lights on you because others have already used an effective repellent, such as, "I'm too busy to talk now, dear. See you later." — H

DEAR HELEN:

Well, I see Vance Packard, in his new book, came up with the suggestion I wrote to your column about five years ago. Remember when you printed the "divorce discussion"? I suggested a two-year "conditional marriage" after which it could either become permanent or dissolve without a lot of legal whoopla.

Of course this would mean that children would not be planned until after the two-year trial period. If children come before then, divorce would be very difficult, as it would be afterward.

I'm glad others are beginning to agree with me — FORMER WRITER

DEAR F.W.:

Forty years ago they called them "companionate marriages." You know, the "roaring 20s" and the "now" 60s were somewhat alike except for one big difference: Back then they didn't give sex much social significance. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend has an apartment in town where he goes to get away from his wife. I thought I had the only key to it.

Now I find out there are five keys floating around. He says he lets his friends use the place when he isn't there. Three of the keys are owned by women!

He told me he only married his wife because she had money — that was when he was drunk one night and talked too much. A divorce would really ruin him, as he'd have to go back to work.

Should I call up his wife and tell her about what goes on in the apartment? Or should I believe I'm still the only woman in his life? — W.S.

DEAR W:

Correction: Not the only woman, but the other woman, and maybe one of several. Why don't you turn in your key, but not to the wife? She'll find out on her own. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Miss Sandrock Is Engaged

A December wedding in Grand Bahama is being planned by Cherrie Sandrock and Bruce A. Birkham.

The engagement was announced by Cherrie's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Sig G. Sandrock of Freeport, Grand Bahama, formerly of Tiburon. The bride-elect is the sister of Mrs. Norman Dean of Novato, Mrs. Carl Jech of Ypsilanti, Mich., Paul and Sigrid Sandrock of Freeport.

Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Birkham of Homes Beach, Anna Maria Island, the Bahamas.

Cherrie is a graduate of Redwood High School and the College of Marin. She attended San Francisco State College and is studying at St. Olaf's College in Northfield, Minn.

The future bridegroom is a graduate of Wilson High School in St. Paul, Minn., and of Manatee Junior College in Bradenton, Fla.

The wedding will be held in Our Savior Lutheran Church in Freeport, where the bride's father is the pastor.

Conferences

mankind, whose country is the whole world," said Miss Callbeck.

The concluding 10 days of the conference were held in Wolfach, in the Black Forest of of southeast Germany. The United Nations flag, together with the dark blue flag of the Council of Europe, flew over city hall for the proceedings.

As a follow-through, a World Citizens office will be opened at the International Center, 50 Oak Street, in San Francisco by California delegates and supporters. Another world conference is expected next year.

Who Are Least Likely Victims?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Health Insurance Institute here calls attention to what a Washington, D.C., doctor said about persons least likely to have heart attacks. In its newsletter the institute said the doctor described such a person as follows:

"An effeminate municipal worker or embalmer, completely lacking in physical and mental alertness, without drive, ambition, or competitive spirit." The person likes fruits and vegetables laced with corn and whale oil, detests tobacco, doesn't own a TV, radio or car. He also "strains his puny muscles by exercise."

Enameling

When enameling small pieces such as tables and chairs, a workbench makes a convenient working height, according to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. Place these small pieces upside down on the bench and do the underneath surfaces first. Then, turn them rightside up and finish painting. A bench makes it easier to do the best possible job of applying the paint. You'll be able to spot drops and uneven areas quickly.

Mrs. John Gentles To Head The Center Path Finders

The Center Path Finders, the newest group at the Marin Art and Garden Center, has elected Mrs. John Gentles of San Rafael to serve as president for the coming club year. She has been a member of the organization since it was formed one-year-ago and served as vice president last year.

Betty Gentles says, "The goal of the Path Finders is to help the Marin Art and Garden Center reach more of the public with its program of service, recreation and education by maintaining the gardens, trees and roads of the center. The organization has the responsibility of the upkeep of present buildings and will provide others, if necessary. It also provides staff to assure the continuation of the various services the center offers to the public."

"Our plans are to eventually extend the services to the tea room to a daily basis, when staff and facilities prove adequate," Mrs. Gentles says. "Path Finders began as an organization which would find new paths to serve the center, and the luncheon service was chosen because it seemed to fill the most pressing need."

This year the group began guided tours of the center grounds and is discussing the opening of a garden shop.

Mrs. Gentles and her husband, an industrial design engineer, have lived in Marin 14 years.

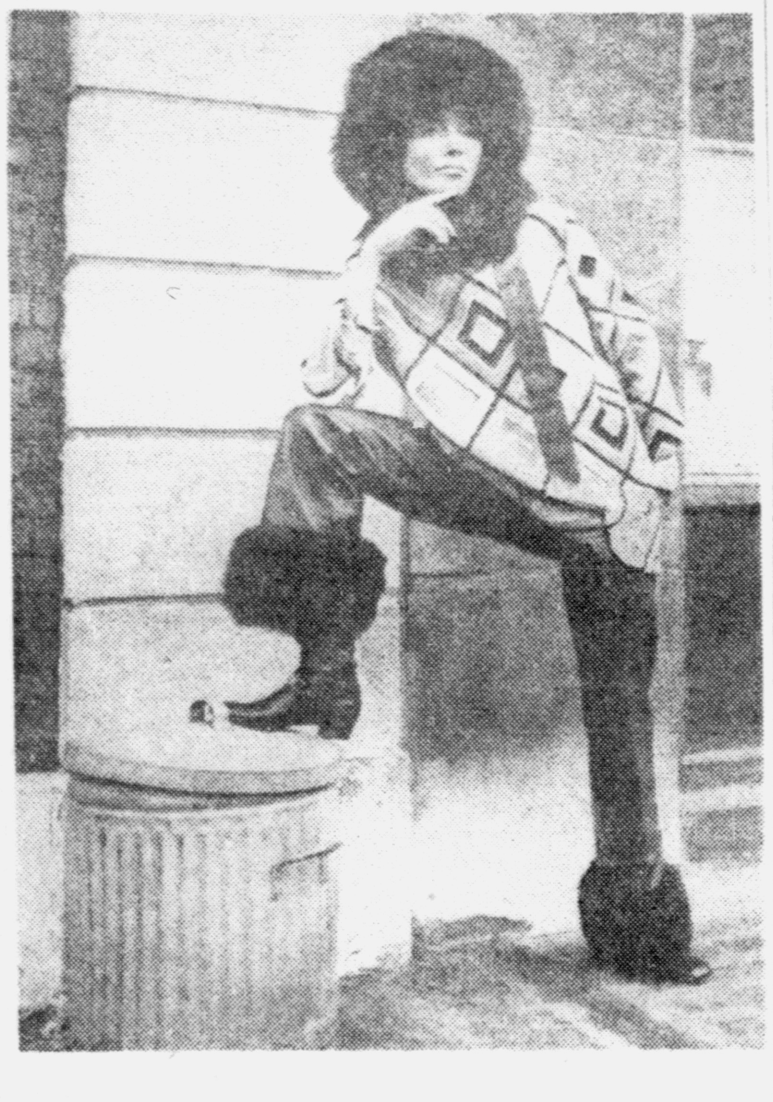
MRS. JOHN GENTLES

They have three children: William, 20, Karen, 16, and Anne, 11 years old.

In addition to the Path Finders, the new president is active in Sunny Hills, the Women's Association of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church and San Pedro School Parent-Teacher Association. She has served as Marin County chairman for Heart Sunday and was an elder of St. Luke's Church.

Her main interests are her home and family, she says. She finds community service stimulating and for relaxation enjoys bridge, reading and swimming with the children.

The Path Finders have also elected Mesdames Roger Atkinson, vice president; Robert Cummings, secretary; John Clahan, treasurer; George Lester, press relations, and Tom Perry, historian.



GARBAGE CAN SWANK

Mrs. Smith is the name of this creation shown at the press preview of the Clive couture collection in London. Model Kellie rests one foot on the garbage can wearing the coat-dress in black, white, red and turquoise printed wool. The pants are black leather, trimmed with fur to match the hood. Lt. D. B. Ahern Of Novato To Claim Bride In December

Mr. and Mrs. John Dorsey Gaither of Glenview, Ill., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Wright, to Lt. Daniel Bernard Ahern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Leo Ahern of Novato.

ELLEN GAITHER

Ellen is the sister of Dennis Gaither, a student at De Pauw University in Indiana. She was graduated from Glenbrook North High School and is a senior at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

ABA Endorses Law, Expands Services

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The American Bar Association (ABA) at its annual convention here endorsed a tough consumer credit law and expanded legal services for ghetto residents.

The ABA's policy-making House of Delegates resolved to seek a consumer code that is tougher than the recently enacted Federal Truth in Lending legislation. The nation's lawyers want even more protection for poor persons who purchase items on credit. And the ABA is urging the states to bring their own money-lending laws into harmony.

Children Show Lack Of Iron

Iron deficiency has been widely publicized as a cause of tired blood in older people but there have been few reports on iron-deficient children — who presumably have tired gastrointestinal cells.

In an iron-deficient state there is increased intestinal absorption of iron, an editorial in the August 29 issue of The New England Journal of Medicine says. But Drs. Carlien Kimber and Lewis R. Weintraub of the New England Medical Center Hospital's blood research laboratory and Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston, in the same issue of the journal, take an opposite point of view.

The researchers studied eight children with iron-deficiency anemia caused by dietary lack. All of the children were under two years of age except one who was 25 months old, and all had had very little solid food. Cow's milk made up the main part of their diet. The parents sought medical advice because their youngsters were pale, listless or irritable.

As a treatment, radioactive hemoglobin was mixed with two ounces of apple sauce and fed immediately before the child's hospital meal. Stool tests revealed the degree of iron absorption. After the tests, 25 milligrams of iron in the form of an oral liquid preparation of ferrous sulfate were given to all the children three times a day. The anemia was corrected but in one of the children iron absorption remained below the normal range.

The investigators speculate that decreased activity of iron-related enzymes in the intestinal mucosa is responsible for poor absorption. The growth requirements of children are believed to make them more susceptible to malabsorption than are adults.

MARCEL DUCHAMP
Modern art leader

PARIS (UPI)—Marcel Duchamp, who put a mustache on the Mona Lisa and popularized modern art, died today. He was 81.

His painting "Nude Descending Staircase" went on display at the New York Armory exhibition in 1913 and brought down the wrath of critics. But it opened the public's eyes and pocketbooks to pictures that made their point in abstract design.

Duchamp went on to found the post World War I Dada movement, the grandfather of pop and op art. His most famous painting of the era was an exact copy of Leonardo di Vinci's Mona Lisa—adorned with a mustache.

He went on to label such objects as a kitchen sink as a work of art, and the critics did not dare laugh anymore. For the kitchen sink sold for a large profit.

Duchamp was born July 28, 1887, in the village of Blainville-Crevon, the son of a notary. It was the age of Cezanne, Lautrec, Van Gogh—although most art dealers did not yet realize it.

Duchamp grew up in the Pablo Picasso generation. Some such as Henri Matisse carried on painting more or less recognizable subjects. Not Duchamp.

After his nude descended the staircase, his art style went further into the abstract and emerged in recognizable form only in the old shoes, bathroom fixtures and broken pianos of the anarchistic Dada movement.

Cleaver Predicts 20 Lectures At Berkeley

STANFORD (AP)—Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver said last night that Gov. Ronald Reagan applied political pressure to "weak kneed" University of California regents to block him from lecturing to a Berkeley campus class.

Cleaver, facing return to prison as a parole violator, said Reagan and the regents ordered his lecture schedule trimmed from 10 to one.

But Cleaver declared to a cheering Stanford University audience that he would speak 20 times on the Berkeley campus with the backing of the students and faculty members who organized an experimental course on racism.

Cleaver collected a $750 honorarium for his Stanford talk sponsored by the Stanford Committee for a New Democratic Politics. The committee was organized by former supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Memorial auditorium was filled to its 1,700 capacity an hour before Cleaver arrived. An estimated 900 listened outside to loud speakers.

The U.C. regents have ruled that no lecturer can appear on the campus more than once in a credit course unless he has academic credentials.

As the course opened yesterday, the 100 students who had signed up and found that no room large enough to hold them had been assigned. Four professors each took 25 students to small rooms where they gave opening instructions. U.C.'s Academic Council is to consider Cleaver's lectureship case tomorrow.

Cleaver faces trial Dec. 2 on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder during an April shoot,ut between the Black Panthers and Oakland police.

He was on parole at that time after serving eight years of a 13-year sentence for a similar crime.

Cleaver urged his listeners not to vote in November for Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey or George Wallace. He said a vote for any of those presidential candidates would back policies that have brought the nation to the brink of disaster.

However, Cleaver, the Peace and Freedom Party presidential nominee, said he wasn't asking for any votes for himself.

He declared the nation's power structure gives young people no political choice and is forcing them into the streets.

Although Cleaver, 33, he has been denied a place on the California ballot because the constitution requires that a president be at least 35 years old.

Grapes On Ships; Case To Courts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California table grapes; subject of a union boycott, moved across San Francisco piers again yesterday and were loaded aboard ships.

The action came as five fruit growing organizations filed a $75 million damage suit against unions and steamship firms.

Growers previously had filed a $25 million damage suit against the Teamsters Union, charging violations of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Previously, pickets from the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee had stopped grape shipments at the piers when teamsters refused to cross their lines.

The farm workers union seeks to unionize vineyard workers.

Filing the $75 million suit in U.S. District Court were the Ballantine Products Co., Barr Packing Co., Royal Valley Fruit Growers, California Fruit Exchange and Mendelson-Zeller Co.

Named defendants in the suit were the United Farm Workers, the Teamsters Union, Matson Navigation Co., Pacific Far East Lines and the Pacific Maritime Association.

The suit contends the two labor unions and the shippping organizations violated antitrust laws by refusing to handle the table grapes.

Robbery Charge Cut; Petty Theft Admitted

Seven E. Bigelow, 18, of Corte Madera, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to an amended charge of petty theft Aug. 31 in Corte Madera.

Polite 'No' To Panther's Reassignment

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Robert R. Smith of San Francisco State College yesterday turned down a "request" by his superiors that Black Panther George Mason Murray be reassigned to nonteaching duties.

Murray, minister of education for the black militant group, has been an instructor in English for the past two semesters.

Trustees of the state colleges voted 8 - 5 last week to "request" Smith to reassign Murray. The president emphasized at a news conference yesterday that the trustees' action "was a request, not an order."

Smith said he was responding to Chancellor Glenn Dumpke that "I respectfully decline the request to reassign George Murray."

"Mr. Murray was hired on the recommendation of the English faculty according to procedures used throughout the California State College system," he said. "He did a competent job here for two semesters last year and the trustees have acknowledged publicly that his teaching qualifications are not in question."

Smith said the concern of the trustees apparently stemmed from Murray's actions and statements outside the classroom because "the exact basis for their request has not been communicated to me in any written charges and his record at this college does not warrant action at the present time under our rules and procedures."

He also said Murray was part of a critically important educational program for disadvantaged young people and his reassignment might endanger the program.

Napa Driver, 24, Dies In Smashup

Charles Erik Campbell, 24, of Napa, was killed early today when his small sedan veered off Highway 101 and smashed into a concrete culvert in Terra Linda.

The California Highway Patrol said Campbell was still alive but unconscious when a patrol car arrived at the scene, but died moments later before he could be freed from the wreck. He had multiple injuries of the head, both legs and left arm.

A witness William Russell Dyer, 49, of 1508 Weaverly Street, Petaluma, said he was driving behind Campbell's car when he saw it swerve onto the shoulder, then bounce into the air and disappear into a ditch channel.

The car slid some 96 feet along the soggy channel bottom before slamming into the culvert, pinning Campbell inside the car.

Campbell was pronounced dead at the scene at 1:15 a.m. by Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig. It was the 26th traffic death in Marin this year, compared to 27 fatalities at this time last year.

Campbell was president of the Western States Service Station Employees Union, and may have been returning from a business trip at the time of the accident, according to relatives.

He is survived by his wife Janice and a 2-month-old daughter, Kristina Lynn, of Napa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campbell of Upper Lake, Lake County; four sisters, Kathleen Campbell of Upptr Lake, Ruth Campbell of Massachusetts, Dorothy Tuleja of Redding, and Carol MacDonald of Mississippi, and two brothers, Steven and Scott Campbell of Upper Lake.

Hew as born in San Francisco and was graduated from Upper Lake High School.

Wornum, O'Leary To Start Debates

Michael Wornum of Mill Valley and Donald J. O'Leary of Tiburon, candidates for supervisor from the Third Supervisorial District, will speak on Radio Station KTIM's Sounding Board program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The broadcast will start a month-long series of programs devoted to presenting candidates prior to the Nov. 5 election. Scheduled for later shows are candidates in the Fourth Supervisorial District Seventh Assembly District and Marin General Hospital District.

Tomorrow's program will be repeated by tape recording at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Community Group Sees Negro Films

The Mill Valley Community Relations Committee last night viewed the first three in a series of 15 films on Negro history and culture, Rev. D. Murray Hammond, chairman, reported.

The films are being reviewed in advance of a community presentation tetatively planned for the spring, Hammond said.

For the next four weeks, three films will be shown each Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Hammond Hall of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Old Mill Street at Lovell Avenue. The shows are open to the public, Hammond said.

The committee will meet next at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 in Hammond Hall.

ABAG Policy Voting Sparks Hub Challenge

The Association of Bay Area Governments' general assembly meeting last Friday was illegal because there was no quorum present. San Anselmo City Councilman James F. Reed declared last night.

Reed, who represented San Anselmo at the meeting in Berkeley, suggested that the city council send a "strong letter of protest" to ABAG, objecting to voting on policy recommendations when a quorum was not present.

ON AGENDA

Reed's proposed protest will be before the council when it meets Tuesday. He made his proposal at a joint meeting with school district trustees, but no action was taken on it last night.

The policy recommendations approved by the general assembly were to guide final preparation by ABAG planners of a Bay Area regional plan. Reed cast the only "no" vote in a 43-1 vote to approve the policies.

A careful reading of ABAG's bylaws, however, appears to show that Reed has no case.

The bylaws, under Article VI, state: "The affirmative votes of a majority of a quorum of county representatives and of a majority of a quorum of city representatives are required for policy recommendations or action."

OPPOSITE VIEWS

ABAG's special counsel, Arthur Harris, told the Independent-Journal today that, in his opinion, the Friday vote definitely was in accord with the bylaws. That the vote was legal, he said, "is as clear as a bell."

Harris explained the bylaws meant that a majority of a quorum of county representatives would be five county votes, and that a majority of a quorum of city representatives would be 21 votes. There are 80 cities and 8 counties in the association.

The by-laws do not also require that a quorum of the full membership be present to vote, Harris said.

Volunteer Fire Leader Elected

Irving L. Schwartz, a registered civil engineer, was elected president of the Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Association last night at a meeting at the Marinwood firehouse. Schwartz is assistant civil engineer in the Marin County Department of Public Works.

Schwartz succeeds William J. Newman, who served as president for the past year. Schwartz and the following new officers will serve for one year: Donald Stiver, vice president; Richard Bradshaw, secretary, and Rinaldo Amini, treasurer.

'CAN BE REHABILITATED'

Sommerhalder 'Always Afraid'

By STEPHEN COOK

Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, double killer and tough leader of a Santa Rosa motorcycle gang, is a frightened young man who lacks self-confidence, a San Rafael phychiatrist said today.

Dr. Samuel T. Anderson, who also said the 24-year-old-murderer can't handle strong emotions, testified to a jury of seven men and five women who must decide if Sommerhalder is to live or die in the gas chamber for his crimes.

The jury has convicted him of killing Curtis and Shirley Ackley in Santa Venetia Jan. 12. It has also heard testimony that Sommerhalder led a murder, kidnap and rape in Santa Rosa Oct. 7 and administered at least two severe beatings during his life.

Witnesses have also testified that Sommerhalder ruled the Grim Reapers motorcycle gang in Santa Rosa with an iron fist.

Dr. Anderson said Sommerhalder could be rehabilitated, but the process would be long and difficult.

"Mr. Sommerhalder has an impaired ability to learn in the area of emotional control. Things get to him more than they do to others and his ability not to respond is poor," said the psychiatrist.

"He has an inability to handle strong feelings — either to express them or to accept them from others. He gives the appearance of being very fearful, but he is not aware of it. He is always afraid, though not on a conscious level.

"He is afraid of relationships with others, of how people feel about him, how they react to him. He is hostile, particularly when he gets that fearful feeling," Dr. Anderson said.

The doctor also reported that Sommerhalder is sometimes too conscientious:

"Hei s overly serious whenever he has responsibilities or pressure. He becomes rigid. He is not casual enough about his responsibilities," he said.

"His attitude varies from hostile and aggressive to being overly compliant and eager to please," the psychiatrist said.

Dr. Anderson said Sommerhalder should be treated primarily with psychologically active drugs, secondarily through group therapy.

He described the killer's reactions to the Rorschach inkblot test and said Sommerhalder's over-reaction to color blots indicates "he is overwhelmed by or over-responds to emotional stimuli.

Dr. Anderson said he is not certain of the meaning, but noted that Sommerhalder had no reaction to the blot usually identified with female sexuality.

His response was negative to an inkblot usually identified with authority, he said.

20-Year-Old Is Jailed On Drug Probe

James Victor Shilzony, 20, of 4 Crystal Court, Alto, was jailed last night after narcotics agents allegedly found marijuana and marijuana plants in his bedroom.

Inspectors of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau also reported they found 29 purple tablets in the youth's room and said they booked him on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale and possession of a dangerous drug.

Agents, armed with a search warrant, said they found approximately three kilos (6.6 pounds) of marijuana in the house.

Some of the grass was in a suitcase marked as belonging to a Sgt. George W. Driskill. The suitcase also contained a strainer and some loose marijuana in an Army helmet, officers said.

The officers said they would seek a warrant for Driskell's arrest.

In addition to a small amount of manicured marijuana, 15 small marijuana plants were found in Shilzony's room, officers said.

Shilzony was freed on $2,500 bail and told to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Driver Treated For Face Cuts

William E. Hankins, 42, of Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead after the car in which he rode struck a pickup truck in commute traffic on Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the car, driven by Lloyd Jay Smith, 44, of 140 Maria Drive, Petaluma, hit the truck driven by Raymond Martin Bettencourt, 31, of 155 Center Road, Novato, when at the Lincoln Avenue off-ramp, San Rafael, at 7:10 a.m..

Smith was cited for following too closely.

They are Rachel B. Hooper and Karen E. Innes of Ross, Diana Grimes of Oxnard, Ventura County, and Kate Macartney of Reno, Nev.

General Pens Missile Base Reassurances

The Army assured the Sausalito City Council last night that wherever its antimissile site was located "reasonable effort" would be made to reduce annoyances.

The council had written the Army objecting to putting a missile base on Wolfback Ridge, one of the sites under consideration in the Bay Area. The other two are Angel Island and San Pablo ridge in Contra Costa County.

A final decision on a specific site has not been made. Brig. Gen. George Mayo Jr., deputy manager of the Sentinel system, wrote the council.

"In any event, the Army will make every reasonable effort to reduce, as far as practicable, any undesireable effects that the Sentinel system might have on the surrounding community activities," the letter said.

Gen. Mayo stated the area had been surveyed very carefully on several occasions for every possible Sentinel site and that potentially usable sites were few in number.

"Please be assured," he wrote, "that the Sentinel system manager is appreciative of the position taken by the city council; however, we have no alternative but to continue our search for the most suitable site on which to locate the Sentinel system."

2 Vacant College Board Spots Filled

Charles W. Gray of San Rafael, an authority in industrial relations, and attorney Donald K. Felt of Mill Valley were named last night to fill two seats on the Marin Junior College District board.

Trustees appointed Gray to complete the unexpired term of Thomas Skornia which expires June 30, 1971, and Felt to complete the unexpired term of Alan D. Ewan which expires June 30, 1969.

Felt, 34, an attorney in San Francisco, lives at 90 Val Vista Road, Mill Valley. A native of Chicago, he is a graduate of Yale University and Yale School of Law, New Haven, Conn.

Felt served as a lieutenant junior grade in the Navy Reserve 1956-58, and as an instructor in remedial reading at Yale 1959-61.

He was an active participant last spring for passage of Mill Valley Peace proposition.

Gray, 45, director of employee relations for a San Francisco department store, has served as chairman of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission.

He also was director of training and industrial relations for Bell and Howell in Chicago and was director of economics projects for the University of Chicago Industrial Relations Center.

Gray graduated from the University of Colorado in 1948 and holds a master's degree from that school. A Marin resident two years, he lives at 15 Palm Avenue.

Trustees selected the two men at a closed session from a field of 14 candidates, reported Louis H. Herkenhoff, acting president.

A 15th candidate, Hugh T. McCann Jr. of San Rafael, requested that his name be withdrawn from consideration, Herkenhoff said.

The two newly appointed trustees are scheduled to take their seats at a meeting of the board at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room G-1 of the physical education building at the College of Marin.

The vacancies were created when Ewan resigned Aug. 2 because he was moving out of the district and Skornia resigned Sept. 5 because of business pressure.

Sonoman Treated After Accident

Winifred M. Simpson, 58, of Sonoma, was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday for back pain after a two-car collision in morning commute traffic on Highway 101 in Terra Linda, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said she was a passenger in a car driven by Robert Lee Simpson, 67, of Sonoma, when it came over a hill at 7:40 a.m. and hit the rear of a car driven by George Peter Phinney, 17, of 1040 Fifth Street, Novato.

Dope Suspect Not Able To Bail Out

James Dewey Bell of San Rafael, believed to be one of the biggest dealers in illegal methamphetamine in the Bay Area, languished in San Francisco jail today, unable to make bail set on a federal narcotics charge.

The U.S. Commissioner yesterday set $2,500 bail for Bell, accused of participating in the sale of a half pound of methamphetamine to a federal agent for $625 Monday. Bell is to appear before the commissioner Oct. 10 for further hearing.

San Rafael police and Marin narcotics agents searched Bell's home at 277 Union Street Monday and found more than a pound of methamphetamine (speed) and almost 1,000 Benzedrine pills.

Bell, 34, according to testimony before the Marin County Grand Jury in February, once bragged to an agent of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau that he was selling three pounds of speed a week from his San Francisco base. Such a business could yield approximately $7,500 a week.

Inspector William G. Burgess, testifying before the grand jury, also said Bell told him that he was selling several more pounds of speed each week in San Jose, Hayward, Oakland, Los Angeles and Marin.

In this county, he allegedly told Burgess, he used three young men as his salesmen. On bigger deals, involving a half-pound of speed or more, he participated in the sale, he told the agent.

Burgess said Bell explained that he could not fully trust his smalltime salesmen on a big deal.

As a result of the testimony of Burgess and other agents, the grand jury indicted Bell and two of his alleged salesmen, Robert Drolla and Robert Nelson of San Rafael, for alleged sales of speed.

The grand jury testimony concerning Bell was sealed from public inspection by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court until he was ordered recently by the California District Court of Appeal to open the hearing transcripts. The appellate court had been requested to act by the Independent-Journal.

The three were arrested in February, along with more than 60 other persons, in the biggest narcotics roundup in Marin County history.

Bell was freed on $5,000 bail a short time later and has remained free on bail since.

Narcotics inspectors said the three sold them $730 worth of methamphetamine.

Bell, Nelson and Drolla are scheduled for trial the week of Oct. 14 in Marin Superior Court.

Stafford Lake Rules Discussed

Regulations for recreation at Stafford Lake were discussed by the North Marin County Water District board last night without decision according to Jerome B. Gilbert district manager.

The board directed the staff to prepare a set of rules containing such things as sanitary regulations, prohibition of certain animals and general health safety standards of the lake, to be presented at its Oct. 16 meeting, Gilbert said.

The board also discussed survivor benefits for district employees. It asked that Asst. Mgr. Eugene Churchill make a study of the benefits in other agencies and report back to the board in one year.

Students Collect Exchange Fund

Students collected a record $2.521 Monday night to insure continuation of the Terra Linda High School student exchange program, it was reported today.

Mrs. Terence J. Grew, publicity chairman for the adult committee of the program, said 239 students collected the sum in less than three hours in the Gallinas Valley. She reported it was the largest collection in the program's six years.

Seventy adults participated in the drive, she said.

Marijuana Case In Second Day

Jury trial for Andre Brezeau, 27, of no fixed address, on charges of selling ad conspiring to sell marijuana entered its second day today in Marin Superior Court.

Brezeau is charged with the offenses Nov. 30 at a residence on Throckmorton Ridge.

Trial for his former co-defendant, Francis Mitchell Orella, has been set for the week of Dec. 2. The cases were severed at Brezeau's request in August.

Foundation Speeds Work On Park Site

The Novato Civic Foundation, with the help of public spirited local contractors, is going full steam ahead with the second phase of the construction of Pioneer Memorial Park, Edwin Grundstrom, foundation president, reported last night to the board.

The second phase of the work on the park has been estimated to cost $8,940, of which the City of Novato will furnish $1.725 in material and labor.

Fernando Clementino will do the ditching for the drainage without cost, Grundstrom said, and city public works crews will install the pipe. Backfill will be donated by Marin Landscapers, Grundstrom said.

Soiland Co. will install the sewers, starting Saturday, at no cost to the city or foundation. However, the foundation is having some trouble locating enough pipe because of a strike at Johns Mansville Co., Grundstrom said. Scheller Construction Co. will install the headwall where the drainage pipe enters the creek, he said.

When this phase of the work is completed, hopefully by the end of November, the foundation may be in debt about $500 for its share of the expenses, he said.

Copies of the plans for the park are being sent to various civic organizations to see if these organizations will undertake such projects as the sprinkler system and the spray pool, he said.

"We have hopes of having the park completed by spring," Grundstrom said.

The foundation, which had received a pledge of $1,500 from the Novato Hostess Club, was given a check for $1,581 last night, or more than the pledge, he said.

Contractors donated the use of their equipment to do the grading on the park. This was done on two weekends with the foundation paying the $5,000 labor costs.

Hub Council, School Board Cooperate

The San Aselmo City Council and the school district board agreed last night to work together on mutual problems such as capital improvements, sidewalks near schools, and school district unification.

Agreeing that they have the same taxpayers, the two groups said that coordination seems important. A capital improvements committee will coordinate large projects planned both by the schools and city, it was agreed.

Since both the council and school want eventually to see San Aselmo in a unified elementary district that would encompass the same area as the Tamalpais High School district, the council agreed to back the school board in this aim.

The school board in turn said it would consider city ordinaces when doing school construction and would study the sidewalk problem. The city is embarking on a program of making property owners install sidewalks, and Mayor Duane C. Ragan said it would be ridiculous to have sidewalks end at school property.

In other action last night the school board learned from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino that the long- standing three-way feud with Cypress Abbey Cemetery, Sunny Hills and the school district may soon be settled.

Godino advised the district to pay $15,000 to the cemetery for a road easement, with the money to be turned over to Sunny Hills since the road will go on its property. Godino said he thought this would be acceptable to the two other groups.

The board also adopted new report cards for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, which will indicate whether pupils are performing at grade level or not and whether they are working up to their ability.

The San Aselmo School Board also:

COMMITTEE — Appointed board members Pieter Toal, Franklin Latcham and Dr. Elmer A. Weden to a meet-and-confer panel and salary committee to deal with district employees.

EMPLOYEES — Hired Casper Sims at $431 a month as custodian at Red Hill School, replacing Guido Ostaggi, and Norma Molica at $390 a month as secretary at Sleepy Hollow School, replacing Dorothea Schultz.

Pill Inventor's Home Is Robbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Two gunmen invaded the luxurious East Side apartment of Dr. Harry Rudel, a participant in the development of the birth control pill, and made off yesterday with jewelry, paintings and sculpture valued at $250,000.

The bandits gained entrance to the Rudel apartment, which occupies the 10th floor of the building, by posing as deliverymen.

At gunpoint, they forced Mrs. Sylvia Rudel, 35, a nurse, and a maid into a clothes closet. Two small children were in another room and were not disturbed. Rudel was not home at the time.

Admirer's Zeal Injures Shirley

CHICAGO (UPI) — Shirley Temple Black is not a very handy campaigner for Richard Nixon—thanks to a Texan who has had a crush on her ever since she was a child movie star.

Mrs. Black appeared yesterday at a Chicago breakfast rally for Nixon with her right hand wrapped in a bandage, and said it had "been crushed by a Texas admirer."

She said she had been in San Antonio "two days ago, and a big Texan crunched my hand and said, 'I've been in love with you since I was a little boy 7 years old.'

Council Votes Plans On Bridgeway Work

The Sausalito City Council last night approved final plans for Phase II of the widening of Bridgeway — with most of the benches along the seawall facing away from the sea.

Phase II involves streets, sidewalks and seawall for the section of Bridgeway between Princess and Richardson streets.

Councilman Jan Paul Dyk began the questioning about the benches asking how many faced out.

Norman Wohlschlaeger, superintendent of public works, explaining the drawings, said five of the 50 benches would face out to sea.

The five, he added, were at the Richardson Street end of the project where the seawall was higher.

"Would it endanger the function of the seawall if more benches faced outward?" asked Dyk.

"The back of the bench is part of the seawall," Wohlschlaeger pointed out. "To have more benches facing out, we would have to widen the sewall, which we don't have the money to do."

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy, after ascertaining there were no comments from the handful of people in the audience, declared, "It looks good to me."

There was not question on the width of the traffic lanes — 12 feet for the northbound lane; 11 for the center strip for emergency vehicles, 11 for the southbound lane, and eight feet for adjacent parking.

Dyk moved that Phase II be approved and be put to bid. Mrs. Sweeny seconded the motion and the three councilmen present voted aye. Councilmen George C. Hoffman and Alexander R. Imlay were on vacation.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

Owner Drops Mobile Home Park Request

The request for a change in zoning to permit a mobile home park in Petaluma was withdrawn last night by David D. Young, who said he knew the planning commission would turn it down.

Site designs were approved for Harman's Kentucky Fried Chicken at the corner of Vallejo and East Washington streets, for the Cummings apartment-building on G Street and the Bank of America building at the Washington Square shopping center. Site design review for a Union Oil station at the corner of Petaluma Boulevard South and D Street was continued until the next meeting for further study.

Judge Albert H. Mundt of the Sacramento Superior Court sentenced Armore yesterday to two consecutive six-month to 14-year prison terms. Armore formerly worked for the Utah Home Fire Insurance Co. Sacramento office.

Armore told the court he needed the money to cover gambling losses.

Robert K. Puglia, chief deputy district attorney, said the case involving fictitious damage to local garages and businesses in Stockton still is under investigation.

San Francisco, with a total land area of only 45 square miles, is the most densely population section of California.

$4 Million Petaluma Downtown Overhaul Wins Chamber Backing

By BONNIE BARD

Endorsement of the Petaluma Core Area Plan was given by a majority of chamber of commerce members last night after hearing two hours of sometimes bitter debate on the merits and cost of the plan.

Of the 55 members present, 39 approved the plan, although 21 of these indicated modifications would be necessary. Sixteen others said they were totally against the plan.

Chamber directors will meet Monday to discuss an official chamber position based on vote results.

The straw vote was taken after two hours of debate with Councilman Robert S. Lipman and Petaluma merchant Frederick Mattei, speaking for the plan and real estate and insurance broker John King, merchant Owen Fredericks, opposed.

The general cost of the plan. estimated at $4 million, as well as assessments for parking improvements were discussed by panel members. Lipman charged that an economic bloc has directed the flow of money in Petaluma for many years and is guilty of perpetuating a downtown slum condition.

"Consumers of Petaluma have the means, money and will to go wherever they want to shop," he said. "These are the facts of the 1960s and 1970s and if the downtown is to be the hub of activity, some form of renewal will be necessary." He warned of the possibility of Petaluma becoming aother Novato and a bedroom community. "We don't want to have a group of subdivisions around a bunch of shopping centers and call it a town," he said.

Regarding the assessment of business properties for parking improvements, Lipman said that costs for "an average size building" when shared by the landlord and tenant would be $22 a month or 75 cents a day. He said conditions must be created to bring new business into the city and must not wait for economic conditions to push things along.

Speaking in opposition, John King charged the plan had been railroaded through the planing commission ad city council without giving property owners an opportunity to express themselves. Terming it an attack on free enterprise, he said: "The city officials dreamed up this plan—we were not given an opportunity to discuss it — now we're approached to pay for it."

He said if the shopping atmosphere in Petaluma needs a shot in the arm, all actions should come from individual merchant. King said there could be no guarantee that the investment would bring more business and said parking assessments would unfairly hurt small business.

"This is the poorest plan that could ever be presented to the city, and you must wake up to that fact and look twice before you approve this plan," he said.

Joining Lipman in urging adoption, Mattei said the business community must provide the leadership in solving the major problems of traffic flow and parking. He said business would reap most benefit from the first phase of the core plan and should accept financial responsibility for it.

Owen Fredericks, past chamber president, spoke in opposition, saying other community problems should be given priority over downtown redevelopment.

"A third of the population lives on the east side, but only a two lane road leads them to the west side," he said, suggesting an overpass on Caulfield Avenue as a solution.

Fredericks also suggested a one-way traffic pattern to ease flow of traffic and the enlargement of existing parking lots rather than the remolition of buildings to create new ones.

In a question ad answer session after the debate, most queries were directed to King and challenged his position.

Trailer License Share: $22,484

Marin County has been alotted $22,484 as its share of more than $6 million in trailer coach license fees distributed throughout the state for the first six months of the year.

The money will be split according to state law which specifies that fees for trailer coaches located in a city and a school district be divided three ways among them and the county. If located outside a city, the fees are split between the school district and the county.

Berkeley Heeds Black Students

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Berkey Board of Education accepted "in principle" yesterday 14 demands of the Black Student Union of the city's high school.

Some of them were the hiring of five Negro counselors, introduction of "soul food" in the cafeteria, naming of a black coordinator, and the teaching of African dances in physical education classes.

Another demand was for dropping of the tracking system which separates students according to learning speed. Sullivan said it was being phased out and would be ended by Next September.

THE POLITICAL SCENE

McCarthy To Tour State For Cranston Next Week

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Democrat Alan Cranston pressed ahead today in his drive to enlist Kuchel Republicans and McCarthy Democrats in his canpaign for the U.S. Senate seat in California.

Cranston was buoyed and his staff bubbling yesterday over news that he has won endorsement from a longtime Republican worker and key member of Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel's unsuccessful bid for renomination at the June primary.

The Democratic candidate against Republican Max Rafferty also was bolstered by word that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota — who got 1.3 million votes in the Democratic presidential primary here— will work for him.

McCarthy will campaign Oct. 12 through the 14 in major population areas for Cranston and two California Democratic congressmen who also share strong antiwar views — Reps. Don Edwards of San Jose and George Brown of Monterey Park.

Cranston continued also to aim at securing the votes of the one million Republicans who backed Kuchel, the GOP incumbent, in the primary. In an interview over Sacramento television station KXTV, Cranston said he has "more Republican support than any Democrat has had in modern times in a statewide race."

His comment came after a reception at the home of Sacramento Municipal Court Judge Earl Warren Jr., Democratic son of Republican U.S. Chief Just Earl Warren — who as governor named Kuchel a senator in 1953.

In Los Angeles, meanwhile, a top Kuchel supporter endorsed Cranston. The action came from Sidney Levine, a college classmate of Kuchel's and member of the Southern California executive committee in his campaigns.

Levine said Cranston is the first Democrat he ever has endorse, but complained "Rafferty is running on the wrong ticket." He said he agreed with a statement by Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox yesterday that Rafferty should run on the same er governor of Alabama, carrying the American Independent party colors on California's presidential ballot.

In Los Angeles, Rafferty replied that such a suggestion "cannot be taken seriously. I am not soliciting the help of George Wallace or Lester Maddox. I hope the latter recognizes this and will confine his comments to the affairs of his own state and leave the presidential race and the U.S. Senate race in California alone."

On the television show, Cranston remarked that 'the Campaign is getting a little bit rough, when you are called a traitor as I in effect was."

He referred to Rafferty's statement Saturday that on Vietnam, Cranston approaches advocating "a policy not only of national suicide but of national treason" by urging an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnma.

That prompted the Democratic national committeeman from California, Stephen Reinhardt, to urge today that the Republican party reprimand Rafferty for such language.

WALLACE

At every city Wallace introduces officials of labor unions from Alabama and Georgia accompanying him on his campaign through the heavily unionized Midwest.

In a nationwide paid political broadcast on CBS last night he said he has strong support from workers but some union leaders are using "smear tactics" against him.

He said the rank-and-file won't be "fooled by propaganda." The former Alabama governor said, "Anyone who threatens to take away the long-term gains of labor in this country should be defeated for president."

In the telecast he also touched on the controversy over debates between the presidential candidates by accusing Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate, of "being safe" in refusing to debate him.

"Mr. Nixon says he's willing to debate Mr. Humphrey but that he's not willing to debate me," Wallace said. "The polls show that the vice president is running third so if Mr. Nixon is willing to debate the third runner, he ought to be willing to debate the one who is running second."

SURVEY

BOSTON (AP) — The Christian Science Monitor reported today that George C. Wallace has been cutting less deeply into the potential Republican vote since Richard M. Nixon actually became the GOP presidential nominee.

A survey taken of Monitor political writers in the United States indicated the Wallace impact still is widening, however. The survey also indicated that Wallace now is making almost equal inroads in the votes of both parties, the Monitor said.

The Monitor said a survey taken before Nixon's candidacy showed the former Alabama governor digging much more severely into Republican votes.

MUSKIE

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has done all he can to outline what he would do about a Vietnam bombing halt, and now it is time for the Republicans to announce their intent, says his running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

At campaign appearances in Washington and Milwaukee yesterday, Muskie, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, said the similarities and not the differences of President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey should be emphasized.

Appearing to take aim at critics who say Humphrey should step out from under President Johnson's shadow on the question of Vietnam, Muskie said in Milwaukee that any vice president "becomes part of the team," and should not "compete on policy with the president."

"To repudiate the President is to repudiate himself," Muskie said of the office of vice president.

"I would tell the vice president not to spell out the differences, and I won't," Muskie said earlier before the National Press Club in Washington.

AGNEW

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Republican vice presidential nominee Spiro T. Agnew says Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has in effect promised the North Vietnamese a better deal than they can get from the Johnson administration.

Humphrey had said Monday that if elected he would halt the bombing of North Vietnam if Hanoi showed a wilingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

The Maryland governor was asked by a newsman yesterday to comment on Humphrey's position, during a television panel show in Chicago to be broadcast Saturday night. Agnew said:

"I think this is a very dangerous course for him to pursue and I think it may be the equivalent of providing several additional North Vietnamese divisions in South Vietnam as far as impeding a just and equitable solution to the war."

HUMPHREY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey is campaigning hard against George C. Wallace in the South—talking of Germany's Hitler and America's times of trouble.

Humphrey, calling Wallace a "creature of the most reactionary underground forces in American life," told a University of Tennessee audience:

"I say to you solemnly in the 1930s the reactionary forces of Germany thought they had found a man to speak for them, and a few years later, helped by an economic depression, that man had destroyed not only his creators but German democracy, the European balance of power. . .and the result was the carnage of World War II."

"You say these things could never happen in America," Humphrey said. "I devoutly hope and pray that you are right. . . But I know from deep personal experience we are closer to this possibility than I would have ever believed possible."

An audience estimated at 11,000 turned out last night. The audience—mainly students —was friendly. There were boos when Humphrey first spoke of Wallace and applause when he said the University of Tennessee was the place to criticize Wallace.

Humphrey steered his campaign from the border state of Tennessee far below the Mason-Dixon line to Jacksonville, Fla.

"There are forces abroad in this land striving to divide and embitter our people—radical extremists of the right and left—demagogues who preach fear and hate and division," said Humphrey. Humphrey recalled he had seen extremists whose chants and shouts are aimed at disrupting meetings.

But, he added, "there is another form of radical extremism —just as dangerous, just as corrosive to our liberties—the extremism of those who preach disrespect for our courts, for certain laws, who play to the basest fears and deepest suspicions of our people."

NIXON

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has promised leaders of the securities industry that, if elected, he will end what he calls the "heavy-handed bureaucratic regulatory schemes" of the Johnson administration, The New York Times reported today.

In a Washington datelined story, the Times carried the text of a letter it said was sent to industry leaders last Friday in which the Republican presidential candidate discussed his views on the industry.

The story also said in part:

Alan Greenspan, a top Nixon economic adviser, was quoted as saying the letter "was signed by Mr. Nixon and has the full force of a formal policy statement" but was not made public because it covers "a narrow policy area."

The letter charged the Johnson administration with being guided by the philosophy that "the government can make decisions for the investor better than he can make them for himself."

The letter specifically denounced legislation aimed at forcing mutual funds to reduce their charges to investors as "rate-fixing in a highly competitive industry." The legislation was passed by the Senate this year, over the opposition of mutual funds, but died in the House Commerce Committee.

Newspaper Uses Pictures Despite Queen's Request

LONDON (AP) — London's Daily Express ignored a royal request today and published pictures of Queen Elizabeth II in bed after the birth of Prince Edward.

Buckingham Palace expressed disapproval and a spokesman reiterated the queen's own wish that the "personal and intimate" photographs should not be published in Britain. But he said no action would be taken against the Express.

The Express ran one of the pictures across the whole top half of its front page. It showed the queen sitting up in bed soon after the birth of Prince Edward in 1964, holding the infant in her arms and smiling at other members of the royal family.

In its caption the four-million circulation newspaper said it was printing the photographs "in the knowledge that their very informality cannot but add to the public affection for the queen as a person."

Los Angeles To Arm Firefighters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City firemen are going to carry automatic shotguns for self-protection Fire Chief Raymond M. Hill says—"to shoot their way out if trapped."

Asst. Chief Robert E. Radke said yesterday that arrangements have been made to purchase 60 automatic .12-gauge shotguns and to train a limited number of firemen to use them.

Radke said he is "concerned about reported incidents from all over the nation of firemen being lured into sniper traps or other situations where defenseless men are stoned or attacked. . ."

Pleads Guilty

Thomas G. Wood, 28, of San Pablo, pleaded guilty Monday in Marin Superior Court to burglary Sept. 5, 1967, in San Anselmo. Judge Joseph G. Wilson declared the offense second degree burglary and ordered Wood to appear Nov. 12 for sentencing.

Seminary To Get Mideast Oil Royalties

Royalty interests in an Arabian off-shore petroleum concession now being drilled have been given to San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo by Wendell Phillips, oil-rich archeologist, seminary officials announced yesterday.

Seminary spokesmen said they could make no estimate now as to how much if any money will be realized since the drilling is not yet completed.

Dr. Arnold B. Come, president of the seminary, said that Phillips' gift is unrestricted and income, if any, will be used for operating expenses, not capital outlay.

He also announced that the seminary will honor Phillips by naming the seminary's planned Berkeley facility "The Wendell Phillips Center for Advanced Theological Studies."

A native of Oakland, Phillips is said to be the world's largest individual holder of oil concessions. He is currently economic adviser to the Sultan of Oman.

An archeologist, Phillips led a series of expeditions in 1950-52 into South Arabia to confirm its historical chronology and verify its paleography. Subsequently, Phillips was made a sheik of the Bal-Harith tribe, the only American ever so honored.

He has also undertaken numerous expeditions in Oman, excavating the ancestral home of Sinbad the Sailor, Sumhuram.

In 1953 the Sultan of Oman offered Phillips the oil concession for Dhofar, a dependency about the size of Ohio. Phillips sold a portion of these rights for more than a million dollars.

In succeeding years, Phillips has acquired additional concessions in the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean off-shore areas of Oman, in Libya and also in Venezuela.

Phillips has published numerous books on Oman and on his expeditions. His latest book, "Oman: A History," is the first comprehensive work on that country. He is currently engaged in a literary project on the life of Jesus.

The concession for which Phillips has given the seminary the oil rights is being drilled by Royal Dutch/Shell, Union Carbide Petroleum Corp., Wintershall A.G. (a German company) and others.

Simultaneous with the seminary gift, it was announced that Phillips had also bestowed similar interests on the University of Pacific in Stockton.

Ghetto Youth Patrol Pressed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's public utilities commission is on record in favor of hiring ghetto youths to patrol buses.

Under the plan approved yesterday, 40 young men would be employed at $2.91 an hour by the Municipal Railway to learn to operate vehicles, guard against vandalism and intervene in altercations with youngsters.

Alex Zermano, Economic Opportunity Council Coordinator, told commissioners federal funds would not be available until November or early December.

Needed are some $188,000 in federal funds and a city appropriation of $90,000.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Walking Considered Beneficial Exercise For Heart Troubles

VAN DELLEN

Exercise became a salable commodity once the medical profession found that it benefits the heart and circulation. Books have been written on walking, jogging and golf.

In every mail, we get promotional material on bicycling, gymnastic equipment, physical programs, backyard swimming pools, and outdoor organizations. All of this must sound a bit silly to the hard-working laborer or housewife to whom exercise is a part of daily living.

EXERCISE conditions the heart and plays a role in preventing early senescence. It is an adjunct to the treatment of angina pectoris, hypertension, and poor circulation. More and more is heard about "walking through angina." Research teams report on the beneficial effects of progressive excercise for relieving heart pain and improving the electrocardiogram.

The victim of angina starts by attempting to walk a mile in 20 minutes, four times a day. Should chest pain develop he stops, then continues at a more leisurely pace until distress subsides. When he is able to walk one mile in 20 minutes, the man increases the pace and may include jogging in order to cover the distance in nine minutes.

WALKING HAS many advantages. Jogging is more strenuous and should be replaced by walking when shortness of breath or fatigue develops. Many city dwellers object to jogging because they are embarrassed by onlookers. Walking up and down stairs also is beneficial.

Tennis, handball, bicycling, swimming, skating, and rowing are excellent activities. Age and physical condition determine what exercise is best.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

FOODS PASS UNDIGESTED

A reader writes: Should foods such as lettuce and grapefruit, etc., pass through the bowel undigested? I have questioned the doctor about this but he says not to worry. But I do, because it has been going on for months, along with loose movements.

REPLY

This is a possibility and may occur especially when the bowel is slightly irritated. There is no need for concern unless other foods follow suit and signs of malnutrition develop. Why not suggest an X-ray?

BLOOD OF ALLERGIC

R. K. writes: Does an allergic problem affect the blood?

REPLY

There is an increase in a certain type of white blood cell (eosinophil). If food allergy interferes with eating, the individual may develop anemia or a disturbance in the clotting mechanism of the blood.

CORNEAL TRANSPLANTS

E. A. writes: Can the eyeball be removed from someone recently deceased and given to a blind person to enable him to see?

REPLY

It is not the eyeball but the transparent cornea that is removed at the time of death. It is then used as a transplant to restore vision in a person with scars or other opacities in the pupil.

CHANGE AND ARTHRITIS

Mrs. T. L. writes: Can the change of life have an adverse effect on arthritis?

REPLY

The menopause may accentuate arthritis but does not cause it. The two conditions often occur simultaneously because both are common the the late forties and early fifties.

Today's Health Hint—Drinking is learned behavior.

HA-HA

(Think school is a laugh?
See how funny it is when you can't get a good-paying job.)

A small education is something you can't laugh off. It's the biggest handicap you'll ever have . . . today, tomorrow, the day after tomorrow, and every day of your working life.

And it's a funny thing. People who really stay with it and get a good education are often seen laughing all the way to the bank.

It's no joke. To get a good job today, you need a good education. A good education is the number-one requirement for the better jobs with the better salaries . . . and the better futures, too.

So if you're in school now. . . stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, you can still get lots of valuable training outside the classroom. Just call on the Youth Counselor at your State Employment Service. Or visit a Youth Opportunity Center, which has been set up in many cities to help you.

TV Brothers Claim Censor Of Show Unfair

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for the Smothers Brothers says the comedians are trying to persuade the Columbia Broadcasting System to reconsider showing a segment that was censored from the show last Sunday.

The spokesman, Denny Shanahan, said Tommy Smothers thinks the scene is "one of the finest artistic things he's ever been associated with and hopes CBS will reconsider it."

The uncut version, broadcast in Canada, shows Belafonte singing "Don't Stop the Carnival," while Chicago police load demonstrators into a van. The scene was from previously telecast news film, Shanahan said, and no violence was shown.

Shanahan quoted Tommy Smothers as saying CBS cut the segment for reasons of policy and good taste.

Bankers Sued By Stage's Driver

Cabral, whose home is in San Benito County, said he posed with his horses and a stage coach at San Jose and at Donner Summit for $450.

He contends he was told by the bank and advertising agencies that the pictures would be used only for one year and only for billboard advertising.

Instead, his suit asserts, he sees himself galloping his team across the pages of magazines and newspapers, in brochures, in bank murals, on special checks and on television.

Fire Destroys Town Landmark

The home's occupant, known to all as Grandma Fowler, 93, escaped unharmed and there were no injuries reported.

Suspects Booked For Shoplifting

Two 16-year-old Santa Venetia girls were booked into juvenile hall Monday on suspicion of shoplifting and assault and battery.

San Rafael police said the two allegedly took $27 worth of clothing from Macy's in San Rafael and tried to resist the security guard attempting to stop them outside the store.

TV REVIEW

Children Excluded Nowadays

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Early prime time, which used to have the reputation of being the children's hour of television, can hardly lay claim to that function any more.

One reason is that sponsors learned that high ratings from children too young to have real buying power are strictly window dressing in network competition.

At any rate, consider — day by day—the first hour of prime time on the three commercial networks this season:

On Mondays, there is "The Avengers," a sophisticated British spy series. And there is "Gunsmoke," whose excellent reputation results in part from its adult characterizations.

On Tuesday, "The Mod Squad" is an action-packed series about youths that work undercover for the police, and appeals basically to mature youngsters and adults. "Lancer" is a western.

Wednesdays offer "The Virginian," another western, and "Here Come the Brides," a logging settlement lacking in wives and other females. There is also "Daktari," a very popular children's entry.

Thursdays have "Daniel Boone," a frontier piece that has always had pull with the young audience, and "Blondie," which should appeal to children with its comic strip flavor.

On Fridays, there is "The High Chaparral," a rugged western. Opposite this is "The Wild Wild West," also hardly kid stuff, unless you're talking about quality.

On Saturdays youngsters can choose among "Adam-12," A police show, "Get Smart"; The Jackie Gleason series; "The Newlywed Game," and "The Dating Game."

Sundays, the children do have a field day. They can watch the Walt Disney hour, or "Gentle Ben," or the new science-fiction series aimed at them, "Land of the Giants," and for those a little older, there are also the Ed Sullivan show.

Czech Athletes Can't Hide Sparks Of Bitterness

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Czechoslovakian and Soviet Athletes are maintaining a cool aloofness from each other—but they can't hide the sparks of bitterness—in the Olympic Village here.

"The Russians?" one muscled Czech athlete reacted to a query. "We look at them and we see only air."

Since Soviet tanks moved across the Czech border a month ago and parked on the main square of Prague organizers of the Olympic Games have seen fit to keep the two Communist teams as far apart as possible.

They mingle but they don't fraternize.

The Czechs wear the huge letters CSSR—signifying Czech-Slovak Socialist Republic. The Russians are recognizable by the familiar initials CCCP, meaning the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Originally, they were scheduled to occupy adjacent quarters and to eat in the same dining room—an iron curtain cafeteria containing also the East Germans and the Poles.

A discreet change was made in the apartment allocation. The Russians remained in dining room 1-A, where the main Communist nations eat. The Czechs were transferred to dining room 4-B. They eat with the Hollanders and the French. The Americans are next door.

"Eat with the Russians?" a Czech said with a grimace. "If they made me do that, I never eat. I starve to death."

There had been reports that because of the political situation in Prague, the great distance runner—winner of the marathon, 10,000 and 5,000 meter runs at Helsinki—had gone into hiding and may have sought sanctuary elsewhere.

"That is not true," a Czech official explained. "Zatopek was very unhappy at first when the Russians invaded. He refused to leave his apartment. But now he is coming to the Games. He is coming at the request of the International Olympic Committee.

School's Not Finished But Team Is Winning

GOOD MORNING — I don't know if I could stomach football practice every morning. I mean, cereal and ham 'n' eggs over easy don't sound too appealing if you'd have to follow them up with a dessert of blocks and tackles, quick openers and safety blitzes.

Yet, the kids up Novato way apparently thrive on this unusual schedule. Since their spanking new campus won't be completed until next month, students at San Marin High School have to double up and share facilities at Novato High, meaning the San Marin football team practices in the ayem and attends classes in the afternoon.

Since the San Marin Mustangs are undefeated after their first two games, there must be something to that old adage about the early birds getting the worm.

Problems Of Newness

Bob Martin, 30-year-old athletic director and head football coach at San Marin, was an office visitor the other day to tell us something about the problems of opening an athletic department at a new school.

Teeny-weeny problems like no football field for the football team, no swimming pool for the swimming team, no track for the track team, no diamond for the baseball team, etc.

"We're using the football field at Sinaloa Junior High for our first three home games and will use the Novato High field for our last four home games," said coach Martin, who moved to San Marin High after spending three years at Terra Linda and two years at Novato highs.

Just Sophs And Juniors

San Marin, with only sophomores and juniors, is playing a junior varsity football schedule but will play varsity competition for all other sports this school year. The Mustang footballers have already beaten St. Ignatius 18-6 and Terra Linda 20-13 and take on Redwood's jayvees this Saturday at Sinaloa.

He listed quarterback Ken Gnoss, a ". . . real good leader and fine boy," and 6-3, 195-pound tackle Kerry Atkinson as the outstanding back and lineman on the 58-player roster. That's quite a turnout, by the way — about one-sixth of the school's male enrollment.

Home At Indian Valley

Martin said the San Marin gymnasium should be completed within a month to take care of the basketball and wrestling teams; the golf team will use Novato's Indian Valley as its home course, the track and field team will borrow Novato High's track and the baseball teams probably will have to borrow a diamond. "I don't think our field will be ready in time for baseball season," said Martin.

Besides directing the athletic department and coaching football, Martin also will coach wrestling. He has seven coaches in his department: Carroll Dillon, assistant in football and head of junior varsity baseball and Class B basketball; Chris Ostrom, swimming; Andy Frauenhofer, varsity basketball and golf; Bob Richards, track and cross country; Mike Quinn, baseball; Bill Graves, assistant track, and Don Nicholas, junior varsity basketball.

United States Women Tie France For Golfing Lead

MELBOURNE (AP) — A 31-year-old housewife and a college student teamed for a 156 total that put the United States into a first-place tie with France heading into tomorrow's second round of the Espirito Santo Trophy for the world team championship in Women's amateur golf.

Mrs. Anne Welts, 31, of Mt. Vernon, Wash., and Jane Bastanchury, a 20-year-old student at Odessa, Tex., College, fired 78s yesterday in the first of four rounds over the wind-swept 6,040-yard Victoria Club course.

The third member of the U.S. team, 19-year-old Shelly Hamlin of Fresno, had an 82 — but only the top two scores from each country count in the team total.

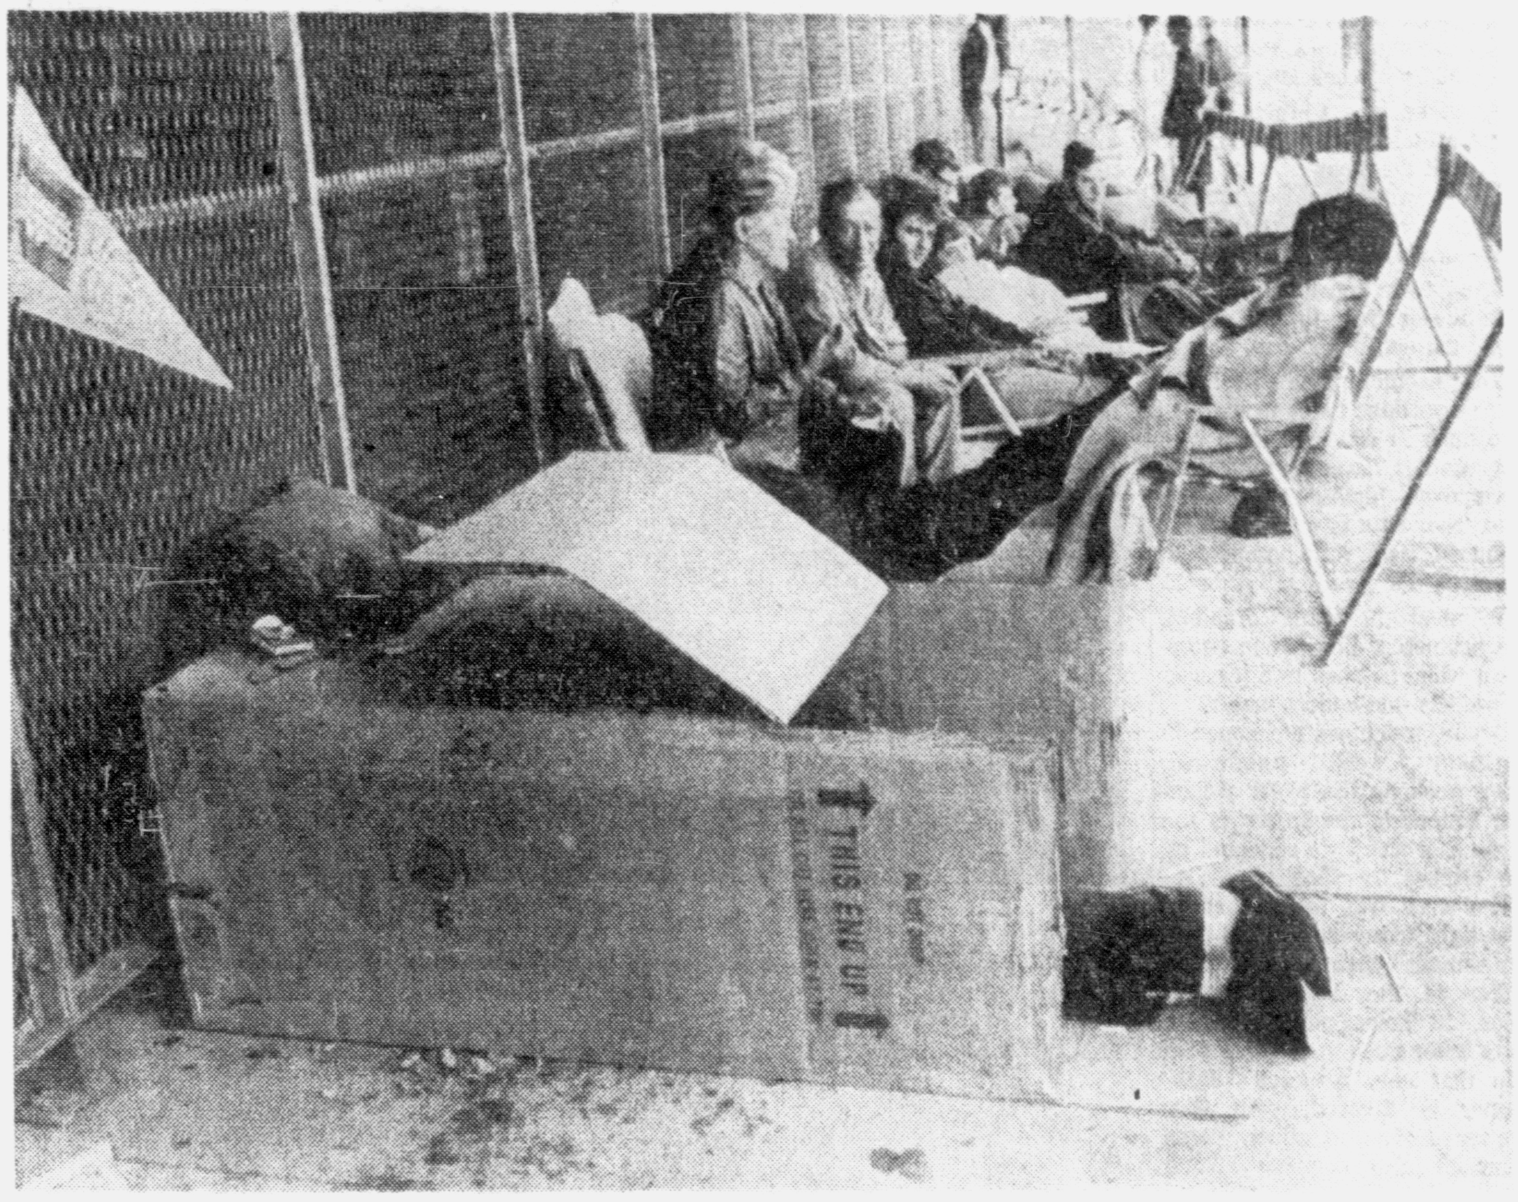
Canada and Australia shared third place with 158s, followed by Britain and Ireland with 163 each.

Irving Crane Wins Billiards Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Crane of Rochester, N.Y., won the International Pocket Billiard Championship and $5,000 last night by defeating Steve Mizerak of Perth Amboy, N.J., 150-112.

The victory gave Crane a 13-2 record in the 15-match round robin tourney. He had beaten Art Cranfield of Syracuse, N.Y., 150-93 in an earlier match Tuesday.



A FAN IN THE BOX

Art (Happy) Flesh, obviously is for the Birds. The Milwaukee resident and St. Louis Cardinal fan set up home in a large box and went to sleep while waiting in the standing room ticket line at Busch Stadium yesterday. Some fans began lining up Sunday for the 3,100 standing-room-only tickets that went on sale today, four hours before the opening game of the World Series.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

King Ready To Move In

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The World Series rumor league has Clyde King ready to move in as new manager of the San Francisco Giants and Joe Schultz to take over as boss of the expansion team in Seattle.

The resignation of the Giants' coaching staff and Herman Franks' mid-season decision to quit if he didn't win the pennant, open the door for King to move up from the Phoenix farm club. Franks' mobile home business may be sold for $2.5 million.

Schultz, a coach under Red Schoendienst with the St. Louis Cardinals, is reported to have the inside track at the Seattle job. Schultz, a former catcher with Pittsburgh and the old St. Louis Browns, managed in the minors for 13 years before he came to the majors as a coach in 1963.

THE CARDS have a clipping from a newspaper story posted on the bulletin board in their clubhouse in which Denny McLain is quoted as saying, "I don't want to beat them. I want to humiliate them."

IF MAYO SMITH is defying precedent by starting Mickey Stanley at shortstop after only eight games at the position, how about the 1913 New York Giants?

In the Series with the old Philadelphia A's, John McGraw had to play pitcher George Wiltse at first base and infielder Art Shafer in center field due to injuries to Fred Merkle and Fred Snodgrass. He had to play a second string catcher, Larry McLean because Chief Meyers had a broken finger. He used only 12 players in the Series and lost it 4-1.

Incidentally, Jackie Robinson was a versatile Series performer, playing first base in 1947, second base in 1949 and 1952, left field in 1953 and third base in 1955 and 1956.

LEFTY GOMEZ was talking about Bob Gibson's chance of breaking his record of six straight World Series victories before yesterday's workout at Busch Stadium.

"They're knocking me out of the record book," quipped Lefty, who had a perfect 6-0 Series record. "But there's one they can't tie—starting the first All-Star Game."

Warriors' Overtime Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors head into San Diego tomorrow night looking for thir third basketball exhibition victory in four starts when they meet the Los Angeles Lakers.

At San Jose last night, the Warriors overcame an 11-point deficit by outscoring the Seattle Supersonics 43-21 in the final period and an overtime for a 119-106 victory.

Jeff Mullins, who topped Warrior scoring with 24, led the rally that tied the score at 103 at the end of regulation play. Bob Lewis scored six for San Francisco in the overtime period.

Seattle's Bob Rule led all the scorers with 30.

Regulars Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee of the Wariors sat out the game but should be ready for the Laker game. Thurmond has a bruised heel and Lee an infected blister on his foot.

Tiger Fans' Emotions Higher Than St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Detroit Tiger and St. Louis Cardinal fans both speak the same baseball language, but after 23 yards of pent up emotions Tiger enthusiasm is coming out in a roar while the Cardinals' seems to be at a chirp.

It was back in 1945 that Detroit last was the scene of a World Series. On the other hand, St. Louis won a pennant last year and had only one year to get aroused about it.

Robert Weber came from Chicago two weeks ago to sell Cardinal souvenirs on a downtown streetcorner. He has been doing $50 worth of business a day, he said. But "they had a good $100-$150 a day last year and we were hoping to get it this year," he said.

"They (customers) have their pennants from last year so they don't buy new ones," he said.

A drug store across the street had Cardinal souvenirs in the window and a sign read: "We did it again." A band around a hat said, "Bravo St. Louis Cardinals."

Such subdued enthusiasm is not to be found in the Motor City. Bumper stickers are on almost every car displaying such slogans as: "Tigers deal the Cards out," "Sock it to 'em Tigers," and "Tigers eat Cardinals."

But St. Louis has a built-in disadvantage in such slogans. No matter how fierce a Cardinal is made to appear the red bird looks weak next to a tiger.

People have heard of tigers in their tank, but how would a cardinal under the hood sound? maybe if a tiger swallowed a cardinal it would have a chirp in its burp, but the whole thing eventually gets further off the track of two talented opponents squaring off in a World Series.

M.V. Golf Winner

Wayne Smith rolled up a 272 total over 62 holes to capture the junior championship of the Mill Valley Golf Club last Sunday.

Guess Who Leads Oaks' Scoring?

SALINAS (AP) — Rick Barry played his first game with the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association in an intrasquad game here last night and led individual scoring with 39 points.

Barry, who sat out a year's option with the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association, hit 13 of 35 tries from the field and made 13 free throws.

In spite of Barry's efforts, his Green team was beaten by the Golds 139-135 before 937 fans at the Palma High School court. Doug Moe and Wes Bialosuknia each scored 30 for the Golds.

A hometown hero, 5-foot-10 rookie Russ Critchfield, who set an all-time scoring record at the University of California, pleased the Salinas fans by chalking up 22 points for the losing Greens.

Mollenkopf: Single Platoon Would Hurt Game

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Coach Jack Mollenkopf, whose No. 1 Purdue team banks heavily on strong offensive and defensive units, said a return to one-platoon play would hurt college football.

"We need platoon football," Mollenkopf told the Downtown Quarterback Club yesterday. "All the colleges would lose about $2½ million if we didn't have it."

He said football brings in the money for other college athletic programs. "You men in business don't cut out that which brings in money."

His remarks added another page to the controversy two-platoon football has triggered since it was launched by Michigan against Army in 1947.

Mollenkopf said the Pacific Eight Conference proposed limited substitution and restrictions on platoon play last month to cut costs. "They'll take their proposals to the NCAA too," he said.

Bill Reed, Big Ten commissioner, has said there is a strong possibility the men who draft college rules will restore limited substitution in the next five years.

Mollenkopf said there is more entertainment in two-platoon play.

He said, "You go there to enjoy yourselves, and we've had that the past two Saturdays," referring to Purdue's 37-22 trouncing of Notre Dame last week and the 44-6 victory over Virginia the week before.

Reed said in a telephone interview last night from his Chicago office, "In many places you get this thinking about limited substitution. I know there is a very strong drive on this in many parts of the country. This is because of cost."

Whether a return to one-platoon football would hurt colleges financially is speculative, Reed said.

"I'm inclined to question it would hurt the game because there is the possibility more versatility would be required to adapt to it," he said. "This in itself is interesting football."

PACKERS HURTING

That Defensive Wall Crumbling

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Injuries, striking with the force of Joshua's trumpet, have caused Green Bay's vaunted defensive wall to crumble, temporarily sidelining the Packers' drive to a fourth consecutive National Football League championship.

Under Vince Lombardi, former defensive coach for the New York Giants, the Packers developed a dynasty using a ball-control offense and a stingy defense.

DIFFERENCE

But under rookie Coach Phil Bengtson, Green Bay's opponents have marched overland. And the success of the ground game has meant that opposing quarterbacks could start picking apart the normally tight Packer air coverage.

"The defense hasn't been good at all," Bengtson admitted after Sunday's 23-17 loss to the Detroit Lions that saw Green Bay slip to a 1-2 record and a tie for last place in the Central Division.

Joe Schmidt, Lions coach, touched on the same subject when he said, "I knew we could move the football."

The Minnesota Vikings two weeks ago had the nerve to run on fourth-and-one deep in their own territory. They made it and went on to defeat the Packers.

BLITZING

It's not like the past when Green Bay's defensive line would lead the charge, letting the linebackers help out the defensive secondary on pass coverage. Now the Packers are blitzing more, a strategy that Lombardi once said was used only to cover up a weakness.

The best-known Packer hospital cases have been in the offensive backfield where Elijah Pitts, Jim Grabowski and Ben Wilson underwent off-season surgery. But it's on the defensive line where the injuries have hurt the most. Only defensive captain Willie Davis has escaped.

LONG LIST

Tackle Henry Jordan hurt his back; tackle Ron Kostelnik missed some of the pre-season workouts with a bad leg; tackle Bob Brown has yet to see action this year after suffering a broken arm; tackle Jim Weatherwax is still limping after being injured in an exhibition, and end Lionel Aldridge twisted his ankle against the Vikings.

"It's not in very good shape," the Packer coach said of his defensive line. "Eventually we hope Bob Brown will be ready to help us."

READY

Brown says he is ready now. "I asked to play in this last game against Minnesota," he said. "I believe I could help the team."

When asked when Brown would return to the roster, Bengtson said, "I can't answer that. They X-ray the arm periodically to see how the healing is progressing. The doctors haven't said he could play yet."

About Jordan, Bengtson said, "We know that one of his strong points is not against the rush in a short yardage situation."

Van Brocklin Given Plenty Of Power

ATLANTA (AP)—Controversial Norm Van Brocklin takes over the football fortunes of the Atlanta Falcons with promises of plenty of power and plenty of time to turn them into a top team.

The National Football League's passing whiz of the '50s demanded—and got—a long-term contract of a reported five years, full control of the team and a free hand in future scouting, trading and drafting of players.

IN CONTACT

Van Brocklin, 42, apparently has been in contact with Atlanta owner Rankin Smith for several weeks about taking the coaching job but not until yesterday morning were his requests agreed to.

Smith, who has been unhappy for some time with the performance of the Falcons under Norb Hecker, fired Hecker and hired Van Brocklin after published reports that such a change was upcoming.

SPEEDED THINGS

"Let's just say that the newspaper stories speeded things up," said Smith, whose Falcons have won but four games since they joined the NFL in 1966.

Van Brocklin, who arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night and said, "I'm still in love with football," plans to keep Hecker's coaching staff for the rest of the season and also plans few changes in the offense and defense for the time being.

Richard L. Bass, Rams' Runner With A Tunnel

By the time we got to Cleveland, the resident Bob Hopes were waiting with their Sunday-best witticisms.

Conundrum: What do the Rams do differently from any other football team? Answer: They put their offense in when the other team has the ball.

JOKE: THE Rams see it so seldom, they have 20 people on their squad who couldn't describe a football. And also: Who are the top receivers on the Rams? The linebackers, silly!

To hear the wags tell it, the Rams couldn't gain through a paper hoop. But the truth of the matter is, the Rams' offense is not so much invisible as it is unobtrusive. They gobble up territory the way the Communists do countries. The other guys just look up in surprise and say, "Whatever are you doing here?"

YOU TAKE Richard L. Bass, our man in the backfield, late of Her Majesty's secret intelligence, the last of the great fops. Beau Richard helped himself to 134 yards Sunday without drawing any more attention to himself than a jewel thief or a guy hired to guard the silver at a society wedding.

The first thing they do with Richard on game day, I am sure, is to blow him up. He weighs 200 pounds, suited up, but if he ever runs over a nail and springs a leak, he will be flat enough to mail.

RICHARD DOESN'T run over or through anybody anymore. He goes UNDER. There are some linebackers in the league who think he has a tunnel. He's like a kid sneaking under a fence. The two lines come together. Roman Gabriel hands him the ball surreptitiously, and all of a sudden, Dick emerges in the secondary like a guy crawling up out of manhole cover.

SOMETIMES IT takes the other guys' linemen several seconds to FIND him. They're down on their hands and knees like a guy feeling for a collar button under a dresser. By that time, of course, they'd have a better chance of finding Judge Crater. Dick is long gone and it's the defensive halfback's turn to guess which shell has the pea.

The Rams count on Richard for a 1,000 yards a season. So does the garment industry. Beau Richard, you see, has a bigger wardrobe than Western Costume. His apartment is just a kind of a closet with beds. Some guys wouldn't dream of wearing the same clothes two days in a row. Dick wouldn't dream of wearing them two hours in a row.

HE USUALLY looks like he's on his way to duel. Lace collar and cuffs, velvet frock coats, a handkerchief tucked in his wrist. He makes Eustace Tilley (the cover of The New Yorker) look like a carpenter. He's the only guy in the National Football League who has a monocle. If fox-hunting ever makes a comeback, Richard is ready. All he'll need is the trumpet. He takes his riding crop and derby just to ride a bus.

Richard has the requisite number of Nehru jackets, but, spiritually, he prefers the 18th Century. You want to ask him what he did with the three-cornered hat or the powdered wig. He had on a metallic turtleneck in Cleveland that had so much gold in it, you could hock it. They didn't sew this shirt, they forged it. It was so bright it looked radioactive. A lance would break on it.

FOOTBALL IS just a sideline with Richard. I believe his checks go direct to Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Carnaby Street and the bootmaker he shares with Prince Phillip's polo team. Dick wants to fill the void not left by Red Grange but by Louis B. Mayer. If you see him on the phones on the bench during a game, it's not to the scouts in the pressbox, it's to the William Morris office. Richard is really a theatrical agent. He has more phones in his home than Cuba. He's currently handling a sensational young singer named Richard Dickson. He is also auditioning an off-Broadway show he may want to angel.

RICHARD, AS you can see, is a man for all seasons. The Rams, naturally, want him to cast the Super Bowl — and put a good part in it for himself. Even if they have to put a phone in his uniform so that Abe Lastfogel can't put one over on him while he's running with the ball or David Merrick needs him.

WITH WINTER coming on, Dick was another problem: Shoring up his fall wardrobe. He has been pricing mink coats. Not for his wife, for him. Dick might someday be the only guy in the country a chorus girl gives a mind to. But Dick feels California is too warm for a full-length mink. "I may just settle for a stole," he says resignedly.

NFL Cardinals Displaying A Double Duty Punt Man

NEW YORK (AP) — When a punt sails skyward in a St. Louis Cardinals football game, the chances are excellent that one of Chuck Latourette's feet or both of his hands will be on one end of it.

Not only does Latourette do the Cards' punting, he returns them, too. Not his own, of course, but the other side's.

He did that so well Sunday in a 21-20 victory over New Orleans that he set a National Football League record for highest punt return average in one game—47.7 yards.

The second-year pro from Rice ran back three punts—one for 11 yards, another for 46 and a third 86 yards for a touchdown. He also hauled back three kickoffs for 90 yards and his total yardage on punts and kickoffs of 233 surpassed the St. Louis offense of 219.

Oh, yes—Latourette also punted Sunday, four times for a 37-yard average.

Iowa's Gov. Hughes Athletic Governor

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa was a well-known high school athlete long before he came to prominence in politics.

Hughes in 1938 won the state high school discus championship and in 1940 he was an all-state football guard. Hughes attended the Ida Grove High School.

Cricket To Golf's Rescue

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — If the Alcan $200,000 Golf Tournament gets started at all today they can thank Britiish cricket.

Cricket experts who know best how to dry out selected grounds arrived to bail out the 7,140-yard, par 74 Royal Birkdale Golf Club links which have been under a week long rain.

At stake is a 64-man tournament which includes the Alcan Golfer of the Year title, restricted to 24 professionals who have qualified to shoot for a first prize of $55,000.

The two tournaments run side-by-side, with the big one toward the end of the day.

The promoters changed the course yardage twice in the past two days in order to cope with the weather. Tuesday night they went even further to relax a rule. They said any player could clean his ball any numbers of times on the greens.

To meet the water problem, the promoters brought in equipment which is used to dry cricket wickets and collect water.

Drying machines developed in Germany were summoned. They work on the roller principle, squeezing the water to the surface, where it is collected by the cricket machines.

The work was to be done at first light today and the 64-man tournament then starts, The Golfer of the Year, over 72 holes, 18 holes per day, gets going after noon.

In that one, America's Billy Casper is favored, with Gay Brewer and Australia's Peter Thomson also drawing strong support. Other Americans in the 24-man field are Frank Beard, Gardner Dickinson, Bob Murphy, Miller Barber, George Archer, Tom Weiskopf, Bert Yancey, and Lee Trevino.

Shoe Polish Susans

College Of Marin Students Organize Own Soccer Team

By KIMO CAMPBELL

Soccer, a game regarded with fanatical attention throughout most of the globe, has yet to make much of a dent in the minds of American sports fans, who still prefer first downs, punts and fast breaks to headers, penalty kicks and diving saves by the goalie. But a small crack in the wall of indifference is beginning to show — within their small area of influence — and a group of students at the College of Marin is trying to widen it.

The COM soccer team is not supported by the college athletic department, particularly now that the department is having trouble financing the established sport. But athletic director Harry Pieper has given the team his help by scheduling games, use of the school facilities and everything short of financial aid.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

The team, made up of homesick, soccer-bred foreign students and some Americans who have never played before, has no coach, no uniforms, no goals, and no equipment except that which the team members own. But they make up in enthusiasm what they lack in material.

Forty-two students have turned out, 18 of them American-born, the rest an international potpourri — French, Turkish, Greek, Colombian, Argentine, Scotch-Hawaiian, Israeli. Many are ineligible under California junior college rules because of the residency requirement, which was designed to discourage proselyting basketball and football players, but in effect discriminates against foreign students. So the Tars play an informal schedule, for now.

Last week's opening games, in striking contrast, pointed out the strengths and weaknesses of the Marin team. The first game was a 10-0 loss to City College of San Francisco, equal to about 68-20 in football. To explain this lop-sidedness, a few facts about CCSF:

The Rams lost a match last year to a "loaded" Merritt College team, 5-4, later beating Merrit twice. The loss was CCSF's first in 100 games. CCSF won the Bay Area championship five years running, against Cal, Stanford and others of that ilk, whereupon the four-year schools kicked them out. So CCSF stuck to junior college competition and has won the state title five years straight. In 1965 the Rams beat a USF team that went on to win the NCAA championship the same season.

This year's CCSF team, led by All-Americans Otie Cannon (five goals against Marin) and Alan Chu, plays with beautiful style and precision. Against the Tar tyros, they looked like Green Bay scrimmaging the College All-Stars. But the Rams' coach, Roy Deiderichsen (190 wins, 12 losses, 10 ties in 20 years) felt that Marin was far from hopeless.

"Your team," he said, "is no worse than at least four teams in our Western J.C. Soccer Conference — Menlo, Diablo Valley, Ohlone, West Valley. City College, San Mateo and Merrit are too far ahead now, but the rest you can compete with right now. This is our first year under California J.C. eligibility rules, and any of our players could play football or basketball."

The Tars turned around the next night and swamped Napa 8-0 in a preliminary to the Marin-Napa football game, showing a vast improvement, attributable not only to the lower calibre of opposition, but to better teamwork (the CCSF game was Marin's fourth scrimmage) and confidence.

REGAINED CONFIDENCE

Jaime Torres, a Colombian student who resembles a clarinet, scored five goals against the Chiefs, with Alain Devise netting two. Orhan Terzi, a Turk who is one of the troika of player-coaches running the team, felt that the game gave back some confidence lost in the expected rout by CCSF, and showed the players that they could play respectable soccer.

The team is now looking for a coach, and chipping in for equipment. It may be a few years before 5,000 fans will pack Marin Stadium to see a soccer game, but the players are learning, staying in shape, and having a lot of fun (including the writer, last-string fullback, thus a prejudiced witness) which, I submit, is the object of college sport.

Decision To Fire Kennedy Made Three Months Ago

OAKLAND — You were promised winter sports commentary in this space, I know, but with the firing this week of Bob Kennedy by Charlie Finley, permit, please, the Summer malady of the A's to linger on.

For what I am now prepared to offer is the reason for Kennedy's firing moments after the final game of the season. The decision had been made three months earlier.

It came in the ninth inning of the first game of a doubleheader in Detroit on July 7. (How's that for pinpoint gossip?)

THE A's and Tigers were tied 4-4 going into the bottom of the ninth. Oakland starter Lew Krausse was pitching a five-hitter and seemed in full control of matters. There was one out and muscular Willie Horton was due up for Detroit.

That's when Kennedy hanged himself — at least in the benevolent Mr. Finley's eyes. Bob jerked Krausse for rookie relief pitcher Ed Sprague of Hayward. Sprague throws, or is supposed to throw, a sinkerball. The theory in baseball is that you cannot hit a sinkerball into the seats; one tends to bang a low pitch on the ground. Kennedy hoped that Sprague would throw a sinker pitch and Horton would bounce out.

Horton homered.

FINLEY WAS probably ready to dump Kennedy at that moment. But one fellow who knows the habits of the A's owner said, "Even Charlie knew he'd be going too far too soon in a new town to fire his manager in mid-season."

It's obvious Kennedy never knew he was in trouble, which is usually the case when you're about to be fired — in any business. Even the file clerk knows before the victim.

A WEEK AGO my sixth sense (the nag) suggested I should speak to Kennedy about his future. "Awright already," I said, and trudged to the dugout.

"Mr. Finley and I have an excellent relationship," Bob told me. "And I've got a two-year contract. I haven't heard from Mr. Finley in several weeks, but he'll be in this weekend and we can start planning for next year."

Finley sure did come in over the weekend and sure did start planning for next year.

THE SECRET words Kennedy uttered, and of which he should have been wary, were "haven't heard in several weeks."

My spy tells me, "When Finley doesn't talk to you for a few weeks, you're through."

So Kennedy, who nursed and spoon-fed a bunch of green kids into the fringe of the first division and gave Finley his first over-.500 team was through.

Bob was a nice, uninteresting guy who would answer every question politely. His kids liked him, played for him respectfully.

NOW ARRIVETH Hank Bauer, separated a half dozen years ago from the same job by Finley. At that time, the story goes, Bauer asked at season's end, "How about my contract for next year?" And Finley's supposed to have told him, "We'll talk about it later." And Hank's supposed to have said, "Forget it."

Hank is nice — and interesting. He probably will not permit Finley to call as many lineup shots as Kennedy did. Which means Bauer again will lose the A's job, after 1969 or '70.

YOU WANT motivation? I'll give you motivation.

One day while Bauer was with the A's in Kansas City, Finley called on him. The owner said he noticed a grass stain on Hank's uniform bottom. The owner said the manager should clean it off.

"That," said the tough former Marine, "is not a grass stain. That is mistletoe."

There, friends, was a real sinkerball.

Clem Daniels To See More Action In L.A.

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Clem Daniels will see more action Suday against Los Angeles than he did last Sunday against Atlanta, according to 49er coach Dick Nolan.

Daniels, former Oakland Raider star, joined the team just before game time and gained a yard on three carries.

Nolan also said that rookie Kevin Hardy might be used as a punter. But he said that last week and Steve Spurrier still handled the kicking chores against Atlanta.

The return of the 49er running attack mainwhile was indicated by latest NFL figures which showed Ken Willard (198 yards gained) and Gary Lewis (190) sixth and seventh in the rankings. Clifton McNeil of the Prospectors led pass receivers with 15 grabs for 204 yards.

San Jose '11' Loses Star

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Coach Harry Anderson is casting around today for a replacement for Walter Shockley, tailback and San Jose State's leading offensive threat.

The Spartans, who play California in Berkeley on Saturday, disclosed yesterday that Shockley suffered a knee injury during the last weekend victory over Fresno State.

Before being injured he had scored two touchdowns against Fresno, gained 66 yards on 21 carries and caught a pass for 17 yards.

As San Jose was walloped by Stanford the week before, he gained 82 yards on 14 carries and caught four passes for 70 yards.

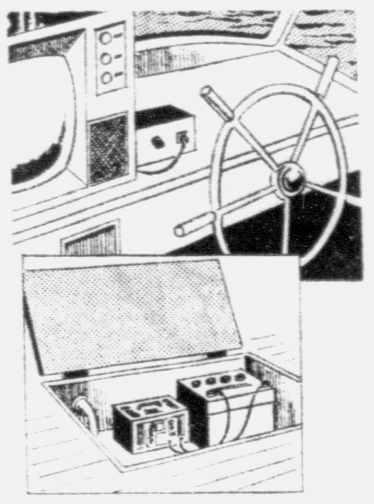
BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Electronics Industry Offers New Gadgets

There's a terrific electronic gadget for boats out this year. It's a device which steps up the 12-volt direct current of a boat's battery to 117-volt 60-cycle alternating current as supplied to homes and industry.

It comes in kit form, so it has to be put together at home, and costs $100. It's called a power inverter.



POWER INVERTER LETS YOU PLUG IN HOME APPLIANCES AFLOAT

The idea is not new. What is new is that this device will give enough power to run most home appliances. It delivers 500 watts of power which will run a TV set (black and white, or color); shavers; electric drills and saws; kitchen appliances, such as mixers, blenders and can openers; and entertainment equipment, such as phonographs and tape recorders.

And it provides enough power to run a few of them simultaneously.

THINGS IT won't run are a compressor type refrigerator — the motor needs a very heavy starting current. Nor will it run heating devices, such as electric kettles —they need 1,350 to 1,500 watts of power — or clothes dryers, which need 5,000 watts or more.

This is only one of several new electronic devices pitched to the boater. Many of them also come in kit form which cuts the price considerably. Most kit assemblies are well within the scope of the average handyman.

OTHER NEWS in marine electronics is the support the Federal Communications Commission is giving manufacturers to push the new-style radiotelephones which operate in the frequency modulation bands. This is to ease the pressure on the old standard marine bands which are so congested with inconsequential chit-chat that a boater who wants to make an emergency call to the Coast Guard is hard pressed to yell his way in.

Marine electronics is a thriving industry and as more and more boaters get new gadgets, we get questions:

Q. Is a depth finder worth the money for a small runabout boat?

A. If you operate in an area where running aground could cause serious damage — what do YOU think? You can get a good one for well under $100. There's a new one this year that works either off a boat's battery or dry cells. It's really pitched to the angler who is working small inland lakes.

Q. Are the new VHF-FM radiotelephones more expensive than the old marine band phones?

A. The cheapest I can find is about $450, whereas the same power radiophone for the old marine band was about $300.

Q. What are the advantages?

A. It's just the same difference as between old-fashioned standard broadcast AM (amplitude modulation) radio and FM (frequency modulation) radio. There's better speech quality, no static, less interference, much more "space" in the band for more channels. The only disadvantage is that FM transmissions are limited to line of sight.

Q. I'm building a fuel vapor detector or "bilge sniffer" from a kit. How does it really work?

A. The "detector" part is a very small platinum wire through which a tiny electric current flows. In the presence of flammable vapors, the electrical resistance of the wire changes, depending on the concentration of the vapor. This is measured and shows on a warning dial. Don't ask why platinum does this. I don't think anybody knows.

Q. What's the technical name for the gadget which tells how far over a sailboat is heeling? Who sells them? How much?

A It's called an inclinometer. Write: Rieker Co., 1919 Fairmount Ave., Philadelphia, Pa. 19130 or Thatcher Marine, 930 Westwood Dr., Allison, Ill. 60101. Prices run from $10 to $100.

Q. My propeller was "eaten away" by corrosion in salt water. I'm told there is a new device that will stop this. What is it?

A. This is one of the most revolutionary and useful of all electronic devices for salt water boaters. It really stops salt water galvanic corrosion completely. It's a very simple, cheap device and is called MerCathode. Ask any marine dealer about it.

Mill Valley Netters Win Practice Match

The Mill Valley Recreation Department's men's tennis team will open its league season Sunday on the Boyle Park tennis courts starting at 9 a.m.

Tar Harriers Take Third Win

College of Marin's cross country team, running without No. 1 man Steve Carroll, still burned up its Kentfield course to take its third straight victory of the season, downing Laney, 26-31, yesterday.

George Stewart set a course record of 23 minutes, 32 seconds over the four-mile distance as the Tars captured three out of the top four places. Darren Walton was third and Rich Cordone fourth.

The Tars took their first conference win in the new Camino Norte loop last Friday by zipping past Contra Costa in Richmond, 15-43, as Carroll led a sweep of the first five places with a 24:22 time.

Marin Swim Club Names New Coach

Galen Hopkins, 46, veteran swim coach, has been hired by the Marin Swim Club as administrative head coach, it was announced yesterday.

A native of Sonoma, Hopkins began his coaching career in Santa Rosa Recreation Department in 1941 while a student at Santa Rosa Junior College. He also coached the Reno Recreation Department swim team while attending University of Nevada in 1949.

Hopkins was principal of Yerington, Nev., High School until 1951, when he moved to Sacramento and joined the schools office.

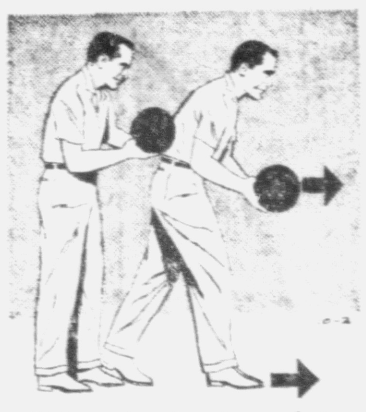
MASTERS DEGREE

He returned to coaching with the Arden Park Dolfins from 1951 to 1955 and the Arden Manor Swim Team from 1955-1960. During this time he received his masters degree in psychology from Sacramento State College. In 1962 he became head coach of the Del Norte Swim Club.

Hopkins, who is married and the father of four, has also served on the Executive Swim Committee of the American Amateur Union (AAU) and is presently a member of the Junior Olympics Swim Committee. He and his family plan to move to Marin County.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



If there is a key to good timing, it is the initial movement of the foot and the push-away of the ball. They must begin at the same time. If you use the four-step delivery, this means that the instant your right foot starts forward, the ball also should start moving. This must become a natural part of your approach or you will never develop a smooth delivery.

Rams 12-Point Pick Over 49ers

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Harrah's Tahoe Racebook yesterday listed the Los Angeles Rams as 12-point favorites over the San Francisco 49ers in their National Football League game Sunday.

The Oakland Raiders were favored by 19 points over the Boston Patriots for their American Football League game at Oakland and Stanford was quoted at nine points over the Air Force Academy for their Saturday game at Stanford.

World Series Means Lots Of Money Spent

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Richard Sauget, a catcher for the Atlanta Braves' Richmond farm team, knows perhaps better than anyone what effect the 1968 World Series will have on St. Louis this year.

Sauget, 24, has just received his master's degree in economics from St. Mary's University in San Antonio—after completing his thesis on the economic impact of the 1967 World Series on the St. Louis area.

Some startling conclusions are brought to light in his exhaustive study of the three-day period during which the Series was played last year in St. Louis.

Using a carefully worded questionnaire to interview fans attending the games and applying his knowledge of economics to the results, Sauget concluded that out-of-town fans poured more than $8 million into the St. Louis economy.

St. Louis fans spent nearly $1 million during the three-day period as a direct result of the Series, his findings showed.

Taking into consideration recirculation of the intown and out-of-town fans' money, "slightly over $20 million" was spent during the World Series in St. Louis last year, Sauget concluded.

After graduating from Notre Dame with an economics degree in 1966, Sauget, a 6-3, 250-pounder signed with the Atlanta Braves.

Despite his busy baseball schedule and duty with the Army Reserves, Sauget still managed to attend St. Mary's and complete his thesis.

"I wanted to do something that would apply to baseball, or sports in general," Sauget said in explaining how he selected the subject.

TAKE YOUR BUSINESS TO KINSEL'S

I've been a businessman for a long, long time. Not always a good businessman, perhaps, and therein lies a story, as the cracker barrel boys would say.

For example, I was a so-so businessman at nine hustling newspapers in Detroit. Oh, I sold papers with fervor—and with determination, sometimes shouting imaginative headlines when paper-selling news was scarce. But, I failed to hit the high in newspaperdom because I got cold in winter and took time to warm up occasionally, and, in summer, I'd sneak off to the gingerale shop to cool off. Detroit in Winter and Detroit in Summer will get to a guy sometimes.

Then, too, I missed out on the brass ring of greatness in that line because I never felt eating was urgent enough for me to take guff from the nasties who thought their 3 cent purchase gave them special license to browbeat. I might have been hurting for those extra sales and extra pennies, but I felt a lot better telling the creeps to "take their business to Kinsel's" (the hottest corner in town where the newsboy took all the guff and got fat on it).

In the years since, my particular business has been largely automobiles, and, thankfully, the vast majority of people I've met have given me a warm glow and a good living and a most precious asset, a reputation as a straight operator. A few along the way, however, have given me a solid pain in the you-know-what area. Things and my attitude toward this minute segment haven't changed since my newsy days. These unchosen few can well take their business to Kinsel's—or anywhere else.

To be a successful businessman, a man is not required to take abuse or cower in fear at the unwarranted rage of a "customer" who makes a career out of scowling. The scowler usually is a coward at home or at work, and thinks his buck buys him a docile target. With me, his buck buys service, value, and courtesy. If unwarranted abuse comes with the buck, he can spend the next one elsewhere.

I have a special disinterest in prolonging contact with the guy who pays for services rendered, stops payment on his check, and demands a carefully calculated reduction in the bill, claiming foul. He's right about one thing. It is a foul, and he's committed it. This guy relies on the reluctance of good businessmen to resort to the courts for collection, and he invariably succeeds in his special form of blackmail. Any adjustment made under duress is hardly proper or just, for either party. This unethical "customer" will find his modus operandi carefully recorded in credit files to create some future inconvenience for him.

Another guy who can go to Kinsel's is the joker who expects some special award for his patronage and "goodwill." A good deal apparently is not enough. Honest, reliable service is fine, but what else? Really, fella, there does come a point in time when the gross profit is all used up, and there ain't no more. And, will you grieve over the undearly departed dealer who didn't keep track of this point in time?

How about the hard-to-take loyal-customer-who-will-never-never-buy-again who is all pushed out of shape because the parts manager didn't hang around the dealership all day Sunday just to provide him with the set of spark plugs he's been waiting all week to install himself? After all, just because he works 40 hours a week is no reason why the employees of an auto dealership should expect a bit of home life.

In my dealership, Marin Dodge, the vast majority of customers and potential customers I dearly love. I'm still that independent Detroit newsy, full-grown, however, so I may not be too polite to the isolated exceptions like those I've just described.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 2, the 276th day of 1968 with 90 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

A thought for the day—French essayist, Michel de Montaigne, once said: "Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One Player Insists On South Hand In Duplicate Action And The Reason

"I always sit South in a duplicate game," writes Daniel H. George, of Gloucester, Mass., "because I read your daily column and know that South gets all those good hands. Maybe that's how I got into three hearts with these cards:

No. 3675 .... October 2, 1968

LEADS LOW

"I get the lead of the four of hearts, and East plays the queen. I win with the ace, play a diamond to the king and return another heart. East plays low, and I put up the king, noting the lucky fall of the jack. I figured that this particular East would have played the jack at the first trick with Q-J-x of trumps.

"Now I lead another diamond, and West takes the ace and gets out with a diamond to dummy's queen. I play ace of clubs and another club, giving the city slickers another chance to start the spades but I'm in tough luck because East wins and fires back another club, which I ruff.

LEADS SPADE

"Since I can't put it off any longer, I lead the jack of spades. West snaps up with the ace and leads another spade, but I can't guess wrong. Whne I play the queen from dummy, East wins with the king but then has to return a diamond or a club, and I can ruff in dummy and discard the last spade from my hand.

"My partner later says he would have played a low spade to dummy's queen, instead of leading the jack of spades. I explained that I knew the top spades were divided since if this particular West had a spade suit headed by ace-king he'd have opened the king of spades instead of that silly lo trump.

GAME OF LUCK?

"Anyway, I thought you'd be glad to know my partner has finally convinced me that this game is one of luck because if he had played South, he's have gone down. It's sure lucky I read your column every day and play South."

Luck is where you find it. The opponents weren't lucky to have this tough hand played by my correspondent. And what luck for me to get a letter that does my whole day's work for me.

DAILY QUESTION

Answer: Bid two clubs.

You can afford a response with seven points in high cards, and no other response comes close to describing your hand.

Tax Reform Ranks High On Agenda For Lawmakers

NEW YORK (AP) — No matter which party wins the coming elections, tax reform will be one of the big issues of 1969. In fact the arguments are expected to begin shortly, although some say it's hard to say when they ever ended.

By the close of the year President Johnson must offer his recommendations on the subject, which involves not just billions of dollars and millions of pages of decisions, but almost as many points of view as well.

So complex have taxes become that entire businesses today are built on printing, interpreting and advising how best to use the laws, and the legal and accounting professions have bred mutations adapted only to the tax world.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated that the administration is especially concerned about the tax burden on the poor compared with "the serious problem of those taxpayers with very high annual incomes who make little or no contribution . . ."

This suggests that a very heated discussion of the negative income tax might be on the schedule.

Expansion of tax sources could be a major issue.

For years tax experts have been studying means of obtaining revenue from sources other than incomes. The present income tax ranges up to 77 per cent on personal income and nearly 53 per cent on corporations, which are high compared with other industrial nations.

Forecast: A Squeeze On Profits

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Despite some pessimistic reports on 1969 business activity, "the fundamental underlying strength" of the American economy should not be overlooked, Bank of America reports.

"Possibly of greater concern than the expected business slowdown would be a too vigorous expansionary reaction by fiscal and monetary authorities fearing a more severe economic adjustment than is actually in prospect," the bank's experts said.

In a special report entitled "Focus on 1969: The U. S. Economy," Bank of America predicts that profit margins will come under increasing pressures due to higher costs and a slower rise in business sales.

While a less aggressive policy will seem natural and prudent to some managements, the bank advises against over-reacting to short-term reverses — "business financing plans syould be kept flexible to take advantage of favorable market conditions."

Meanwhile, the family budget will face higher social security taxes and increased tax payments.

Thus, consumer spending gains in 1969 will be heavily weighted towards necessary services and nondurable goods expenditures with less demand for high-priced durables.

A general decline in interest rates, however, may be reversed by mid-1969.

Bank of America economists attribute this to a latent demand for long-term funds which will become active as prospective borrowers find rates attractive.

"A buoyant housing market also will require heavier financing and reduced federal grants-in-aid will maintain the high level of state and local government borrowings for major expansion programs."

International monetary problems are not expected to be as disruptive in 1969 as in 1968 and U. S. labor market conditions should be more settled although the unravelling of the wage-price spiral will continue to mean wage gains in excess of productivity.

All things considered, Bank of America believes 1969 should be regarded as another record year, but marked as a period of mild adjustment from the unsustainable growth rate of the past 12 months.

The subdued economic setting keyed by higher taxes and slower growth of federal government expenditures will provide the basis for a much-needed slowdown in the inflationary pressures which have been developing over the past several years, the bank concluded.

Speculative Appeal In Offshore Drilling

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $1,000 which I can afford to use for speculation. I'm interested in offshore drilling. Would you give me some information and investments in this area? —R. D.

A. Offshore drilling is an area of vital importance to the world. By 1977 offshore oil wells are expected to supply 32 per cent of the world's consumption.

Several factors contribute to the all-out rush by the oil industry into the oceans. First, a major supply crisis is developing, accelerated by a geometrically increasing rate of consumption. Second, the undersea reserve potential has been estimated at 1 trillion barrels of oil and 1.2 quadrillion cubic feet of natural gas. Further impetus is added by the success rate of offshore wildcats which run two to three times better than on land.

Enough acreage is available so that it is economically feasible to put together spreads which control the producing structure.

Investment in the industry is, however, recommended only for those who can afford to speculate since for many companies capitalization is thin and market action volatile. One of the early companies in the field, Reading and Bates, operates drilling rigs on a worldwide basis.

Revenue is also derived from the rental of deep-diving equipment, the underwater repair of drilling rigs and oil and gas production.

The proposed merger of Fluor Corp. with Pike Corp. will produce a growing factor in offshore drilling and service. Fluor derives 90 per cent of revenues from construction and engineering for the chemical and oil industries. Of the two, Pike is the less expensive means of participating in the proposed union.

A third coming offshore driller, Ocean Drilling and Marine, is an aggressive innovator. The company is pursuing various self-insurance programs and is designing a unique mobile drilling rig. Another interesting speculation, Falcon Seaboard Drilling, is in the midst of a major expansion and diversification program.

It should be emphasized that shares of these companies are speculative and at recent levels full priced. Buy only on weakness.

Ford Debut Sets New Sales Marks

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Ford Motor Co. dealers on the West Coast launched the 1969 model year with a record delivery of 9,702 new units during the introduction weekend, an increase of 33 per cent over a year ago.

Both Ford and Lincoln-Mercury division dealerships reported record breaking sales, orders and crowds in the opening two days of sales for 1969 products which first appeared in showrooms on Friday.

O. Fred Yando, Ford division's western regional sales manager, said dealers in the western states recorded 7,602 sales of cars and trucks.

Greatest interest in the new models was in the all-new Ford LTD, the Fairlane Cobra and the Mustang Mach 1, a high-performance sporty car.

Nationally, Ford division dealers established a Ford division sales record for a single day on introduction day with deliveries of 29,768 new cars and trucks.

Rupert F. Lewis, Lincoln-Mercury's western sales manager, said divisional dealers on the coast delivered 2,100 new cars on the opening two days.

Nationally, Lincoln - Mercury dealers began the new model year at a record pace by delivering 10,316 new cars on the two introduction days.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Di Giorgio Corp. announced yesterday in principle to sell its Northern California food canning subsidiary, S&W Fine Foods Inc., to Innotron International Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada.

ALL EYES AHEAD—Fisheye lens captures almost the entire crowd on hand for the opening game of the World Series today in St. Louis, and in the background looms the stainless steel St. Louis Arch. The Cardinals scored three runs in the fourth inning against Detroit's 31-game winner Dennis McLain and went on to win 4-0 to take the early advantage in the best of seven series. Winning pitcher was Bob Gibson, who struck out 17 for a new world series record. (UPI Photo)

British Wife Gives Birth To Sextuplets

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI)—A Birmingham housewife who had been taking fertility drugs because she had no children gave birth to sextuplets today by Caesarian section on her 30th birthday.

The children were four girls and two boys. They were born at Birmingham Maternity Hospital. A girl, the last born, died shortly afterward of shock but the doctor who delivered them said the others were in "really good condition."

Dr. Arthur Crooke, of nearby Birmingham Women's Hospital, said the mother had been under treatment with the fertility drug gonodrophin, a pituitary gland extract.

Crooke, who supervised the treatment, has been active for several years in research with gonodrophin.

The mother was Mrs. Sheila Ann Thorns, wife of a draughtsman, who had had no children in 10 years of marriage. Her babies, born two months premature, weighed from two to four pounds.

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, the chances of giving birth to sextuplets is one in 262 billion if the mother has not taken fertility pills or other medications which would change the normal odds.

There have been other recorded births of sextuplets, but no complete set is alive.

The hospital statement said: "Mrs. Sheila Ann Thorns, wife of Mr. Norman Thorns, of Farlow Road, Northfield, Birmingham, was delivered today at the New Birmingham Maternity Hospital of six living babies.

"The babies, four girls and two boys, are two months premature and range in weight from two pounds to three pounds."

There have been recorded births up to as high as nine, but none of them have survived.

Cardinals Defeat Tigers In Opener

ST LOUIS — The St. Louis Cardinals won the World Series opener 4-0 today as pitcher Bob Gibson fanned 17 Detroit Tiger batters to set a new series strikeout record.

The former record of 15 strikeouts was by Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, set exactly five years ago today.

Gibson fanned the side in the ninth inning, although allowing a single by Stanley. Norton took a called third strike to end the game.

The Cardinals got three runs in the fourth inning and added another in the seventh on a home run by Lou Brock.

The first three runs came after Tiger pitcher Denny McLain, a 31-game winner in the regular season, walked Maris and McCarver and gave up a single to Shannon. An error by Willie Horton allowed McCarver to move to third and Shannon to second. Then, Julien Javier singled, scoring McCarver and Shannon.

McLain lacked his usual control and was lifted after the fifth. Pat Dobson pitched the next three innings for Detroit and Don McMahon took over in the eighth.

The play by innings:

Cardinals First — Brock grounded out. Flood and Maris both flied to Kaline.

Tigers Second — Cash, Horton and Northrup all struck out.

Cardinals Second — Cepeda flied to center. McCarver tripled to the right center field fence, but Shannon and Javier both fanned.

Tigers Third — Freedhan struck out. Wert singled to center. McLain bunted foul on the third strike. McAuliffe bounced out to Cepeda.

Cardinals Third — Maxvill walked on four pitches and was sacrificed to second by Gibson. Brock bounced to McLain and Maxvill was caught off second. Brock stole second and took third on a bad throw by Freehan, but Flood popped out.

Tigers Fourth — Stanley flied to Maris. Kaline was called out on strikes. Cash flied to Flood.

Cardinals Fourth — Maris walked. Cepeda fouled to Cash. McCarver walked on four pitches. Shannon singled to left, scoring Maris. When Horton let the ball roll by him, McCarver took third and Shannon, second. Javier singled, scoring McCarver and Shannon, then stole second. Maxvill flied to Horton. Gibson struck out. Three runs.

Tigers Fifth — Horton popped to Javier. Northrup lined out to

Harriman Rips Reds' Use Of DMZ

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman today accused North Vietnam of preparing a massive new invasion of the South, but he warned such an attempt would fail.

Harriman said trails, weapons caches and bunker complexes found by allied forces indicated the enemy has transformed the once-neutral demilitarized zone into a staging area for troops preparing to move south.

Harriman made the charges at the 24th session of the Paris peace talks to Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam.

He added, "Military victory for Hanoi and its Viet Cong agents is impossible."

In addition to the trail network, Harriman said allied forces sweeping the DMZ found a major complex of 350 fourman bunkers, watch towers and a complete communications net, and munition dumps containing hundreds of rounds of antitank rockets, artillery shells and more than 125,000 tons of ammunition.

The American diplomat also challenged victory claims broadcast by Radio Hanoi and South Vietnam's National Liberation Front. One claim was that liberation forces had wiped out 442,000 American, allied and South Vietnamese troops since early spring.

Rusk Slaps Soviet Move Into Prague

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today denounced the Soviet military intervention in Czechoslovakia as repugnant and dangerous to peace, and declared it had "sent a shock wave of indignation and apprehension around the world."

Rusk, making his first U.N. speech, was interrupted by three demonstrators in the public gallery who shouted and displayed a banner saying "stop the War in Vietnam" before they were hustled from the chamber by security guards. Another demonstrator, who stood and displayed a sign declaring 'Big Firms Get Rich, GI's Die," also was ejected.

Rusk told the 125-nation General Assembly that the United States wants peace in Vietnam and is ready to halt the bombing of North Vietnam "the minute we can be confident that this would lead toward peace."

"An honorable settlement is possible," he said. "What remains is for Hanoi to get down to the serious business of making peace in Paris."

He warned the Soviet Union that the United States did not accept its contention that he U.N. charer gave Moscow the right to intervene unilaterally in West Germany if it determined that a resurgence of nazism existed.

"Any such action," he said, "would lead immediately to self-defense measures pursuant to the North Atlantic Treaty."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko sat impassive-

Redwood National Park Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a bill establishing a Rewood National Park in Northern California. The action automatically transferred to federal ownership most of the 28,100 acres of private timberland within the park boundary, including nearly 10,900 acres of virgin growth redwood trees more than 1,000 years old and ranging up to 367 feet in height.

The park boundary also includes three California state parks totaling 27,500 acres—subject to donation by the state—and not more than 2,400 acres of additional private land to be selected by the Secretary of Interior.

Fortas Quits In Fight For Chief Justice Job

Johnson Accepts Letter

In a letter to the President, Fortas said that the continued efforts to secure Senate confirmation of his nomination, even if ultimately successful, would result in a continuation of attacks upon the court.

"With deep regret I have accepted and concur in the request of Mr. Justice Fortas and am withdrawing his nomination as chief justice of the United States," a brief presidential statement said.

REAFFIRMS BID

"I believed when I made this nomination, and I believe now, that he is the best qualified man for this high position," Johnson said.

The letter was released at the Supreme Court simultaneously with its delivery to the President at the White House.

Fortas' request that his controversial nomination be withdrawn followed a vote in the Senate Tuesday which fell 14 short of the two-thirds necessary to cut off a filibuster by opponents.

The 58-year-old justice, appointed to the Supreme Court by Johnson in 1965, started off his letter by saying he had noted the failure of the motion to end the filibuster in the Senate.

WORK ON MONDAY

He coupled this with the observation that the new term of the court will begin on Monday and that "I will, of course, be participating in its work as associate justice."

"In view of these circumstances," Fortas wrote, "I ask you to withdraw my nomination as chief justice.

"Continued efforts to secure confirmation of that nomination, even if ultimately successful, would result in a continuation of the attacks upon the court which have characterized the filibuster—attacks which have been sometimes extreme and entirely unrelated to responsible criticism.

COURT MATTERS

"Attacks of this sort would be especially inappropriate and harmful to the court and the nation if they should continue

Mrs. Johnson Will Aid Humphrey Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey plan a nationally televised political duet—their first joint campaign appearance.

The White House said today the wives of the President and Vice President will discuss politicking on the syndicated Mike Douglas Show to be videotaped Friday in Philadelphia for telecast Monday.

Conservationists See Bay Splotched With Oil Wells

Commercial drilling for oil and gas in San Pablo Bay could result in dotting the bay with 234 platforms, the Marin Conservation League warned the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday. (Other supervisors stories, page 7.)

This, together with a similar warning from a Bay Conservation and Development Commission report presented by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, induced the county supervisors to call for more clarification from the state Lands Commission, which has received applications for oil and gas drilling.

The supervisors decided to ask a representative from the lands commission to appear before them next Tuesday at 1:45 p.m. At the same time, Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen will send invitations to Contra Costa, Sonoma and Solano counties to next week's hearing.

"We are concerned for all of San Pablo Bay," said Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League. He noted that drilling would be limited to one well for each 320 acres on the 75,000-acre bay. "This, if carried to the ultimate, could bring to the bay about 234 platforms. . . . We feel this could be detrimental to the safety of boatmen and especially hazardous to airplanes in the area off Hamilton Air Force Base runways."

"The esthetic and scenic value for many thousands of people could be destroyed," said Gregg.

"Drilling off Santa Barbara is now required to be at least five miles offshore for esthetic reasons," said Supervisor Behr. He said a report from BCDC notes that "scenic values of the bay outweigh potential benefits from drilling."

"We should also ask other counties so that we can have concerted action," suggested Chairman Kettenhofen.

Of San Pablo Bay's 75,000 acres, 25,000 acres lie within Marin County, said Pierre W. Joske, county director of recreation and parks. About 6,000 acres is shown on the Marin County Parks and Recreation Plan as recommended reserves for natural habitat for native waterfowl and migratory bird life.

Lt. Col. Donald Poe, base installations engineer for Hamilton Air Force Base, announced he is also concerned and will attend next week's meeting. "I'm very cold on the whole issue," he explained. "I really don't know what it's all about at this point."

Reagan May Appoint New Judge By Nov. 1

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Candidates for Marin's newest judgeship will be screened under tight security, and even the names of the screening committee members will be kept secret, it was learned yesterday.

Paul R. Haerle, the governor's appointments secretary, said the committee's meeting dates and places and recommendations also would be kept under wraps.

The governor may make his decision by Nov. 1 on who is to get the $30,572-a-year superior court judgeship.

The committee will not come up with its own list of names, but will review a list of candidates given to it by the governor, Haerle said. The same list of candidates also will be reviewed by the board of governors of the State Bar of California, he said, adding the same procedure has been used in the past in other counties.

Haerle confirmed a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal that the committee would consist of one Marin superior court judge, a representative of the Marin County Bar Association, and three lay persons. The judge and lay persons are to be appointed by the governor, but this has not been done yet, Haerle said.

Judge Harold J. Haley is expected to be the judge on the committee because he is the only Republican among the present four judges. He probably also will serve as chairman of the committee.

Despite Haerle's insistance that the committee's membership will be secret, the president of the Marin Bar, John L. Rockwell of San Rafael, reported Friday that he was selected by the association's directors to represent it on the committee.

The association earlier this month sent the governor the confidential results of a poll of its 120 members on who should be appointed to the judgeship. The eight candidates on the poll ballot, who may not necessarily be on the governor's list of eligibles, were Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, Supervisor Peter H. Behr, A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., former Assemblyman John A. Busterud, Robert W. Corlett, E. Warren McGuire, Robert A. Smallman and Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Henry J. Broderick of Tiburon, who practices law in San Francisco, is reported to want the appointment, too, and is a close political friend of Haerle, formerly of Santa Venetia. He did not seek the Marin Bar's recommendation and was not among those recommended.

Death Car's Driver Had Fatal Record

I-J Special Report

SUSANVILLE — The driver of the car in which five high school girls were killed Saturday was convicted of misdemeanor manslaughter two years ago in the traffic death of a 4-year-old boy, the California Highway Patrol in this Shasta County community reported today.

Warren Martineau, an 18-year-old Shasta College student, was driving the car carrying the girls — including a former San Anselman — when it rounded a curve at 70 miles per hour and rammed a logging truck, the highway patrol said. Martineau, who was driving to a football game, also was killed.

The highway patrol reported that Martineau's manslaughter conviction resulted when the car he was driving killed a boy in Redding. His license was suspended for a year and he was ordered to work on public works projects.

Officers said two full beer cans and an empty one were found in the wreckage of Martineau's car, Saturday. Blood samples from his body were being tested at the state Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification in Sacramento and the results

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Third party candidate George C. Wallace said on arriving in Akron today that he would name his vice presidential choice at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

Wallace declined comment on speculation that his choice would be retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay, but said his proposed running mate would be present tomorrow.

PLAINLY MARKED

Red Guns Down Hospital Copters

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners yesterday shot down three U.S. helicopters carrying wounded soldiers and Marines although the aircraft were plainly marked with red crosses, U.S. military spokesmen reported today.

One helicopter was a Marine Corps CH34 assigned to fly wounded from the Thuong Duc area where a U.S. Green Beret Special Forces camp was in the fifth day of a siege by a North Vietnamese division of 7,000 men. A spokesman at Da Nang said there were no injuries.

The other two helicopters were U.S. Army medical evacuation helicopters flying wounded men 16 miles west of Tam Ky where a Communist force of unknown size ambushed units of the 198th Infantry Brigade and wounded 28 Americans.

A spokesman for the U.S. Military Assistance Command said seven soldiers were wounded on one helicopter and three were wounded on another. An undisclosed number of wounded were believed killed in the crashes but there was no official figure. One helicopter crashed and burned, the other was recovered.

North Vietnamese gunners also shot down an A4 Skyhawk acting as artillery spotter for the battleship USS New Jersey, but they paid dearly for it. The mighty ship swung her 16-inch rifles from the targets she was devastating near the Demilitarized Zone and blew the antiaircraft batteries to pieces.

The two pilots were rescued as the United States chalked up its 902nd air loss of the war over the north. Two other A4 Skyhawks were lost, apparently by accident, during landings and takeoffs at the Chu Lai Air Base in South Vietnam. Both pilots, Marines, escaped.

The helicopter incidents marked a new flareup in fighting just west and southwest of Da Nang where a small force of Americans and Vietnamese holding the Thuong Duc base were blocking a main Communist invasion route toward Da Nang.

The Communists lobbed artillery into the base again today in a move reminiscent of the 77-day siege of Khe Sanh and used heavy machineguns against planes flying supplies into the base some 30 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The siege of Thuong Luc was beginning to creep into Communist propaganda broadcasts and Radio Hanoi said today Viet Cong troops had cut off a relief column attempting to lift the siege. It quoted Western coreslondents as saying "so heavy was the torrent of shells that it was impossible to fly in reinforcement."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

New, Feminine Twiggy Arrives

The 19-year-old London fashion model, who measures 31-23-32, told newsmen at Kennedy Airport yesterday she has brought her weight to 92 pounds.

Twiggy

"I think the next thing had to be feminine, didn't it?" she said. "I mean, we've had the little boy look already."

Twiggy, whose real name is Lesley Hornby, was accompanied by Justin de Villeneuve, her manager. She will make a 17-day tour in the United

Widow, 89, Returns To India Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 89-year-old Los Angeles widow leaves for India today to resume work she took up 15 years ago at the request of the Indian leader, Mahatma Ghandi. Wealthy Honsinger Fisher said yesterday at a news conference that she will return to Literacy House in the state of Uttar Pradesh to help train teachers to work with Asian illiterates.

Mrs. Fisher

Mrs. Fisher began teaching in Haverstraw, N.Y., in 1903 and later taught in China, England and France before settling in India in 1920. There she met and married Frederick Bohn Fisher, Methodist bishop of Calcutta and Burma.

Ghandi urged her in 1947 to work with village peasants. Five years later she started Literacy House, a nonprofit, nonsectarian U.S. organization.

Red Cross Deaths

GENEVA (AP) — The International Red Cross Committee announced today that two of its delegates, a Swede and a Yugoslav, have been killed in the fighting in Biafra.

They were identified as Dr. Dragan Hercog, 32, a member of the Yugoslav surgical team, and Robert Carlsson, 32, of a Swedish distribution team.

Transit District's Meeting Postponed

Marin County Transit District directors will not meet tonight, but will meet next Wednesday instead.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors postponed the transit district meeting one week because there are too many meetings scheduled for this week.

Russ Lunar Visitor Had Hot Trip Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's space adviser says the Soviet Zond 5 mooncraft was a success because it re-entered the earth's atmosphere intact—but he says the heat would have been uncomfortable for any astronaut.

The heat was caused by the capsule's steep re-entry angle, Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said yesterday.

Tokyo Birthday

Jet Tanker Crashes

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A U.S. Air Force KC135 tanker, loaded with jet fuel, crashed in flames today at Uttapao, a base for B52 bombers flying missions over South Vietnam. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said three of four crewmen were killed.

The spokesman reports the four-engine jet crashed 250 yards from the end of the 11,000-foot runway on takeoff. The base is 75 miles south of Bangkok.

The cause of the crash was unknown.

Czech Censorship

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new press control board has withheld approval for publication of a new magazine by the outspoken Czechoslovak Writers Union.

The board, created in response to Soviet demands for tighter information controls, approved the registration of 11 new periodicals yesterday while postponing decisions on the applications of 10 others, the official CTK news agency said.

A proposed new Writers Union magazine called Listy, meaning Letters, was among those not approved, informants said. It would have been successor to Literarini Listy, the Writers Union organ branded as "counterrevolutionary" by Moscow and discontinued after the Aug. 20 Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Jurors May Travel

SAN JOSE (AP) — The Braun-Maine murder trial jury has finished its work for the week, but the judge and attorneys will meet tomorrow for argument on whether the jury should travel to Ukiah so Susan Bartolomei can be a witness.

Prosecutor Arthur B. Broaddus wants the jury to make the trip to see the 19-year-old girl, paralyzed and speechless from four or five bullet wounds. Broaddus argues she is in no condition to make the three-and one-half-hour trip here.

Taft-Hartley Invoked In Port Strikes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Acting on steps by President Johnson "to remove a peril to the national healthy and safety," a federal judge last night ordered 75,000 striking longshoremen back to work at ports from Maine to Texas.

It was the seventh time since 1948 a president had invoked the Taft-Hartley Act's 80-day "cooling off" period to end a walkout by the International Longshoremen's Association.

UNION TO OBEY

Thomas W. Gleason, ILA president, said the union would order the dockworkers back to work, but all 75,000 would not be able to return until tomorrow.

"We will abide by the law," Gleason said.

Administration officials claimed a dock strike from the Atlantic to the Gulf Coast would cost the United States $100 million a month in balance of payments and would sap the strength of the dollar at home and abroad.

Federal Court Judge Sylvester J. Ryan issued a temporary restraining order against the ILA strike pending a hearing on an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act. He set Oct. 9 for the hearing.

DEADLOCK REPORTED

Johnson sought the injunction to end the day-old walkout which began at midnight Monday when a presidential board of inquiry reported the "parties unable to reconcile their differences over the exceedingly difficult issues."

The board of inquiry said the "two overriding issues" were automation and mechanization and a union desire to have other conditions standardized at ports involved. Federal mediators will work with both sides to try to resolve the dispute.

New Teacher Halt Looms In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The threat of a new teachers' strike loomed in New York City as city officials labored to restore the precarious school peace upset by renewed violence in a Negro-Puerto Rican experimental school district in Brooklyn.

Albert Shanker, president of the 55,000-member United Federation of Teachers, raised the possibility of a new walkout against the 1.1-million-pupil public school system after the violence Tuesday in the Ocean Hill-Brownsville district.

Ten policemen were injured and more than a dozen persons arrested as angry parents, children and demonstrators clashed with police over the return of about 80 disputed teachers to the district.

The city's public schools were closed today because of the Jewish holy day of Yom Kippur, giving all sides in the dispute over local control of teachers a day to cool off.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, whose mediation efforts helped conclude the crippling three-week teachers strike that ended only Monday, pledged the full resources of the city to back that peace settlement.

In a radio address Lindsay declared: "I want to make it absolutely clear that no further disturbances of this sort will be tolerated. Stakes are too high. If we do not retain education under the law, we will have neither education nor law."

Armed Threat Ends Riot In South Carolina Prison

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina's top prison official calmed rioting prisoners yesterday and later expressed optimism that an "understanding legislature" will help him solve their grievances.

Ten inmates and six guards were injured during the five-hour riot that abruptly ended when William Leeke, director of the state Department of Corrections, threatened to send in troops armed with bayonets and tear gas.

Leeke said the 10 injured inmates were hurt by fellow prisoners.

Prison officials reported today there were no disturbances during the night.

Leeke met with a committee of inmates after order was restored and later addressed all the prisoners on the athletic field, promising to continue working to correct inadequate conditions.

"We have an understanding legislature," Leeke told newsmen later. "And we hope for funds to make these changes."

He referred specifically to plans to tear down the 104-year-old cellblock No. 1 that is dark, drafty and generally dismal. Other grievances included complaints about the food and alleged roughness when searching prisoners.

Oldest Ocean Bottom Found

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Scripps Institution of Oceanography scientists report finding sediments 150 million years old on the ocean floor near the Bahama Islands.

The sediments would be 50 million years older than previously found sediments, the scientists said.

The sediments were found during operation of the institution's deep sea drilling program. Scientists said the discovery indicates that conditions much like those of today have prevailed at that spot for at least the last 150 million years.

ly with folded hands during the 37-minute Rusk speech. When the secretary of state concluded, neither Gromyko nor other Communist delegation heads joined in the applause.

Dealing at length with the Czechoslovak invasion, Rusk declared the Soviet action "has shaken hopes for better East-West relations" and "raised doubt and discouragement about many a hopeful venture."

"President Johnson's diligent efforts to build bridges of common interest and contact between East and West have been attacked and misrepresented," he said. He added that the Russians were now trying to devise a justification for what he called a "gross violation" of the U.N. charter.

Rusk asked whether recent arguments published in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda meant that the Kremlin was disavowing charter prohibitions against the use of force as long as such action took place within the Soviet bloc.

would be known in a week, the highway patrol said.

Students and faculty of three Redding high schools paid tearful tribute yesterday to the five girls, all 17, including Shelly Jane Roberts, formerly of San Anselmo.

Caskets of the five girls — four of them cheerleaders — were in a row against the wall of the Enterprise High School gymnasium as five ministers held the joint service. The girls were students at the school.

Services were held for Martineau at the same time in a church across the street from the school.

Classes at the three high schools were dismissed so students could attend the gymnasium service. About 1,100 students gathered for the final tribute.

Job Of City Manager Is Cotati Topic

Cotati City Council will act tomorrow on creation of the office of city manager when it meets at 7:30 p.m. at the Cotati fire hall.

Officials said residents have long sought the change in government form. Expected to be appointed to the new position is Gordon Howe, 62, who was hired last month as clerk-administrator.

A former city manager of Saratoga and Seaside, Howe would continue at his present salary of $833 per month. He had recently been employed as a building inspector for the Sonoma County School District, and lived in Sebastopol before moving to Cotati.

Also on the agenda is an ordinance which would double all business license taxes to bring added revenue. Also discussed will be an agreement with the Cotati Elementary School District in which the city is asked to pay for oversizing of water lines to the new Thomas Page Elementary School under construction on Richardson Avenue. The line will be enlarged from four to eight inches.

Also heard will be a request from Kenneth Garner for waiver of curbs, gutters and sidewalks for his property on east Sierra Avenue.

and the end of August. Vietnamese and allied losses were less than 14,000 troops killed in action. Of these 6,616 were U.S. troops. More than 68,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers lost their lives in the same period."

Earlier today Harriman called for a North Vietnamese pledge to refrain from exploiting any American bombing halt and thus open the way to serious peacemaking.

Harriman's statement, made to newsmen before entering the 24th session of the peace talks, appeared to take account of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's qualified campaign promise to end air attacks on the North.

Without commenting on Humphrey's proposal, Harriman said: "It would be very easy for North Vietnam to bring this conference to fruitful discussions. All they have to do is to indicate they are prepared to restrain the military advantage that might come to them from the cessation of the bombing."

North Vietnam officially rejected Humphrey's proposal.

Thuy told Harriman: "Whoever the president of the United States is, he is doomed to failure unless he correctly solves the Vietnam problem on the basis of respect for the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights."

"Mr. Humphrey, like Mr. Johnson, still demands reciprocity. Moreover, he even threatens to resume the bombing of North Vietnam. We repeat once more that we do not accept any kind of reciprocity.

"As regards Mr. (Richard M.) Nixon, the warlike presidential candidate of the Republican party, he is clearly not satisfied with Mr. Humphrey's words, though they are deceitful ones."

while the court is in session, engaged in the adjudication of issues of great importance to the nation as well as the litigants."

There was no immediate comment at the White House on the Fortas letter.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, had said Tuesday he planned to decide by the end of the week whether to try to overturn the Senate vote against Fortas' nomination.

LETTER CONTENTS

Fortas, whom Johnson had nominated June 26 to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren, told the President in his letter he did not want to provide the occasion for a situation marked by continuation of attacks on the court.

"My action in submitting this request for withdrawal should avert the danger that it will occur," Fortas said, "and I hope that my withdrawal will help to put in motion a process by which there will be an end to destructive and extreme assaults upon the court."

Fortas said he appreciated the confidence Johnson had shown in his qualifications by nnominating him for the nation's highest judicial office.

He said he also wished to thank colleagues at the bar and in the law schools for their support and also members of the Senate who had supported him.

"I pray that we shall see, in all of our nation, renewed dedication to the principles of fairness and justice and moderation, without which our democracy cannot continue," Fortas said.

OTHER NOMINEE

He added that it was in this spirit that he respectfully requested Johnson to honor his request for withdrawal of the nomination.

Fortas' letter, in which he said he intends to continue as an associate justice, appeared to wash out Johnson's nomination of U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry of Texas to be a member of the Supreme Court.

In submitting Fortas' name to the Senate, Johnson also nominated Thornberry to take Fortas' place as an associate justice.

Sausalito's Boom: The Extra Traffic

Sausalito's traffic ticket business is booming, the city council learned last night when Police Chief Edward S. Kreins appeared before it to request additional help to process a bumper crop of outstanding warrants.

Kreins said there was $150,000 in warrants, mainly for traffic violations, in the files waiting to be processed.

The council authorized hiring a part-time police clerk to work 20 hours a week for $2,000 for the remainder of the year on the paper gold mine.

The city's revenue in the fiscal year ending last June 30 was $106,680, a 50 per cent jump over the previous year's $70,681. Kreins reported today.

The chief said his department issued 1,145 traffic citations in August this year, compared to a total of 1,349 citations issued by the sheriff's department and California Highway Patrol combined in the first eight months of this year.

Liquid Crystals Helping In Medicine, Color TV

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Materials that seem a contradiction in terms — liquid crystals — are moving strongly into prominence in such diverse fields as medicine, materials testing and color television.

A liquid crystal is a compound that exhibits both the fluid characteristics of a liquid and the optical properties of a crystal.

All of those known so far are organic compounds. They are not rare. About one in 200 organic compounds is a liquid crystal and there are thousands upon thousands of organic compounds.

The most striking feature of liquid crystals is the series of vivid color changes they undergo with even very slight variations in temperature. This has made them extremely valuable both for many kinds of medical research and for an increasing number of industrial applications.

Current uses include charting the effects of nerve-blocking drugs, diagnosing cancer, mapping the flow patterns of airframes in wind tunnels and developing color television that can be viewed in direct sunlight.

Liquid crystals were first observed in 1888 by the Austrian botanist Friedrich Reinitzer, who noted that there were two distinct melting points for one organic compound, cholesteryl benzoate. At 145 degrees C. the solid turned to a cloudy liquid and at 179 degrees the liquid became clear.

A German physicist shortly thereafter found that the cloudy phase contained areas that seemed to have a crystal-like structure. He suggested the name liquid crystal; arguments have followed, but the name stays on.

Research on liquid crystals continued until the early 1930s, when interest began to dwindle. One reason was the apparent belief that all important problems in this area had been solved; another was the seeming lack of practical applications.

There was a renewal of interest in liquid crystals in the late 1950s.

Exactly who sparked this revival and precisely when is an area of some disagreement among the experts, who nevertheless agree in giving credit to Dr. Glenn H. Brown and Dr. James L. Fergason, now director and associate director, respectively, of Kent State University's Liquid Crystal Institute.

In the USSR, a group headed by Dr. I. G. Chistyakov of the Pedagogical Institute at Iwanowo undertook a comprehensive study of liquid crystals in the early 1960s.

Many of these substances are colorless as liquids. When cooled through their liquid crystal phase, they undergo a series of bright color changes. The rate of change from color to color, as well as the exact temperature at which specific color changes occur, are invariable for any given compound.

Mixtures of these materials have, therefore, found application for measuring surface temperatures, as well as temperature variations. This property is the basis for nondestructive testing of such industrial equipment as metal castings, semiconducting devices, printed circuit assemblies and other items in which flaws produce differential heat flow.

It is also the basis on which doctors at the University of Washington School of Medicine, working with researchers from the Boeing Co., are using liquid crystals to evaluate blood circulation following surgery to relieve chronic pain, according to Boeing's Dr. Wayne Woodmansee. They hope to determine if blood circulation improves following surgery.

Pain arising from various kinds of spasms can often be relieved by blocking the sympathetic nervous system. This block is followed by dilatation of those vessels whose nerve supply has been cut off. If circulation is not improved, amputation may be necessary.

Changes in the temperatures of neurological and vascular pathways are accurately reflected by color variations in liquid crystals painted on the skin, the higher the blood flow and the warmer the skin.

The ability of liquid crystals to reflect very small temperature changes in the human body is also being used in cancer research at Roswell Park Memorial Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., to determine whether tumors are malign.

Areas of suspected cancer are coated with carbon black, then covered with a layer of liquid crystals, says Dr. James F. Holland. Warmer regions, indicating malignancy, appear blue; benign tumors appear reddish. By prepainting the suspected areas, surgeons can determine exactly where surgery should be performed.

Barham May Face Ouster Over Wallace

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Charles (Clay) Barham of Novato, unsuccessful GOP candidate in the June primary, has been ordered by the chairman of the California Republican Central Committee to explain his endorsement of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for president — or face expulsion within 30 days from the committee.

Barham, who assailed his primary opponent, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, as a disloyal Republican, publicly endorsed Wallace Sept. 20 at a Wallace dinner in Santa Rosa.

The state GOP chairman, James W. Halley of San Mateo, advised Barham Friday that the endorsement violated a central committee bylaw prohibiting members from endorsing candidates of other political parties.

A spokesman for the central committee said Halley's order was automatic following a complaint filed with the committee against Barham by Charles Michals, chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee. Michals' complaint indicated it was sparked by an Independent-Journal report of Barham's endorsement, the spokesman said.

Barham must answer the complaint by Oct. 26, or will be dumped by the committee, or which he has been a member for the past four years.

Barham has the right to demand a public hearing before the committee, the spokesman said, adding that this provision rarely is invoked by persons asked to resign.

Barham, contracted last month by the I-J after his endorsement of Wallace, insisted he still was "a real Republican, but I feel that the Republicans and Democrats are more representative of the government than they are of the general populace. Wallace might help to bring the balance of power back to where it belongs between the people and the government," he said.

Barham still is registered as a Republican.

OBITUARIES

Clarence A. Bowman Dies At 70

Clarence A. Bowman, first business manager at Marin General Hospital, collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, at his home at 96 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael, yesterday. He was 70.

Bowman was business manager at Marin General from 1952 to 1954 and before that held the same position at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco for about 20 years.

After resigning from the Marin General Hospital post, Bowman worked part time for Sunny Hills as business manager. He then retired.

A widower, Bowman's wife, Dr. Lillie L. Bowman, a school administrator, died in 1966. She was director of the bureau of research for San Francisco schools.

The couple lived in San Francisco until moving to San Rafael in 1942.

Bowman was found dead at 3:30 p.m. by a neighbor, according to Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig. He was lying in the main doorway.

Craig said Bowman had complained of dizziness earlier in the day and had completed a shopping trip when he collapsed. Bowman had a history of heart trouble, according to friends.

Arrangements are pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

MRS. PRELLWITZ

Funeral for Mrs. Hilah M. Prellwitz, sister of Duane L. Wallace of Fairfax, will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Mrs. Prellwitz, 44, died unexpectedly of an apparent heart attack at her home in San Francisco Monday afternoon.

She was the wife of Ronald W. Prellwitz, a baker.

A native of Boulder, Colo., she had lived in San Francisco for 28 years. She was last employed as a cook at the Sanford Coffee Shop, San Francisco.

Survivors are her husband of the home at 142 Bosworth Street, her father, LeRoy H. Wallace, a Marin resident for many years who now lives in a nursing home in Castro Valley, Hayward County, and another brother, Vernon L. Wallace of Newark, Alameda County.

ARTHUR MARTINEZ

Requiem Mass for Arthur J. Martinez of Yountville, a former resident of San Anselmo, will be at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Rita's Church, Fairfax. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

Martinez, 77, died Monday in a Yountville hospital after a long illness.

A native of Mexico City, he was a veteran of World War I and a retired upholsterer.

He had no immeditae survivors.

Woman Suffers Fractured Skull

A San Francisco woman suffered a fractured skull yesterday afternoon when she ran into the side of a moving car in the 1000 block of Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police said.

Geraldine Ruth Zeis, 34, employed as a dental hygenist in San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Police said she tried to cross the street in midblock and ran into a car driven by Harry James Hutton Jr., 45, of Penngrove, Sonoma County.

ORVIN GASTON

Orvin B. Gaston of Vallejo, retired assistant publisher of the Vallejo Times-Herald and father of Mrs. William Siler of Novato, died unexpectedly early today in a Vallejo hospital.

Gaston, 67, was admitted to the hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of a heart ailment.

Widely known in California newspaper circles, Gaston retired in 1957 after 23 years as assistant publisher. Since then, he continued to serve the newspaper in an advisory capacity.

A native of Santa Rosa, Gaston was reared in Nebraska and graduated from the University of Nebraska.

Gaston went to Vallejo in 1923 as the city editor of the old Evening Chronicle. In 1927, the Chronicle was bought by the publisher of what became the Times-Herald, Luther E. Gibson.

Gaston was a member of the Masonic Order and the Shrine Club in Vallejo, and was a past member of the Solano County Republican Central Committee, past president of the Solano County unit of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, past president of the Vallejo library board and a past president of the Vallejo Rotary Club.

He is survived by his wife, Thelma, and two daughters, Mrs. Siler and Mrs. Larry Stockstill of Pleasant Hill.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Wiggins Funeral Home, Vallejo.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

President's Violence Panel Explores Mental Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential commission on violence is probing into the dark alleyways of the human mind to try to find what makes a man an assassin.

The panel stepped gingerly clear of the specific slayings of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in its search for some common thread to explain the assassinations that have shaken the nation in recent years.

Top Secret Service officials were called to today's closed session. They included Director James J. Rowley, Thomas J. Kelley, assistant director for protective intelligence, and Charles Humpstone, who oversees the presidential guard.

The commission, created by President Johnson as Senator Kennedy lay dying last June, turned to assassinations as it began its third weekly session of testimony in a wide survey of American violence.

Unlike the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the violence panel is making a general study that embraces everything from antiwar protests to street muggings.

Lloyd Cutler, executive director of the commission, said there would be no attempt to delve into the specifics of the Kennedy and King slayings. Any testimony that did touch on the deaths was expected to be quite guarded since trials are pending in both 1968 shootings.

The scheduled witnesses yesterday included two psychiatrists and playwright Dore Schary, chairman of the Anti-defamation League.

Storer, Friends Go On Cruise

More than 150 backers of Supervisor Thomas T. Storer joined him last night on a moonlight dinner cruise of San Francisco Bay on the Harbor Emperor.

The boat, leaving Tiburon at 8 p.m., cruised for an hour and a half, while volunteers served buffet dinner to the guests. The Styx River Ferry band, composed of Marin County youths, provided music.

Low Income Rental Proposal Tossed Out

Marin County Housing Authority directors last night declined to change policy so an entire apartment house could be leased for occupancy by low income families under the authority's leased housing program.

Under policy, the authority does not lease more than 10 per cent of the units in any apartment or any area.

Neil T. Little, manager of the program, urged the change saying there was a chance he could lease all units of an apartment in San Rafael which would be suitable for elderly persons.

Chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the premise of the program has been scattered housing and any grouping would be contrary to that plan.

Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, said no change would be recommended in any city without the sanction of that city.

Ehrlich said he felt the program was accelerating and he didn't want to introduce a "much more controversial concept" which he saw as "low income housing without a vote."

Ehrlich contended that the authority "sold" the program on the grounds that it would not be "low income housing in the sense of grouping together."

Stutsman said, "we do not wish to segregate persons of low income," but if the authority cannot acquire the needed apartment units under its present operation, it should look at other methods.

The authority has a program for 200 units in Marin County including the cities of Mill Valley, Sausalito, Novato, Tiburon and San Rafael.

Ehrlich said if the program bogs down after 100 units are leased then directors could consider an alternative method.

Little expected that 55 units would be leased under the program by the end of this week. There are more than 200 applicants on the waiting list, he said.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

SENIOR HOUSING — Gave tentative approval to a two-acre site along Tamal Vista Boulevard, in an unincorporated area across the street from the Cooperative Center in Corte Madera as suitable for a 56-unit for housing for elderly. Robert Mahar, director of planning and production, West Coast Turnkey Corp. of Seattle, Wash., said he would offer a development proposal for the site on speculation with no commitment from the authority.

NORTHGATE SITE — Gave Stutsman authority to discuss with proposed developer of a 40-unit Golden Hinde Senior Citizens Home, Golden Gate Boulevard and Los Ranchitos Road, the possibility of conveying their rights to another developer.

HOMESTEAD UNIT — Received a report from Stutsman that the 28-unit senior citizen housing in Homestead Valley is 62 per cent completed, ahead of schedule and occupancy expected to start Jan. 1, 1969.

TENANT RELATIONS — Approved a questionnaire to be distributed by Melvin Randolph, housing manager, to ascertain the opinions of tenants on various matters.

HILARITA HOUSING — Received a report from Ehrlich that Tiburon had adopted a policy approving moderate income housing for the Hilarita housing site, and agreed that the authority wasn't in a hurry to close out the Hilarita project, which has to be abandoned by June 1972.

NOVATO HOUSING — Postponed scheduled review of plan for 40-unit senior citizen housing in Novato because plan wasn't available.

Drath To Talk On Saturday

Phillip Drath, Democratic nominee in the Sixth Congressional District, will speak at 8 p.m. Saturday at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

The film "Voyage of the Phoenix" about Drath's trip on a Quaker voyage to deliver medical supplies to the Red Cross in North Vietnam will be shown.

The Independent-Journal yesterday erroneously reported that the talk would be tomorrow.

Wage Hikes For Housing Employees

Directors of the Marin County Housing Authority and Marin County Redevelopment Agency last night granted employees raises averaging 4.8 per cent.

Individual raises ranged from 25 per cent in one position which was reclassified to none in one job, reported Donald O. Stutsman, executive director.

Stutsman was granted a 6.1 per cent pay boost of $84 a month to a monthly $1,454.

The raises were granted after directors review recommendations resulting from a study by the State Personnel Board. The total cost of the wage boosts was $5,880 a year.

Stutsman noted that there had been no boost in the salary schedule since May, 1967, but there had been the annual step increases. The raises covered 16 employees, six of them under the redevelopment agency, he said.

Wayne Denies Wallace Slate

MONTROSE, Colo. (UPI) — Movie star John Wayne denied emphatically yesterday reports that he had been picked by former Alabama Gov. George Wallace to be his vice presidential running mate.

Wayne issued the denial from a movie location on a high mountain meadow southeast of here. He refused further comment on the reports.

Michael Wayne, son of the actor, said his father had "been a Nixon Republican for years and years.

Books Sought For Library Booster Sale

Books are still being collected for the annual book sale sponsored by the Mill Valley Library Association at the Fall Arts Festival, Oct. 12-13 in Old Mill Park.

Book donors may deposit books at the library or call the library for home pickups. The Mill Valley Rotary Club will participate in the sale at the festival.

Land Market Program Urged In Marin City

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency last night urged a marketing program to facilitate development of ridge lots and stimulate community development in Marin City.

Plans by the California Development Corp. last year to develop the area with townhouses and single-family homes have not materialized.

Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, said the corporation was a basic element in development plans and there "has not been an adequate replacement."

Director Phillip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the agency should "get on a marketing program" and develop a plan for all of its lots, either "open them up or get a broker."

Last year the agency offered 12 lots on Guy Circle and Keys Court for sale, out of 39 the agency owns in the vicinity and deposits were made on five.

Two depositors, Frank Myers of San Rafael, and A. F. Kress of Mill Valley, asked last night for more time to meet the financial conditions imposed noting it was their original understanding that other development was to take place as well and they couldn't proceed alone. The three others whose options remain ufulfilled, were not present.

Harold Stockstad of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs suggested that the agency offer 10 more lots for sale in the area, indicating that if as many as 22 were available the greater development potential might prove attractive to investors.

Antidraft Figures Get Trial Date

The seven men, including a former Corte Madera resident, arrested last October during antidraft demonstrations will go on trial at 10 a.m. Nov. 18 in Department Six of Alameda County Superior Court.

The former Marinite is Michael J. Smith, 27, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and a leader of the 1964 Berkeley Free Speech Movement and the Progressive Labor Party.

The men, charged with conspiracy to trespass and to resist and obstruct police, have won several trial delays, the latest to Monday when the trial date was finally set.

'Save Kent Island' Fund Drive Hailed Clear Success

Dr. L. Martin Griffin Jr., chairman of the drive to save the 100-acre island, in Bolinas Lagoon, from commercial development, said that $91.626 had been raised or pledged to pay the island's former owner, Mrs. Thomas T. Kent Jr. of Kentfield. (Another supervisors' story, page 1.)

Griffin appeared before the Marin County Board of Supervisors and presented chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen with title to the property.

The drive was a marked triumph for conservationists, since it was originally estimated it would take three years or more to raise the money. The goal was reached in about 18 months.

In February 1967, the Nature Conservancy, a national conservation group, announced it had purchased the land from Mrs. Kent for $85,000 and deeded it to the county for preservation as a wildlife refuge.

The "gift" was made amid plans by the Bolinas Harbor District for major development of the island.

It was later disclosed, however, that no money had been paid Mrs. Kent, that $10,000 had been pledged by the Audubon Canyon Ranch as a down payment and that she was holding a mortgage on the ranch for $50,000 more.

The audubon group, Nature Conservancy and the Marin Conservation League then set out to raise the money.

Dr. Griffin said the $91.626 includes interest and legal and title fees in excess of the $85,000 purchase price. He said only $8,000 of the total, which has been pledged, remains to be collected by the Audubon forces.

Griffin reported that $73.626 came from private contributions, $15,000 was donated by the Audubon Canyon Ranch and $3,000 contributed by the Marin Conservation League.

"The tremendous local and national interest in saving Kent Island indicates that the primary value of Bolinas Lagoon is not commercial development but the preservation of its wildlife, nearly extinct elsewhere in the Bay Area, for human enjoyment," Griffin said in a statement read to the supervisors.

The supervisors praised the efforts of the three organizations and referred to the parks and recreation commission a suggestion that a commemorative plaque be placed on the island.

Griffin said the three groups would now concentrate on halting pollution of the lagoon and developing a master plan to preserve tidelands and open water with antisiltation measures and minimum dredging.

Soils Board Lunches Hit; Cash Voted

The Marin Soil Conservation District — which this year will spend 44 per cent of its budget on directors' lunches and convention expenses — was voted more county money yesterday.

The board of supervisors, which annually contributes to the district treasury, gave $750 earlier this summer — $1,000 less than the district board had asked. The soil board came back and asked for the full amount.

The supervisors voted the district $337.43 in new funds to let the district begin the 1968-69 year with the same reserve strength as in 1967-68.

The district has adopted a 1968-69 budget of $1,440, up $300 from last year.

The compromise contribution was proposed by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, who earlier wanted to cut off the soil board with no new funds. This was after he learned that the five board members had spent $223.93 last year for lunches after nine meetings.

Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen attempted to appease Storer by noting that the directors served without pay and received no per diem, but the supervisor from West Marin retorted:

"These men are wealthy ranchers. If you total them up, you'd come up with a net worth of about 10 million bucks."

"Well, I tell you I can," gagged Supervisor Thomas T. Storer. Everyone roared at the mischief.

BUDGET LETTER

The soil board sent a letter describing this and last year's budget. It said it needs county funds to undertake soil conservation studies financed by the state. The board undertook a drainage and sediment control plan for the Lagunitas and Walker Creek watershed last year with a $10,000 state grant and is awaiting a $25,000 state grant for a survey of the Walker Creek Reservoir.

Out of general expenses totaling $967.43 last year, the $223 lunch item was surpassed only by the salary of recording secretary Matt H. Klemmer, $420. Other expenses were a director's trip to the annual convention of California soil conservation districts, $100; organizational dues, $75, and equipment insurance, $31.

The board appropriated $654 out of this year's budget for "directors — administrative — conventions expense — lunches and travel."

OTHER LUNCHES

Later in their meeting, the supervisors got into another luncheon hassle involving county employees. Donald R. Frost, public works director, asked the board to allow certain executives to charge business lunches in Marin to the county. The cost of out-of-county business lunches is reimbursed.

A majority of the board, led by Behr, was against the plan for fear of abuses. The issue was deferred until budget time next year.

Improving Sidewalks At Schools Win Nod

The county will give priority attention to improving sidewalks near Greenbrae School, Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley and Pleasant Valley School in West Novato, supervisors decided yesterday.

The priorities were recommended by the county public works department.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, supervisors voted to offer county aid in installing sidewalks on the basis of one-fourth county, one-fourth school district, and one-half property owners abutting the sidewalk.

The supervisors will send offers of aid to the first four on the priority list. "If the first four do not respond within 30 days, we can send letters to the next four on the list," said Behr.

1. Greenbrae School — Corner of Eliseo Drive and Bretano Way, estimated cost $200.
2. Marin Terrace — Harvard Street from California to Princeton, $3,000.
3. Pleasant Valley — Sutro Avenue from Oak Valley to Vineyard, $3,700.
4. Pleasant Valley — Vineyard Road from Sutro to the school, $4,600.
5. Tamalpais Valley School — Marin Avenue from Laurel to Ross, $7,500.
6. Hartzell School — Los Ranchitos (east side), from Constance to walkway, $3,000.
7. Adeline Kent School — Kent Avenue from Woodland to North, $3,500.
8. Wolfe Grade School — Laurel Grove Avenue from Sir Francis Drake to Oak, $3,000.
9. Gallinas School —North San Pedro Road from School to Oxford, $1,500.
10. Edna McGuire School — Lomita Drive from Ashford to Somerset, $500.
11. West Marin School — Shoreline Highway from school to A Street, $2,500.
12. Tamalpais Valley School—Marin Avenue from Maple to Laurel, $2,500.
13. Wolfe Grade School — McAllister Avenue from Drake to Acacia, $4,800.
14. Hartzell School —Los Ranchitos (west side), from Las Gallinas to North San Pedro Road, $6,000.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

RUNWAY STUDY — Approved a $3,225 outlay for a one-year study of crosswinds at Gnoss Fieeld to determine where an additional runway should go.

AB-1797 — Approved in general the concept of the proposed Assembly Bill 1797, which would put an extra tax on gasoline and on tickets for certain sporting events to provide local and countywide recreational facilities. At the suggestion of Behr, the supervisors decided to keep their position "flexible" on the details of the bill.

BONDS — Voted to charge the City of Belvedere $50 a year for processing certain bonds and named a committee to decide whether this fee should be made permanent for all cities.

APPEAL — Voted 4-1, Thomas T. Storer dissenting, to reduce from 15 days to five the period for which an employee can be suspended without right of appeal. Storer preferred a three-day period.

COMMISSION — Set $50 as the maximum monthly per diem to be paid to members of the personnel commission.

CHANGE — Authorized a $56,250 change order on the South San Pedro Road widening project because of the need for better roadway foundation material.

DEATH — Rejected a $575,000 claim filed by the widow and six children of Inverness resident Arthur Shoemaker, fatally injured by a car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near his home last December.

Probe Still On In Policeman's Shooting Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police are taking another look into the shooting of a Negro mechanic by an off-duty white patrolman.

Previously the chief had said an officer had the right to defend himself and that it appeared the shooting was accidental and in self defense.

George Baskett, the victim, was shot Sunday night in a Negro district near the Hall of Justice after he joined a disturbance that resulted from a traffic mishap.

Further investigation came after the police crime laboratory failed to find powder burns on the slain man's clothing. Such burns are found when a shot is fired at close range.

The first police report had said patrolman Michael O'Brien shot Baskett while the victim was hitting the patrolman with a stick.

Oak Manor Women Lose Gutter Fight

Marin County's public works department won the battle of the gutter fills in Oak Manor before the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday, over the objections of two young women who fought to the bitter end.

The end came in a unanimous vote by the supervisors that the county ordinances against gutter obstructions would be applied uniformly throughout the county, and encroachment permits will be issued in Oak Manor only for extreme hardship cases, just as permitted elsewhere.

"Each driveway will be inspected individually upon the owner's application for a permit," said Public Works Director Donald R. Frost. If it is impossible to reconstruct the driveway without great expense, Frost said he would issue encroachment permits.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer wanted to know what would constitute "great expense." Frost explained he refers to about six homes in Oak Manor where the driveways are so steep that they would have to be regraded and reconstructed. Frost added that reconstruction of the rolled curb to take the bump out of the driveway entrance would not be considered "great expense." He estimated this could be done for $200 or $300.

"I consider $250 to $300 a great cost," declared Mrs. Gail Rickets of 68 Gregory Drive, who protected her concrete gutter fill from the county jackhammer by leaving her car parked across the driveway.

She and her neighbor, Loi Wing of 62 Gregory Drive, charged that board gutter fills have reappeared where the fills were ripped out by county crews, and the "streets look worse than they did before."

There were only three members in the audience, including the two women, when the supervisors decided to make no exceptions in Oak Manor. "I don't know what happened to the others," said Mrs. Rickets, looking forlornly around the empty supervisors' chambers.

Court Sets Hearing On Marijuana Sale

Preliminary hearing for two Lagunitas men charged with selling marijuana Friday was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for 2 p.m. Oct. 25.

Edwin M. Richmond, 20, and Steven Riall Moore, 21, both had bail set at $500. Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. offered to release them on their own recognizance if they would live with their parents pending trial.

School Office Is Burglarized

Office and school equipment was stolen from the Sausalito School District office at 630 Nevada Street Monday night police said.

Taken were an IBM electric typewriter, dictater-transcriber machine, adding machine, portable tape recorder, phonograph, seven sets of earphones and records.

Police said the thieves broke windows with rocks and then crawled through them.

San Marin Vandalism Reward Set

Vandalism of the landscaping at San Marin has reached such proportions that both the caretaker and the San Marin Improvement Association have offered rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for breaking trees, according to Ronald Lewton, publicity chairman.

Clinton Petker, who maintains the landscaping around the San Marin Club and the median strips, offered a $25 reward. This was matched by another $25 from the association at the regular meeting of its board Monday night, according to Lewton.

Kenneth Johnson of Perma-Bilt Homes said that his company has placed a night guard on duty to prevent vandalism and thefts from their new homes.

The San Marin Improvement Association board also:

STOP SIGN — Approved requesting the city to install stop signs at the intersection of San Carlos Way and San Andreas Drive, and to enforce the 25-mile-per-hour speed limit in the subdivision.

FEDERATION — Wayne Sartain, president, reported that six out of nine other homeowner groups in Novato have expressed interest in the improvement association's proposal for a federation of such groups.

SCOUTS — The board voted to sponsor a Cub Scout Pack. The All Saints Lutheran Church at San Marin Drive and Novato Boulevard has offered its facilities as a meeting place.

CLEANUP—Assigned various areas for the Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and the men of the association to clean up on Oct. 12, the first day of the citywide cleanup campaign.

Proposition 9 Gets Real Estate Board Support

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Proposition Nine property tax measure has won support of the California Real Estate Associaciation board of directors.

They listened to proponents of the measure Monday, then expressed almost unanimous support, said spokesman David Robinson.

The proposition, originally suggested by Los Angeles County assessor Phillip Watson, would limit property taxes to 1 per cent of market value. Over five years, all use of property taxes for public education and welfare would be phased out.

Watson arrived for the weekend convention to speak in behalf of the measure, but left complaining of chest pains and was flown to a Los Angeles hospital.

The proposal was termed a "fraud" by Caspar Weinberger, state finance director, in a sharply worded speech.

Teacher Priest Tells Marriage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— A Jesuit priest who testified for the defense in the obscenity trial of the "Love Book" confirmed yesterday that he has married a theology teacher he met while teaching at the University of San Francisco.

The priest, 40-year-old Rev. Robert J. Brophy, who declined to say where or when the marriage took place, married Mary Lou Burg. He is now on the faculty at California State College in Long Beach.

The Rev. John F.X. Connolly, vice president of the University of San Francisco, said he had heard about the marriage.

Youth Is Booked In Auto Theft Probe

A 14-year-old Novato boy was booked into Juvenile Hall Monday on suspicion of car theft.

San Rafael police reported an officer noticed the youth in the car because he looked so young and then noted no license plates on the 1969 Javelin. The boy was stopped and the car returned to Dexter Pontiac GMC and Rambler, Fourth and E streets, San Rafael.

Commuter Bus Stalled By Lack Of Patronage

A proposed chartered commute bus between Novato and San Francisco, did not get enough passengers to start service Monday as originally planned. Wayne Bulette, chairman of the bus committee, has informed the San Marin Improvement Association board Monday night.

Bulette said that he still hopes that enough will sign up in the near future to start the chartered commute bus.

The plans now call for routing the bus from San Marin down Novato Boulevard and South Novato Boulevard with pickups at points which would be convenient to commuters, he said. The route of the bus would be designed to meet the needs of the commuters from any portion of Novato, he said.

It would pickup its passengers and go nonstop to San Francisco before 8 a.m. and return, leaving the city after 5 p.m. he said.

Burglary Sentence

The defense surplus sales office at Hamilton announced the sale of scrap lead, copper wire and cable at 1 p.m. Oct. 29.

Couple Hurt In Car Crash

An Oakland couple was reported in satisfactory condition at Palm Drive Hospital, Sebastopol, with injuries suffered in an accident at 12:35 a.m. yesterday on Highway 116 near Woodworth Road, Cotati.

Merrill H. Berry, 75, suffered lacerations of the face, while his wife, Faith M. Berry, 77, suffered multiple contusions of the head and hands.

California Highway Patrol reported Berry fell asleep at the wheel, and the car ran off the road striking a fence and drainage embankment.

The tournament, for the benefit of the Boy's Club of Southern Marin in Marin City, is held daily from 2 to 6 p.m. Each contestant pays an entry fee which will be used to purchase equipment and expand the boys club program.

The event is similar in structure to a tennis tournament, with winners of each match playing off until the ultimate liars dice champion has emerged.

Key Is Believed Used In Stealing Station's Cash

A thief who may have had a key stole $90 from Julian's Strawberry Shell Service Station in Strawberry early Sunday, Marin sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Officers said there was no sign of forced entry to the station office. The money, receipts for the day, was in a canvas bag, they said.

Other burglaries reported by the sheriff's office included the theft of blankets, linen, clothing and ceramic work from the weekend home of Ernest W. Schwartz of South San Francisco on Valley Ford Road in Tomales Saturday night.

The theft of two cameras, worth $500, from Cary A. James' home at 40 Castle Rock Drive, Homestead Valley, sometime from Sept. 5 through 17, while James was on vacation. He discovered the theft Sunday, he said.

The wood duck (ari sponsa) is universally accepted as the most handsome of all ducks' in the United States.

Tiburon Building Value Increases

Seventeen building permits with a total construction value of $629,656 were issued by the Tiburon Urban Development Department in August, Development Administrator Phil V. Scott has reported.

Building showed a strong increase over August, 1967, when 16 permits with a construction value of $397,545 were issued.

A total of $1,331 in fees were collected in August as compared to $1,143 in fees last year, Scott said.

Wallace Wins Shea Stadium Rally Appeal

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice ruled yesterday that third-party presidential candidate George Wallace is entitled to use Shea Stadium for a rally Oct. 9.

Justice Harold Tessler overturned a decision by August Heckscher, New York City parks commissioner. Heckscher turned down last Thursday a Wallace application to rent the 56,000-seat city-owned stadium. He said he had "absolute discretion" to ban a political gathering at the park used primarily for sports events.

But Justice Tessler ruled: "There are few events if any that suggest themselves to the court's mind that can be truly characterized as being of greater 'civic, community and general public interest' than the appearance of a major candidate and contender for the office of the presidency of the United States."

He plans to have them sitting side-by-side at tables, ready to answer questions from students.

Mertle Condemns Bagley's Voting

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, attacked during the primary by his conservative opponent as "a better Democrat than a Republican," now is under fire from his Democratic opponent for being a GOP party-liner.

Robert E. Mertle, the Democratic nominee seeking to unseat Bagley in the November election, declared at a reception Sunday in Sausalito that "our liberal talking incumbent assemblyman" had failed to support gun control legislation that was defeated by the 1968 Legislature.

Bagley "once again sided with the Reagan-Rafferty controlled Republican caucus when it comes to voting," declared Mertle.

The reception was at the home of S. Robert Politzer.

"Ignoring the public outcry for action," Mertle said of Bagley, "he continues his Bagley balancing act. Publicly, this man takes liberal stands in what he knows is a liberal district," said Mertle, "then, when the issue comes to a vote, in order to maintain his support in the party, Bagley sides with the conservative Republican caucus."

Observing that voters in the Seventh Assembly District, which includes all of Marin and southern Sonoma County, had "overwhelmingly supported Rockefeller, McCarthy and Kennedy," Mertle concluded that "these voters should realize that they do not have an effective representative in Sacramento."

Baar Roasts County Spending, Planning

Louis H. (Bud) Baar, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, last night attacked county government spending as "going at an insane pace."

"At the rate the taxpayers' money is being spent in various and sundry forms, it won't be too long before people will not be able to afford to live in Marin," said Baar at the opening of his headquarters at 1817 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

He attacked the county planning department's budget and the supervisors' granting of three weeks of vacation to county employees after one year of service, adding "we must return to a program of fiscal sanity."

Baar also criticized his opponent, incumbent Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, for voting against cutting the planning department's $390,000 budget by $125,000. "We have 29 people in the planning department, and I'd like to see some samples of what they have accomplished in the last four years," said Baar.

Referring to County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker's recent comment that houseboats in Richardson Bay "look much more appropriate than Howard Johnson's development," Baar said "that type of thinking is hard to believe."

Candidate Urges Action For Marin City Business

Donald J. O'Leary, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Third District, today urged "immediate steps" by county supervisors and the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to develop businesses in Marin City.

"There are 32 prime business acres sitting in the middle of the community, and not a blessed thing is being done about them," said O'Leary in a press release.

Commercial development there would give jobs to Marin City residents and "open up the community to the outside world."

Businesses in the community will succeed only if they can attract patrons from the rest of the county, O'Leary said.

He asserted that the Small Business Administration is ready to make loans at favorable rates with minimum conditions to members of minority races.

O'Leary added that development of new businesses in Marin City should not be restricted to residents in the community. "We don't want a black Chinatown here," he said.

"We have a resource and an opportunity that is not being realized," said O'Leary.

Extra Footage For Sign Gets Committee Nod

A variance allowing an extra 100 square feet in signs for the Shapiro estate building at 493-503 Miller Avenue was approved last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, Jeanne McLean, secretary, reported.

Under the city's sign ordinance the property would be allowed only 100 square feet in signs instead of the 200 square feet granted with the variance, Mrs. McLean said.

Commissioners said the variance was approved because the ordinance limitation would not allow adequate signage for the several uses in the building.

Revised plans fort he Fotomat Corp.'s film booth on the Purity parking lot at East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto were also approved.

No action was taken on plans for a soft drink and coffee machine enclosure for the bus depot, Mrs. McLean said.

$9 Million Airport Expansion Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's Public Utilities Commission has approved plans for a $9 million expansion of United Air Lines facilities at International Airport.

Approval given yesterday was for plans which include a $5 million expansion to the firm's maintenance base and a $4 million office and service structure.

Pleads Guilty

Richard Alfred Scrimshaw, 25, of Honolulu, pleaded guilty Monday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglary Sept. 1 in San Rafael. He was placed on three years probation and ordered held for Hawaiian authorities for extradition.

Driver Booked After Accident

A San Anselmo man was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts on his face and then booked into County Jail following an accident at 2:20 a.m. today in San Anselmo.

Michale Lee Humphrey, 29, of 210 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, was booked on suspicion of being drunk in an auto after his car hit the side of one driven by Terry Alan Tatum, 26, of 56 Suffield Avenue, San Anselmo, at the intersection of San Francisco Boulevard and Sonoma Avenue, police said.

He made bail of $125 and was scheduled to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Youth Arraigned In Assault Case

Carl Hayes, 19, of San Anselmo, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of assault causing great bodily injury Sept. 25 in San Anselmo.

Hayes is charged with throwing a soft drink bottle which struck his half-sister, Carmen Ferrari, 6, on the forehead, causing a head injury which required surgery.

Hayes was to appear again in court this afternoon with counsel.

Parks, Recreation Meeting Changed

The October meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission will not be held on Oct. 9 because of prior conflicting commitments by the commissioners.

Chairman Melton Ferris announced that the meeting has been rescheduled for 2 p.m. Oct. 23 at the Civic Center.

$5-Million Cross-Country Marijuana Haul Thwarted

NEW YORK (AP) — A station wagon police said was loaded with 664 pounds of marijuana worth $5 million on the illicit market was seized today as it ended a cross-country trip from California.

Six detectives from the city narcotics bureau stopped the car at gunpoint as it emerged from the Lincoln Tunnel at Twelfth Avenue and 42nd Street.

They identified the two men inside as Orlando Sanchez, 34, of Huntington Park, and Heriberto Moreira, 41, of Los Angeles, both Cuban nationals.

Police said the seizure climaxed an investigation that started six months ago when they received information that a large quantity of illegal drugs were being prepared for distribution in the Metropolitan area.

They said the marijuana apparently was grown in Mexico and packaged on the West Coast.

Conservationists Sue Over Dump

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two conservation groups have filed a suit to stop the City of Albany from filling in part of San Francisco Bay at a refuse dump near Golden Gate Fields racetrack.

The suit, which claims the dump is illegal and seeks an injunction to halt further filling, was filed yesterday in Alameda County Superior Court by the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association.

"The Albany City Council refuses to recognize that the Bay is a single body of water of irreplaceable value to the public and not potential real estate to be developed irresponsibly by a single city," Save the Bay President William E. Siri told a news conference.

Novato To Negotiate For Office Annex Site

Novato Councilman M. E. Babe Silva last night was authorized to negotiate for the R. J. Busher property adjacent to the Novato police station for an addition to the city offices.

The city council had previously authorized former City Mgr. J. Julien Baget to negotiate, but he left office before negitations were completed.

Police Lt. Glenn Wright was authorized to go to Los Angeles for two day to investigate applicants for police positions in Novato. Five of the ast six men hired by the Novato Police Department have come from Southern California, reported Police Chief Robert Di Grazia. The department has openings for two officers and one cadet, according to the chief.

The council postponed until a closed session at its Oct. 8 meeting, consideration of an appointment to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council vacated by Baget, and the discussion of candidates for a human rights commission.

Contest Deadline

Friday is the deadline for sign-ups for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department's punt, pass and kick contest. Applications for boys, ages 8-13, are available at the community recreation center, 415 Sycamore Avenue.

LBJ Urges U.N. Effort For Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — "There is still hope," says President Johnson, "that the United Nations can help us find and implement an honorable settlement" to the Vietnam war.

Johnson made the statement yesterday in his annual report to Congress on U.S. participation in U.N. activities, but did not specify what role the world body could play in bringing a war settlement.

The President noted that peace-seeking efforts on Vietnam through the United Nations during 1967 were not successful.

Among those efforts was Secretary General U Thant's three-point plan for a U.S. bombing halt in North Vietnam, de-escalation of the fighting by both sides and a conference of the belligerents.

NOVATO PLANNING

Minority Hiring, Housing Studied

Suggestions on how Novato might attract applications from minority groups for city jobs and what the city council can do to get low cost housing for the city were made last night at a meeting of the Novato City Council and people concerned with minority group problems.

No formal action was taken by the council during the discussion with representatives of the Novatans for Racial Equality, the Marin County Human Rights Commission and Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The council set a special meeting for 8 p.m., Nov. 5 to continue the inquity.

L. Charles Smith of Novatoans for Racial Equality asked the city council: (1) to actively recruit black people for city employment; (2) to expand the leased housing program; (3) to hold a conference on Novato's social needs and goals and (4) to appoint a city human rights committee.

On the first point, Charles L. Foster, director of finance, reported that the city used local newspapers, papers in San Francisco, Sacramento, San Jose and Los Angeles, as well as other periodicals in recruiting for city employees, depending on the job.

Smith asked that the city use radio stations which cater to minority audiences. He was asked by the council to report at the Nov. 5 meeting on such costs so the city could make comparisons.

Clarence R. Johnson Sr. of HUD suggested that the city use the Urban League skills bank in San Francisco which is a clearing house for skilled personnel on a nationwide basis.

A suggestion that Novato use not only Marin County employment agencies but also those in Petaluma and Santa Rosa, was made by Weiland E. Potts, also of HUD.

"Land prices are strangling low cost housing; even the federal government cannot afford some land for low cost housing," Johnson said during the discussion.

Smith asked that the city direct the planning commission to lower the standards for housing in the city.

Mayor Harley McAskill said that the city did not direct the planning commission in such matters and that the city had the same codes as the state.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said that lot costs in Novato were $8.000 to $10.000 per developed lot where the same lot in Petaluma sells for $4.000 to $5.000.

Johnson said that before the council could consider any such course of action, it must first determine whether it wants low cost housing for sale or for rental.

Austin J. Thompson, director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission urged the appointment of a "miniboard" to advise the city council on the needs and wants of the community in dealing with minority groups. He said that Sausalito, San Anselmo and Mill Valley had such boards.

The council asked Thompson to furnish them with the ordinances or resolutions from these three cities for study before it would consider setting up such a board. The council also asked for the cost to the taxpayers in staff time for studies needed by the committee.

Womack said that he could see a duplication between the county and city staffs on the works of the committee.

Mayor McAskill said that when the council had more information on the scope of the problem, the needs of the community and interest in it, then he would be glad to call and preside over a conference, but not until then.

Nine Dogs Run Afoul Of Novato's New Law

The first day of the enforcement of Novato's strict dog leash law found nine dogs picked up by the city's new dog catcher, according to Novato Police Chief Robert Di Grazia.

Of the nine dogs picked up, five were identified by license tags and returned to owners, who were cited under the new city ordinance, Di Grazia said. The other four were taken to the new humane society pound on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, the chief said.

"It is true that just the threat of having their dogs picked up has made people keep them confined to their yards," the chief said. He said that his officers, in patroling the city, had made special note to watch for dogs.

"In neighborhoods where there had been numerous dogs, none could be found," the chief said.

New Panamanian President Sworn

PANAMA (AP) — Dr. Arnulfo Arias, sworn in as president yesterday, promised his first action will be to order a general audit of Panama's finances to expose the "reality of the frightful external and internal debt."

In his inaugural speech, Arias, beginning his third term in 20 years, said Panama is in a "state of lamentable fiscal bankruptcy."

Only a few hours earlier outgoing President Marco A. Robles left the country for retirement in Miami, Fla.

Youth In Custody; Court Date Ordered

An attorney for David Clark Knowlton, 19, of Sonoma, entered a plea of innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge Knowlton had marijuana in his possession April 19.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., advised that Knowlton was in Sonoma in custody of the California Youth Authority, issued a bench warrant and an order to the CYA for his return. Preliminary hearing was set for 10 a.m. Oct. 8.

CRANSTON: The Fragile House That Alan Built

(This is the third of a series of five articles on Alan Cranston, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate, written for the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram and reprinted by permission.)

By FRANK ANDERSON

As necessity is the mother of invention, so is Alan Cranston the papa of the California Democratic Council, born in 1953 in the midst of state party despair and despression.

Organization of the CDC followed a Republican sweep in the general election of 1952. As a result of the landslide, the GOP held 111 of 162 elective partisan offices in California, with only one Democrat — Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown — holding partisan statewide office.

Up to 1953, when Democrats met at Stockton to ratify Cranston's proposal for developing a means of making pre-primary endorsements in Northern California, their party could boast only one Democratic governor in the 20th century. This was despite a Democratic voter registration edge of 3-2.

His formula for party pro-prosperity at the polls called for forming councils of Democratic clubs in each assembly and congressional district to work for the nomination of a single endorsed Democratic candidate in the primaries.

AT THAT first session, John Despol, a Los Angeles CIO union leader, offered a motion to specifically bar Communists and fellow-travelers from the organization. The proposal was tabled, convention leaders claiming that the proposed CDC constitution already barred Reds by requiring members to support the state and national Democratic platforms. The convention then went on the elect Cranston the organization's first president.

Having buried party factionalism in a shallow grave, the CDC made the 1954 primary its first test of strength. All candidates endorsed by the organization won party nomination for statewide office, but in the November election all except Attorney General Brown lost to Republicans.

One of the losers was senatorial nominee Samuel W. Yorty, then a congressman and now mayor of Los Angeles. A fight over his endorsement left scars on the CDC, which in 1956 rejected Yorty in favor of the more liberal State Sen. Richard Richards for the U. S. Senate.

Yorty blasted Cranston and CDC officers, charging the convention which endorsed Richards was "wired, stacked and rigged" against him. He followed up these broadsides with a suit in which he sought to stop circulation of a party pamphlet supporting Richards' candidacy.

Named as defendants in the suit were Cranston, the CDC and Roger Kent, vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Yorty later dropped the legal action, but he never erased the CDC snub from his memory. He needled the CDC and Cranston through the years.

OTHER DEMOCRATS shared Yorty's view. It was pointed out that somehow, the more liberal candidates seemed to win CDC pre-primary endorsements with increasing regularity; and that as time went on, more liberal Democrats, and in some cases ultra-liberals, were gaining dominance in the grass-roots clubs.

Democrats, many of them with CDC endorsement, did well in 1956 legislative and congressional races, but the Republican Party was still king in Sacramento.

IN 1958 Alan Cranston had decided to lay claim to a portion of the kingdom and filed for the office of state controller. He resigned his CDC presidency and rode into office with a slate headed by Pat Brown. He was the first Democrat in 72 years to win the controller's office.

It was a big year for the CDC, which had seen all of its endorsees except the nominee for secretary of state elected. But it was also a year which revealed breaks in the hastily welded seams of party unity.

Under Joseph L. Wyatt, the Los Angeles attorney who had helped found the CDC and who had succeeded Cranston as president, the organization became a "children's crusade" of radical Young Democrats.

Wyatt, who had come out of the Young Democrats' ranks himself, either wouldn't or couldn't stop the CDC from taking ultra-liberal stands that embarrassed the party's office-holding professionals and made the CDC a target of opportunity for GOP candidates who blasted it as "the radical left wing of the Democratic Party."

The CDC called for admission of Red China to the United Nations and abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities among other things.

FOUNDER Cranston managed to beat down a CDC resolution calling for U. S. diplomatic recognition of the Peking government, but he said in a February, 1964, statement favoring trade with Communist countries that he "would not object" to trade with Red China in non-strategic materials. He dif-

Watson Deserves Credit; Prop. 9 Deserves Defeat

So, for that matter, do the thousands of Californians who put their signatures to Watson's proposed constitutional amendment to qualify it for the Nov. 5 ballot as Proposition 9.

But if the proposition should pass, those thousands — along with all the rest of us — would be in for dark disillusionment. And state, counties, municipalities, school districts and special districts would be in deep fiscal trouble.

WATSON AND THE BACKERS of his amendment deserve credit for causing many Californians to take a look, for the first time, at what really happens to taxes.

As the voter examines Proposition 9, the "relief" it proposes is revealed as a cruel mirage. But an examination of it gives some needed insight into the tax structure.

HERE'S WHAT the Watson Amendment would do:

It would remove schools, welfare and anything else designated by the Legislature as "people-related" services from property tax support. And it would limit taxation of real property to one per cent of market value.

It would limit total bonded indebtedness against any real property in the state to 5 per cent of market value of the property, thus precluding any new bond issue for any purpose in many localities.

It would NOT provide one cent of revenue from any source to support schools or welfare.

It would NOT provide any way for funding major public construction, and by limiting the property tax to one per cent of market value, would make pay-as-you-go financing of such construction next to impossible.

It would NOT cut one cent from the expenses of government.

It would leave it up to the Legislature to finance schools, welfare and major public construction from some source other than the property tax. The probable — in fact, almost inevitable — choices would be vastly increased income and sales taxes.

THE AVERAGE PERSON who saved money on his property tax would have to pay out more money than before through increases in these other taxes.

Why more? Because the Watson Amendment would benefit one group: the holders of income-developing real estate and undeveloped lands. They would benefit from the reduced real estate taxes to far greater extent than they would be hit by the other increases. It is not by chance that the "Yes on 9" campaign is being carried on by a committee composed entirely of real estate brokers.

If ever there was a "soak the poor" proposal, Proposition 9 is it.

Nevertheless, its backers deserve credit for awakening Californians to the need for reform — not just in the tax structure, but in the spending of the taxes, which is where real tax relief must be found.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Labor Adds Powerful Voice To Calls For Tax Reform

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The growing demand for "tax reform" in California is such that the 1969 Legislature in all probability will have to do more to satisfy the concern of the citizenry.

Now labor has added its voice in increasing volume to the chorus heard throughout the state for reform of the tax structure. At the convention of the AFL-CIO California labor Federation recently in Sacramento, a policy statement was adopted asking a "top-to-botton" reform of the "extremely regressive state and local tax structure."

The statement asks specically for reform in the property tax field, and adoption of a pay-as-you-go withholding system for state income taxes, which the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan has opposed ever since it took office.

THE AFL-CIO claims the tax structure suffers from two basic defects, the first being that expenditures rise more rapidly than revenue with resulting fiscal crises, and that the federal tax structure, as far as income taxes are concerned, is full of loopholes which react to the benefit of the people most able to pay.

The state, of course, can do nothing about the federal tax structure. But it can do something about the state tax structure.

The increasing concern over the amounts of money the average citizen is forced to pay every year to maintain government resulted in Proposition 9, the initiative forcing a limit on property taxes, and caused the Legislature's afterthought measure, Proposition 1A, to be placed on the November ballot.

NEITHER PROPOSITION can be termed anything like complete tax reform, as both contemplate only a shifting of the tax burden from one segment of the population to another. If both are defeated Nov. 5, it will be nobody's loss, for the obvious reason that tax reform should contemplate some over-all reductions in revenue, rather than increases year after year.

These two propositions may force the Legislature out of its apathy, and cause it to start thinking about cutting expenditures.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Taxpayer Group Promotes Division

As a 50-year resident of Fairfax, I must reply to comments about the Fairfax City Council by Taxpayers for Planned Progress members J. Walla and E. R. Parkerson, both relative newcomers to our community. (I-J "Letters," Sept. 23).

Ironically; it is this very "taxpayer" group which is intentionally creating the 3-to-2 division in vote and opinion on the Fairfax City Council and bringing emotion, argument, abuse, diatribe and demonstration to our Council chambers. Walla, Parkerson and their group are supported by two present council members, hence the rather consistent 3-2 split.

Walla and Parkerson were little concerned about the former 4-1 Council when present Mayor Robert Souza fought alone against some of the grandiose plans the county had for Fairfax. The April election bought into office two councilmen who opposed certain features of the county master plan. The official "bond committee" appointed by the prior 4-1 council to push the civic center bond issue went underground as "Taxpayers for Planned Progress" and failed miserably in the June election.

Since then the members of this group have regularly come to council sessions in sufficient numbers to carry out their promise that they would create trouble for the next two years. It is they who are making an issue of "whose side you're on." What Walla, Parkerson and their organization are trying to accomplish is certainly not the betterment of Fairfax.

In view of current developments and attitudes, I feel that Fairfax Planning Commissioner E. R. Parkerson, who is also a member of the county planning staff, is suffering from a distinct conflict of interest.

Something Besides Violence Helps

It has not gone un-noticed by me that over the past few months the Independent-Journal has had beautiful pictures with interesting and constructive articles appearing on the front page.

I would hope that this will continue as it is most refreshing to be able to pick up a paper and not always have violence staring one in the face.

Perhaps your constructive ideas will catch on in some of our neighbor newspapers as well.

Cleaver Editorial Naive, Ignorant

Your editorial in the Sept. 26 issue condemning the appointment of Edlridge Cleaver to U. C. as a guest lecturer was both naive and ignorant. You stated, "he is not entitled to appear as a university faculty member." Well, just who is entitled? When will hack politicians stop interfering in academic affairs? Reagan and Rafferty preach more hate and racism than Cleaver is capable of. I think what Reagan and Rafferty are really saying is that they do not want the university to reflect the problems of the larger community. The truth is what their (sic) afraid of and that is what Mr. Cleaver will reveal when he elctures.

Humphrey's Chance In Michigan Dimmed By Deep Divisions

DETROIT — If there is one big-city state Hubert Humphrey has a chance to carry it is Michigan. The latest Detroit News statewide poll showed Humphrey and Richard Nixon running even, with 33 per cent each, 14 per cent for George Wallace and 19 per cent undecided.

But such are the deep divisions within industrial Michigan and the forces normally behind the Democratic ticket have mobilized so belatedly that the odds today are probably against the Humphrey-Muskie ticket. With the election only six weeks away, it is astonishing to find no real Humphrey organization at work. Mayor Jerome Cavanagh agreed to be co-chairman of a Humphrey committee but he has since had no word about organizing plans.

THE RACIAL tensions in Detroit are an open wound stemming from the riot of a year ago. The hostility on both sides of the black and white divide is such that the fact there has been no new outbreak seems little short of miraculous. Quick police action is credited with checking a new wave after the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. in April.

Negro leaders, such as Rep. John Conyers Jr., unchallenged for re-election in November, accuse the Detroit police of consistent and unremitting police brutality to Conyers' Negro constituents. Conyers says he spends most of his time interceding for them. He speaks bitterly of his conviction that the Kerner commission's finding of a racist America is literal truth.

On the other side, angry whites tell tales of Negro provocation and Negro crime. Out at the Ford River Rouge plant this reporter heard a long account from a white worker of how four Negroes refused to obey a police request not to park in a no-parking area, how they tried to seize the policeman's gun, and how they were finally subdued and hauled off to the station in three squad cars. Such tales with lurid embellishments in sulphurous language are the staple of white tavern conversation.

The Negro leadership is far from unified. State Sen. Coleman Young, recently named Democratic national committeeman, wants to run for mayor next year. In Detroit's population of something over 1,700,000, about 45 per cent is Negro. But whether Young would get the support of other Negro leaders is doubtful.

A rupture at the top level in organized labor has handicapped the Democrats. Walking out of the AFL-CIO and taking the UAW with him, Walter Reuther set out to form what is to be a new labor federation. He is devoting his great organizing capability to his Alliance for Labor Action.

BECAUSE OF the break with the AFL, the Auto Workers failed to come together in the AFL-CIO Council to do the organizing job that has meant so much to Democrats in past elections. Only recently have they joined ranks, thanks to the urging of Augustus Scholle, veteran head of the council.

It is a paradox of this strange time that with all the indicators showing a record income level and unemployment all but nonexistent, except for a minority in the ghettos, the party in power should be in such deep trouble everywhere. Part of the paradox is the desperate plight of the cities, with Detroit a dramatic case in point. The city government faces a $10 million deficit as services deteriorate and the state legislature refuses to increase the commuter tax while upping the Detroit payroll tax to 2 per cent, thus supplying one more incentive for the flight to the suburbs.

'Feds' Eye Crackdown On Gas Station Games

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department are eyeing an $85 million-a-year oil company outlay on those lottery-like games which have replaced high octane as the pulling power for your neighborhood gas station.

The FTC, government watchdog on advertising, has promised a crackdown. For the present, however, the marketing battle between sweepstakes, matching coupons and other merchandising games-of-chance goes on without regulation or restraint.

THE QUESTION for federal authorities is whether this sort of competition by near-gambling is automatically licensed in a free enterprise economy, as a legitimate competitive practice. Interests of gas station operators are involved along with those of the consumer.

The cash and the sports cars do not really come for nothing, of course. According to data assembled by a House subcommittee, 11 major oil companies spent $18 million in about a year on game materials, $23 million for the prizes and a whopping $44 million to advertise the games.

While many drive-in participants do not realize it, filling station operators pay a part of the cost. By purchasing game coupons at 1½ or 2 cents each they anted up $32 million, according to the congressional survey, and their customers took home prizes worth about $24 million at retail prices.

FEDERAL ACTION, when and if it comes, could well be a precedent, for similar promotions are used by supermarkets and other retailers.

A couple of states, Maryland and Massachusetts, have already acted to outlaw such games inside their borders, but the state laws are apparently headed for court tests.

From the consumer point of view, of course, the game should be honest, and participation free, as advertised. From the station operator's standpoint, participation should be voluntary. Those points were put in question at the subcommittee hearings.

The testimony suggested that some of the games have occasionally been subject to manipulation by unscrupulous station operators or their suppliers. For example, an Easton, Pa., station operator testified he was given a winning coupon (for more than $500) by a jobber and told to give it to a good customer to popularize the Humble Oil and Refining Co. game, "Tigerama."

Yes, Arabella, There Really Is A Lettuce Cigarette With Filter

A few weeks back, this column told about a boy entering a San Rafael store to ask for a match to light his cigarette — which he insisted was made of lettuce, not tobacco. A clerk in the store was puzzled because the cigarette had a filter.

Now along comes Hal A. Dawson of Thomas J. Tierney & Associates, a Houston, Tex., public relations firm, to verify that there is a lettuce cigarette with a filter.

Not only that, but Dawson objects to unfavorable remarks about the taste and smell of lettuce cigarettes made by Dr. Gerald Hill, chairman of the Marin County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health. Dawson asks "equal time."

DAWSON'S INTEREST is that his public relations outfit represents Bravo Smokes, Inc., a Dallas company that makes cigarettes out of lettuce.

According to a handout enclosed with Dawson's letter, Bravo Smokes has been reorganized and has on the market a "totally new and completely different" lettuce cigarette, named Triumph.

Bravo Smokes, it seems, was organized in 1965 to produce lettuce cigarettes under the name of Bravo. But, according to Bedford S. Wynne, its executive vice president and general manager, the "taste and odor were generally unacceptable."

(It must have been a Bravo that Dr. Hill tried; he reported you could scarcely stand to be in the same room with it.)

The Bravo was such a nonsuccess that Bravo Smokes went bankrupt. But it has been reorganized, has acquired new patents, and come out with the new lettuce cigarette, Triumph.

"We are certain that Triumph is far superior to the original Bravo," Wynne was quoted as saying, "and we know the demand for a non-nicotine smoke exists. We are confident the new product will be accepted not only in Texas but throughout the United States."

PUBLICIST DAWSON, a thorough man, sent along two packs of Triumphs to prove that they provide, in his words, "a non-nicotine smoke that the public will not only accept but enjoy."

I tried one. The odor, on the first puff, was vaguely reminiscent of chocolate candy. There was little taste — on the first puff.

On the second puff, the odor and taste grew stronger. After the third puff, I was inclined to agree with Dr. Hill.

Sorry, Dawson. Anyhow, you got equal time.

COURTHOUSE SQUARE — Rumor has it that a bona fide offer for the courthouse square in San Rafael will be presented to the county board of supervisors within a few days. The developer, whose name has not yet been disclosed, reportedly has a proposal which has received the approval of engineer Daniel P. Coleman, on whose plan for the square the present zoning is based, and which is regarded as likely to get the "OK" of the San Rafael planning commission and city council. The "iffy" part involves how much money the county would be offered for the property, which will be surplus after the move to the new Hall of Justice at the Civic Center — sometime early next year.

ART BUCHWALD

It's Really A Wonderful Year –If Your Name Is Mrs. Robinson

WASHINGTON — In the movie "The Graduate," the hero, Dustin Hoffman, is seduced by a Mrs. Robinson. Thanks to a hit song written and sung by Simon and Garfunkel, "Mrs. Robinson" has now become part of American folklore. I hadn't realized the impact of the film or the song until I started talking the other day with a friend of mine who happened to have the same name.

This Mrs. Robinson, a middle-aged lady, said that because of "The Graduate" she's had a new lease of life.

"I didn't realize what was going on at first," she said. "But then one day as I paid my bill at the grocer's with a check, the young man behind the counter winked at me and started singing, 'Jesus loves you more than will know — wo, wo, wo.'

"A few days later, as I was getting gas for my car, I handed over my credit card and when the young man looked at it, he whistled and said, 'Where are you going tonight, Mrs. Robinson?'

"AT FIRST I was going to complain to the manager, but then I thought to myself, 'If I got two passes in one week, there must be something more to this than I'm aware of.'

"I discovered what was up when my teen-age son said, 'All the guys want to meet you, Mom.'

"What on earth for?'

"He just laughed and said, 'Heaven holds a place for those who pray—hey, hey, hey. Hey, hey, hey.'

"I got mad and said, 'Stop this drivel. What's going on with you kids these days?'

"He brought down the Simon and Garfunkel record and said, 'Coo coo ca-choo, Mrs. Robinson'."

MRS. ROBINSON continued: "When I heard the record I was flabbergasted, and when I went to see the movie 'The Graduate,' I was dumfounded. I wondered how many Mrs. Robinsons were being defamed because of one Mrs. Robinson who had gone astray."

"What could you do about it without changing your name?" I said.

"I gave it some thought and I decided the worst thing to do was fight it. So now when the grocery boy winks at me, I wink back; and when the gas station attendant starts getting fresh, I just start singing, 'Where have you gone Joe DiMaggio, a nation turns its lonely eyes on you, ooo, ooo, ooo'."

"What about your son's friends?"

"They're around the house all the time. Before the film came out they never talked to me. Now they invite me to join all their conversations, and they are interested in everything I have to say."

"WHAT DOES Mr. Robinson have to say about all this?"

"That's the amazing thing. With all this hubbub going on with the kids, he's suddenly taken a new interest in me, and for the first time in 10 years he's jealous. Every time someone sings, 'Put it in your pantry with your cupcakes. It's a little secret—the Robinsons' affair,' he seethes with rage. It's nice still to be wanted when your kids are in high school."

"I guess in the long run then, this has been a good year for the Mrs. Robinsons of this world."

"Let's say it was a bonus that none of us expected. God bless you please, Simon and Garfunkel."

As I shook hands with her an amazing thing happened. For the first time I noticed that Mrs. Robinson looked very attractive, almost, I might say, beautiful.

"Well, goodby," she said in a lovely, lilting voice.

Somehow the magic had worked. As I walked away, I started singing, "What's that you say, Mrs. Robinson? Joltin' Joe has left and gone away. Hey, hey, hey. Hey, hey, hey."

This earned him the organization's scorn, and ultimately the council endorsed State Sen. Anthony Beilenson of Beverly Hills over him in the 1968 senatorial primary.

The situation got so bad for the party that Governor Brown, long a Cranston supporter, intervened in 1966 and demanded the resignation of Simon Casady, CDC president and harsh cirite of the national administration's Vietnam policy.

Brown "got" Casady. Cranston in a less active role spoke out on the CDC convention floor against what he termed Casady's "runious rule." But the Republicans continued to charge the CDC was an extremist organization, comparable in its way to the John Birch Society so bitterly lambasted by Cranston.

Stern parent though he was, Cranston staunchly defended the right of his unruly CDC offspring to take ultra-liberal positions. Or at least he did away from the CDC halls. Party office-holders, Cranston included, made it a ritual to disassociate themselves from the more radical CDC stands.

Casady wondered aloud why Brown-Cranston forces had bankrolled his campaign for the CDC presidency only to turn on him when he was elected.

ONE OF the CDC founders (not Cranston) has appraised the organization thus:

"The CDC has become more of an organization of 'eggheads' preoccupied with 'globalony' talk about world affairs rather than practical politics on the local level."

So in a perverse sort of way the CDC may have done Cranston a favor by not endorsing him in his senatorial primary race with Beilenson.

Cranston doesn't say so, of course, but there appears to be a note of relief in his voice when he tells a reporter:

"I am the CDC's founding father but not its favorite son."

Also not the CDC's favorite son is Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, who has long waged open warfare with the Cranston-founded federation of councils and at times, with Cranston.

Unruh, in fact, established a rival organization, the Democratic Volunteers Committee, and subsequently proceeded to get many state legislative candidates to run under its colors in 1964. One of them was Pierre Salinger, who defeated CDC-endorsed Cranston for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

Unruh, a practical politician dedicated to the first three rules of politics — elect, elect, elect — resents the CDC's actions of endorsing candidates and making policy statements. And he is not alone in his resentment.

In 1957, a letter signed by Governor Brown and 20 other leading Democrats, praised Alan Cranston as "the person most responsible for today's standing of the CDC in the eyes of policital leaders everywhere."

Perhaps it's not surprising to find the 1957 letter unmentioned in the Cranston campaign literature of 1968.

The CDC is handled this way in the paper entitled, "Alan Cranston A Man for All Californians":

"A backer of Adlai Stevenson in the 1952 campaign, Cranston helped found the California Democratic Council and became its first president the following year. He served for five years, resigning as leader of the organization when he ran for state controller.

"Composed of independent-thinking Democrats, the CDC and its equally independent-thinking founder have disagreed on a number of issues in recent years, and agreed on others. Although he was CDC's founding father, Cranston is not now CDC's favorite son."

Thus speaks a candidate who has attempted to remove a hair shirt and hang it in the closet with mothballs.

But the hair shirt could be comfortably warm in the election years of 1958, 1962, 1964 and 1966 when he sought an received CDC endorsement of his candidacies.

Four years ago, Cranston was as warm toward the CDC as he was hot in his remarks toward Jesse Unruh. To wit:

"Unruh has been at loggerheads with me for the past six years because I support the CDC — an organization of 70,000 working Democrats who rightfully demand a voice in the policies of their party.

On Aug. 28, 1968, Cranston told this reporter his quarrel with Unruh "is all patched up." If true, major suturing was involved, for in 1964 the Unruh-Cranston relationship had more cleavage than a convention of Playboy bunnies.

Said Unruh of Cranston during the senatorial primary of 1964:

The controller's (Cranston's) power to appoint inheritance tax appraisers made the system a "corrupting influence" and it is "absolutely essential that the appointments be taken away from him."

But the appointive power remained, and Cranston did want the controller's post in 1958 and 1962 and got it each time with CDC blessing during the organization's most liberal years. He also wanted it a third time in 1966 but was denied, just as he had been denied senatorial nomination in the no-holds-barred senatorial campaign of 1964.

The issue of inheritance tax appraisers played a major role in each denial, as we shall see in the next chapter.

Sure, you can still get through college if you're a "normal" student reading at the average rate of 250 to 400 words per minute. It just means that throughout your college career you'll spend over 5,000 hours doing just your required reading! And that's a shame, because you could save at least 3,700 of those hours. How? By learning to read at least three times faster.

For five years now the Reading Dynamics Institute has guaranteed to at least triple your reading speed or refund your entire tuition. Thousands of people throughout the Bay Area have taken up this offer and are now reading 3 to 10 times faster. Results? Hundreds, even thousands, of irreplaceable hours saved for them to invest as they choose. Businessmen and professional people now spend more time in productive work. High school and college students have time for campus activities and taking "want to" courses, raising their grade point average, or holding down a part-time job. Imagine, if a student could cut 3,700 hours of his required reading time and invested only 2,500 of those hours in a job that paid $1.75 an hour, he could earn $4,375.00.

Reading Dynamics is an incredible education breakthrough. It is the definitive rapid reading method in the world today because their graduates consistently surpass the 450 to 600 words per minute rates aspired to by conventional reading courses. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute. Many go higher, and all understand and appreciate what they read at these staggering speeds.

FREE READING DYNAMICS MINI-LESSON

Does Reading Dynamics really work? Well there is one way to find out. Come to one of the free Reading Dynamics Mini-Lessons listed below. Whether you are out of school or in, you'll find the Mini-Lesson an exciting hour well spent. You'll learn what Reading Dynamics is all about and all of your questions will be answered. And since the Mini-Lesson is a miniature version of a Reading Dynamics class, you will probably leave reading a little faster than when you came in. Of course, if you want to read a lot faster for the rest of your life you will have to sign up for the course.

MEXICAN cooks give pork a subtle seasoning for an exciting flavor. A barbecue glaze and crunchy top make an elegant roast.

Serve A Pork Roast In Mexican Style

If your friends and family have been taking your cooking for granted lately, here's a dish that is sure to impress them. Mexican-Style Pork Loin Roast looks unlike any roast you've ever served with its ruby-red glaze studded with a crispy crust of corn chips. But it is the marvelous flavor combination of pork with the barbecue glaze and crunchy topping that will win the compliments.

If you think of Mexican cuisine as just tortillas and hot sauce, you will be pleasantly surprised at the exquisite flavor of this dish. It's been long known that Mexican cooks do great things with pork, and here's proof.

For a memorable meal, garnish the roast with orange slices, avocado wedges and green grapes to give it a south-of-the-border look. The menu could include green beans with almonds and a chopped cabbage-pineapple salad in cream dressing. For a truly authentic touch, you might want to serve with butter and honey sopaipillas (prepared from a mix) or quartered and crisp-fried tortillas (available packaged, canned or frozen).

MEXICAN-STYLE
ROAST LOIN OF PORK

4 to 5-pound pork loin roast
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup apple jelly
½ cup catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1½ cups (regular size) corn chips, crushed to make ¾ cup coarse crumbs
1 avocado, peeled and sliced for garnishing, optional
2 oranges, sliced for garnishing, optional
Green grapes, for garnishing, optional

Place pork roast, fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Combine ½ teaspoon chili powder, garlic salt and salt; mix and rub over surface of meat. Insert meat thermometer point to center of lean part of loin, away from bone. Roast in slow oven (325°F.) until done, 2½ to 2¾ hours, or to an internal temperature of 170° F. While meat is roasting, prepare glaze. Combine jelly, catsup, vinegar and remaining chili powder; heat until jelly is melted. Simmer gently 2 minutes. Brush ½ of the sauce over roast 30 minutes before end of roasting time.

Roast 15 minutes; brush with remaining sauce and sprinkle with corn chips. Roast 15 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes; carve several slices and garnish, if desired, with sliced avocado and oranges and green grapes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

How To Prepare, Roast Boneless Rolled Turkey

Frozen rolled turkey roasts offer preparation convenience as well as serving and penny-saving features. They're available raw, fully-cooked, or smoked, and are made either of all white meat, or all dark meat, or a combination.

A BONELESS turkey roast which is primarily white meat may tend to be dry unless care is taken in thawing and baking.

If frozen, leave the roast in its original wrapper and allow to thaw in the refrigerator for 1 to 2 days (preferably), or under cold running water. (Frozen rolls may be roasted, but take ½ hour longer than the ordinary baking time; especial care should be taken during the cooking period to see that they don't dry out.) Remove the wrapper, leaving the string in place while cooking.

To bake, preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse the roll with water, drain and pat dry. If the roast has not been pre-seasoned, rub lightly with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in a shallow baking pan, then brush with melted butter. Place in the preheated oven, basting occasionally with melted butter or drippings. If the roast becomes too brown during cooking, cover with a loose tent of aluminum foil.

Bake until done. A meat thermometer inserted in the center of the roll should register 170-175 degrees F. Let stand 20 to 30 minutes before slicing to allow the meat to absorb juices. Remove string, and using a sharp knife, slice thinly at an angle.

ROLLED TURKEY roasts adapt well to the rotisserie. Rinse the thawed roll with cold water, drain, and pat dry. Again, if not pre-seasoned, rub lightly with salt and pepper. Insert rotisserie spit rod through the center length of the turkey roll. Insert skewers firmly in place in the roast and screw tightly. Test to ensure the roll is balanced on the spit, so that it will rotate smoothly throughout the cooking period.

Place spit in the rotisserie, and brush the roll with melted butter. Follow rotisserie manufacturer directions for temperature setting, and roast until done; no further basting will be necessary. To test doneness, insert the meat thermometer into the center of the roll, being careful not to touch the spit. The temperature should again register 170-175 degrees F. when the turkey meat is cooked. Allow to sit for 20 to 30 minutes, then slice.

BONELESS TURKEY roasts should be cooked as follows:

Weight 3 to 5 pounds, oven at 350 degrees, 2½ to 3¼ hours, in-with internal temperature reaching 170 degrees.

Weight 5 to 7 pounds, oven at 350 degrees, 2½ to 3 hours, internal temperature reaching 170 degrees.

Weight 7 to 9 pounds, oven at 350 degrees, 3¼ to 4 hours, internal temperature reaching 170 degrees.

A Peach Cobbler Featuring Crusty Sconeflower Topping

Cling or freestone, cousin to the cherry, apricot and almond, the golden velvet-skinned peach is irreplacable. Here it's baked fresh in a delightful deep dish dessert — Sconeflower Peach Cobbler.

THIS COBBLER is good when fresh peaches are in the market and in later months using thawed frozen peaches. Make it ahead and serve it cold, or for a special treat, bring it to the table hot from the oven. The "Sconeflower" top is made in the Scottish tradition of the scone. A whipped cream topping is optional.

SCONEFLOWER
PEACH COBBLER

Makes 8 servings

Peach Filling:
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoons ginger
1 cup water
4 cups sliced fresh peaches*

Scone Topping:
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
½ cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1 egg

Heat oven to hot (400°F.) For filling, combine sugar, cornstarch and ginger in large saucepan. Gradually blend in water. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened. Add peaches; keep hot while preparing topping.

For topping, sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Break egg into measuring cup and beat slightly with fork. Add enough milk to measure ½ cup. Add egg-milk mixture to flour mixture; stir with fork until dough can be formed into ball.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few seconds. Roll out to ½-inch thickness. Cut with floured doughnut cutter to make 8 circles. Do not remove centers. With floured scissors, make five snips around edge of each circle, to resemble petals. Sprinkle with sugar.

Pour hot filling into 9-inch square baking pan. Arrange scone circles with centers on top of filling in a circle, with one in center. Bake in preheated oven (400°F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until scones are golden brown. Serve hot or cold. Top with cream or whipped cream.

*NOTE: Thawed frozen peaches can be used in place of fresh peaches. Drain well, reserving 1 cup syrup. Use peach syrup in place of water. Reduce sugar to ½ cup cornstarch to 2 tablespoons.

Gifts Presented In Unusual Wraps

By MOLLY MARIN

An unusual shower was held for John Pritchard when his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindauer, honored him at their home in the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato at a buffet supper.

John, who will claim Holly Sims of Lafayette as his bride on Oct. 26, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pritchard of San Rafael.

Gifts included a variety of tools and bar accessories, all elaborately wrapped in newspaper.

Attending the party with his bride-elect were John's parents and his brother and sisters, Leslie, Sydney and David Pritchard; Holly's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. William Sims and Robie of Lafayette; Holly's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ries of Walnut Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Ibanez and Timmy of San Rafael, Mrs. A. B. Stockton of Kentfield; and Claudine Montvernay of San Anselmo.

MR. AND MRS. Chester MacPhee of the Country Club Estates entertained members of the homeowner's association at their home. Guests spent most of the evening playing dominoes.

LINDSAY BROOKE, of Dutch Flat, formerly of Belvedere, will accompany her grandmother, Mrs. James Lewis on a trip to San Anselmo this fall. Mrs. Lewis, a longtime Belvedere resident, recently moved to San Francisco. Lindsay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooke of Dutch Flat.

LAST SUMMER Richard Kiley, the star of "Man of La Mancha," his wife and family lived in the apartment on the Tiburon waterfront, which was seriously damaged by fire late Sunday night. The apartment where the Kileys stayed was in the back of the Main Street building which formerly housed the Tiburon Gallery, and had recently been used for antiques and auctions.

CHILDHOOD FRIENDS and neighbors in the Marin Country Club Estates were included on the guest list of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Isaac, when they entertained at a barbecue at their home. The 130 guests, some from Los Angeles and Chicago, took turns barbecuing during the evening.

HEADING THE annual wine tasting festival of the International Hospitality Center, which will honor the San Francisco consular corps tomorrow night, is Richard C. Otter of Belvedere. The special guests, members and their friends will gather at the DeYoung Museum for the wine tasting event.

Teens Make Decisions, Pamphlets Available

WASHINGTON, D.C. (WMNS) — Being a teen-ager is synonymous with being a decision-maker. All teen-agers wrestle with such crucial matters as how to handle sexual drives, how to choose a career, how to become independent of parents without rejecting them. One decision that is virtually inescapable for American teenagers is whether or not to drink.

A boy or girl confronting this problem can receive first class help on making responsible decisions about drinking from the pamphlet, "Thinking About Drinking," produced by the Children's Bureau and the National Institute of Mental Health.

The pamphlet doesn't say drink or don't drink. It does not present drinking as the road to ruin. It points out that we are a drinking nation, since two of three Americans over 21 use alcohol. It urges young people to explore their own feelings about drinking. It presents insights on what the experience of other teen agers is on drinking (an average of about 60 per cent of teen-agers say they have used alcohol before leaving high school).

By means of a quiz, the pamphlet presents the facts about alcohol: How and in what length of time the body absorbs it; its effect on the mind and body; individual differences in response to alcohol, the difference between distilled and fermented alcohol. It spells out why people react so differently to alcohol.

"Thinking About Drinking" may be obtained for 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Social Services, One World Are Topics Of Conferences

By GRACE HENDERSON

MISS HELEN CALLBECK

"We are lucky in Marin in that we have so many social services," said Miss Helen Callbeck of San Rafael in recounting her vacation experiences of this summer. Miss Callbeck attended three conferences during her four week vacation, all overseas. The first was the International Conference of Social Welfare held in Helsinki, Finland.

Marin's social welfare programs are commendable when compared to other sections of the United States and some parts of the world, Miss Callbeck stated as she told of comparing information with other delegates at the conference which drew more than 2,200 to the Finland capital.

She told of the Scandinavian countries and Great Britain being ahead of the United States in the actual breadth and depth of availability of services.

For instance, Finland has a program of Homemakers Services. Members of this department are available to perform household chores of an ill or absent mother, temporarily take over the care of children in the home, or do general tasks related to keeping homes intact during emergencies.

Personnel for this department attend a training school for 21 months before reporting to a home for work. The number of Homemakers depends directly on the population of the town.

Marin County does not have this service available, but Miss Callbeck expressed a wish that it might be incorporated into services of the Marin County Department of Public Social Services where she is a consultant. Offices are in the Civic Center here.

The Social Services department was formerly named the "Welfare Office" but the word "welfare" has been changed. Miss Callbeck was emphatic in her disdain for the connotations connected with the term "welfare state." "What do they want, an ill-fare state?" she asked.

Miss Callbeck was accompanied to the conference by Mrs. Julia Rose Phillips of Mill Valley who is associated with the State Department of Social Welfare (SCSW).

From the International Conference of Social Welfare at Helsinki, Miss Callbeck and Mrs. Phillips went to Interlaken, Switzerland, for the first World Constitutional Convention. They boarded a sleeper train which brought an unusual experience. To reach Interlaken several bodies of water had to be crossed, so the railway cars were put aboard a ferry and transported to the other side where they continued on their way. "I was sound asleep the first time that happened," said Miss Callbeck, "and heard about it later."

In Interlaken, the women were met by Mrs. Altheya Clark Youngman of Sausalito, a public relations consultant at the International Center in San Francisco. Mrs. Youngman was an official delegate to the convention, representing the artists' colony which she founded.

The conference, sponsored by the World Constitution and Parliament Association with headquarters in Denver, Colo., sought to promote its theme: "People of the world must direct action to bring about global order under law."

More than 200 persons attended to compare recommendations and set up study groups to work in the interim between conventions. Thirty countries were represented by the 150 persons attending, and 35 were from the United States.

World citizens from five continents, every major religion, every color, representing rich and poor countries, old and young, all worked together demonstrating in operation what they propose to establish into law: "That people are essentially of one family of

Drop Outs May Set New Values

First of a series on the symposium "Uses of Freedom: the Teen-Agers Quest," just held by the University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

In many ways the hippies and their equivalents in other nations can be seen as a vanguard of a new culture of leisure, already glimpsed in the advanced countries as the work week diminishes.

This view of the contemporary adolescent and young adult is advanced by Dr. Kenneth Keniston, author of "The Uncommitted," and "The Young Radicals," and associate professor of psychology at the Yale University School of Medicine's department of psychiatry.

"It may be that in 50 years we will look back on the hippies as the first to begin to explore seriously the human meaning of leisure in a world where work has lost most of its importance," he told the audience of educators, physicians, social workers and youths at the University of California Medical Center symposium.

HE SUGGESTED that in tomorrow's world that it may be exploration of the senses, intense focus on personal relationships, and exploration of the realms of art, music and experience rather than work that will become the primary source of fulfillment.

"Perhaps the hippies — 'voluntary drop-outs' — are preparing the way for the day in which most Americans will be compulsory 'force-outs' from the productive process," Dr. Keniston said.

It's not that American society has failed, as some argue today, he said. Rather, it's the opposite.

"Our society has succeeded in many realms far beyond all expectation. It has exceeded its goals, and has no new ones. Lacking new goals, it has become exhausted by its success," he said.

And while material conditions and opportunities for choice are in many ways greater and better than ever before in history, the result is that this is an era of unprecedented student protest and unrest, the psychologist stated.

IN STUDYING the contemporary adolescent, Dr. Keniston said that one of the most paradoxical facts about student unrest in America is that the student protestors (and he excepts the black militant and other ethnic movements) are an elite group. They are socially and economically privileged, secure in status and intellectually superior. They are the "haves" of American society.

He said that studies made on "student rebels" show them to have had an even better life before college than the less-rebellious majority of their classmates. Also, he pointed out that student protest has been at its height in colleges where "objective conditions" are best —the small, progressive liberal arts colleges and great state universities.

"Colleges with fewer amenities, less faculty-student contact, and a more impoverished intellectual and social life have been quiescent," Dr. Keniston said.

He pointed out also that the countries that have been scenes of student unrest were those with advanced technology — America, Germany, Japan, France and Italy, where economic, social and in many cases political conditions were good.

WHILE ON the surface puzzling, these facts, said Dr. Keniston, are natural when explained by the theory of exhaustion through success of the values of production.

"When the values and institutions of industrial society become devitalized for the young, the elite sectors of youth — the most affluent, intelligent and privileged — come to feel that they live in institutions that lack moral authority, 'credibility'."

The work ethic that propels a people toward production, abundance, acquisition and materialism no longer applies in an increasingly "have" society, Dr. Keniston said, excluding, of course, the pockets of poverty existing in these abundant societies.

DISAGREEING WITH the New Left view that this country is run by an "establishment" or unified, monolithic, consistent power structure, Dr. Keniston said that, nevertheless, that students who talk about the Establishment are referring to something that is to them quite real. They are reacting to their sense of the exhaustion of the old order, he said.

Speaking of value systems and idealologies, the New Left may be correct in perceiving that basic value assumptions of those who occupy power positions in institutions today date from an earlier era, whose goals are now felt to be irrelevant by some of today's youth, Dr. Keniston stated.

"In a situation where youth sees older values and their representatives as irrelevant, it does not take much to trigger a major protest."

In fact, he said, conditions, including the position of blacks in this country, the Vietnam war, and dishonesty and hypocrisy of officials or administrators, are not vastly more outrageous than before in history. And conditions of students have never been so good, especially at elite colleges where protest has been most common.

"BUT THIS is precisely the point," Dr. Keniston said. "It is because some things are good, . . . because many of the problems of American society have been resolved in principle, that students can react with new indignation to existing injustices, turn to new goals and propose radical reforms."

Student unrest today marks the end of an historical era, as did the French and American revolutions, Dr. Keniston believes.

He does not see the next era as inevitably more progressive, better or more humane, and concedes that what is happening in developed nations is not happening in the underdeveloped, rather that the gap is widening. And he concedes that the corrosive pace of social change is leaving behind an increasing number of Americans alienated from the status quo in a different way from the youth elite.

But, he says, "we are moving from an era geared to solving the problem of material production to an era whose goals are not clear, and as a result the older values, institutions and personal characteristics which were needed to get us where we are have lost much of their vitality for the more affluent minority of today's adolescents."

The extension of adolescence to more persons and for a longer time, and the fact that modern societies are losing their capacities to inspire in the top segments of youth an implicit sense of allegiance, fidelity and moral respect that was the basis of more stable social orders are facts that may help to understand some of the dilemmas and behavior of today's youth, he concluded.

HELEN HELP US!

'Repellents' Don't Always Work On Particular Pests That Sting

DEAR HELEN:

You say "Life's too short, etc." to bother with "meddleclass" females, so freeze 'em out. I wish you'd figure a way to quick-freeze this pest so she wouldn't sting. She's the kind you're better off with as a friend than as an enemy. She lights on us and makes nasty remarks about our neighbors, so you can be sure she'll do the same about us is we try to swat her down.

You'd think she would get the hint by the fact that we never return her visits. How can we work this so we'll be rid of her but she won't be vindictive about us? — TIRED OF GOSSIP

DEAR TIRED:

You can expect a few stings if you swat down this kind of pest but you'll get them anyway, so what have you got to lose? She lights on you because others have already used an effective repellent, such as, "I'm too busy to talk now, dear. See you later." — H

DEAR HELEN:

Well, I see Vance Packard, in his new book, came up with the suggestion I wrote to your column about five years ago. Remember when you printed the "divorce discussion"? I suggested a two-year "conditional marriage" after which it could either become permanent or dissolve without a lot of legal whoopla.

Of course this would mean that children would not be planned until after the two-year trial period. If children come before then, divorce would be very difficult, as it would be afterward.

I'm glad others are beginning to agree with me — FORMER WRITER

DEAR F.W.:

Forty years ago they called them "companionate marriages." You know, the "roaring 20s" and the "now" 60s were somewhat alike except for one big difference: Back then they didn't give sex much social significance. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend has an apartment in town where he goes to get away from his wife. I thought I had the only key to it.

Now I find out there are five keys floating around. He says he lets his friends use the place when he isn't there. Three of the keys are owned by women!

He told me he only married his wife because she had money — that was when he was drunk one night and talked too much. A divorce would really ruin him, as he'd have to go back to work.

Should I call up his wife and tell her about what goes on in the apartment? Or should I believe I'm still the only woman in his life? — W.S.

DEAR W:

Correction: Not the only woman, but the other woman, and maybe one of several. Why don't you turn in your key, but not to the wife? She'll find out on her own. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

The concluding 10 days of the conference were held in Wolfach, in the Black Forest of of southeast Germany. The United Nations flag, together with the dark blue flag of the Council of Europe, flew over city hall for the proceedings.

As a follow-through, a World Citizens office will be opened at the International Center, 50 Oak Street, in San Francisco by California delegates and supporters. Another world conference is expected next year.

Who Are Least Likely Victims?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Health Insurance Institute here calls attention to what a Washington, D.C., doctor said about persons least likely to have heart attacks. In its newsletter the institute said the doctor described such a person as follows:

"An effeminate municipal worker or embalmer, completely lacking in physical and mental alertness, without drive, ambition, or competitive spirit." The person likes fruits and vegetables laced with corn and whale oil, detests tobacco, doesn't own a TV, radio or car. He also "strains his puny muscles by exercise."

Enameling

When enameling small pieces such as tables and chairs, a workbench makes a convenient working height, according to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. Place these small pieces upside down on the bench and do the underneath surfaces first. Then, turn them rightside up and finish painting. A bench makes it easier to do the best possible job of applying the paint. You'll be able to spot drops and uneven areas quickly.

Mrs. John Gentles To Head The Center Path Finders

The Center Path Finders, the newest group at the Marin Art and Garden Center, has elected Mrs. John Gentles of San Rafael to serve as president for the coming club year. She has been a member of the organization since it was formed one-year-ago and served as vice president last year.

Betty Gentles says, "The goal of the Path Finders is to help the Marin Art and Garden Center reach more of the public with its program of service, recreation and education by maintaining the gardens, trees and roads of the center. The organization has the responsibility of the upkeep of present buildings and will provide others, if necessary. It also provides staff to assure the continuation of the various services the center offers to the public."

"Our plans are to eventually extend the services to the tea room to a daily basis, when staff and facilities prove adequate," Mrs. Gentles says. "Path Finders began as an organization which would find new paths to serve the center, and the luncheon service was chosen because it seemed to fill the most pressing need."

This year the group began guided tours of the center grounds and is discussing the opening of a garden shop.

Mrs. Gentles and her husband, an industrial design engineer, have lived in Marin 14 years.

MRS. JOHN GENTLES

They have three children: William, 20, Karen, 16, and Anne, 11 years old.

In addition to the Path Finders, the new president is active in Sunny Hills, the Women's Association of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church and San Pedro School Parent-Teacher Association. She has served as Marin County chairman for Heart Sunday and was an elder of St. Luke's Church.

Her main interests are her home and family, she says. She finds community service stimulating and for relaxation enjoys bridge, reading and swimming with the children.

The Path Finders have also elected Mesdames Roger Atkinson, vice president; Robert Cummings, secretary; John Clahan, treasurer; George Lester, press relations, and Tom Perry, historian.

ABA Endorses Law, Expands Services

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The American Bar Association (ABA) at its annual convention here endorsed a tough consumer credit law and expanded legal services for ghetto residents.

The ABA's policy-making House of Delegates resolved to seek a consumer code that is tougher than the recently enacted Federal Truth in Lending legislation. The nation's lawyers want even more protection for poor persons who purchase items on credit. And the ABA is urging the states to bring their own money-lending laws into harmony.

Children Show Lack Of Iron

Iron deficiency has been widely publicized as a cause of tired blood in older people but there have been few reports on iron-deficient children — who presumably have tired gastrointestinal cells.

In an iron-deficient state there is increased intestinal absorption of iron, an editorial in the August 29 issue of The New England Journal of Medicine says. But Drs. Carlien Kimber and Lewis R. Weintraub of the New England Medical Center Hospital's blood research laboratory and Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston, in the same issue of the journal, take an opposite point of view.

The researchers studied eight children with iron-deficiency anemia caused by dietary lack. All of the children were under two years of age except one who was 25 months old, and all had had very little solid food. Cow's milk made up the main part of their diet. The parents sought medical advice because their youngsters were pale, listless or irritable.

As a treatment, radioactive hemoglobin was mixed with two ounces of apple sauce and fed immediately before the child's hospital meal. Stool tests revealed the degree of iron absorption. After the tests, 25 milligrams of iron in the form of an oral liquid preparation of ferrous sulfate were given to all the children three times a day. The anemia was corrected but in one of the children iron absorption remained below the normal range.

The investigators speculate that decreased activity of iron-related enzymes in the intestinal mucosa is responsible for poor absorption. The growth requirements of children are believed to make them more susceptible to malabsorption than are adults.

Ruling Made On Divorce Ads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Relief from mandatory advertising costs in divorce cases has been won by the poor in New York. The Legal Aid Society reports that those expenses run up to $450 in each case.

A Brooklyn Supreme Court justice has ruled that the city must pay the costs if the man or woman seeking a divorce is unable to pay.

MARCEL DUCHAMP
Modern art leader

PARIS (UPI)—Marcel Duchamp, who put a mustache on the Mona Lisa and popularized modern art, died today. He was 81.

His painting "Nude Descending Staircase" went on display at the New York Armory exhibition in 1913 and brought down the wrath of critics. But it opened the public's eyes and pocketbooks to pictures that made their point in abstract design.

Duchamp went on to found the post World War I Dada movement, the grandfather of pop and op art. His most famous painting of the era was an exact copy of Leonardo di Vinci's Mona Lisa—adorned with a mustache.

He went on to label such objects as a kitchen sink as a work of art, and the critics did not dare laugh anymore. For the kitchen sink sold for a large profit.

Duchamp was born July 28, 1887, in the village of Blainville-Crevon, the son of a notary. It was the age of Cezanne, Lautrec, Van Gogh—although most art dealers did not yet realize it.

Duchamp grew up in the Pablo Picasso generation. Some such as Henri Matisse carried on painting more or less recognizable subjects. Not Duchamp.

After his nude descended the staircase, his art style went further into the abstract and emerged in recognizable form only in the old shoes, bathroom fixtures and broken pianos of the anarchistic Dada movement.

Duchamp died at his suburban home.

Ballet Auditions Set Oct. 12

The apprentice group will give a performance of "Christopher Caterpillar," next spring. Cindy Lucas of the Marin Civic Ballet Company will conduct the audition.

Cleaver Predicts 20 Lectures At Berkeley

STANFORD (AP)—Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver said last night that Gov. Ronald Reagan applied political pressure to "weak kneed" University of California regents to block him from lecturing to a Berkeley campus class.

Cleaver, facing return to prison as a parole violator, said Reagan and the regents ordered his lecture schedule trimmed from 10 to one.

But Cleaver declared to a cheering Stanford University audience that he would speak 20 times on the Berkeley campus with the backing of the students and faculty members who organized an experimental course on racism.

Cleaver collected a $750 honorarium for his Stanford talk sponsored by the Stanford Committee for a New Democratic Politics. The committee was organized by former supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Memorial auditorium was filled to its 1,700 capacity an hour before Cleaver arrived. An estimated 900 listened outside to loud speakers.

The U.C. regents have ruled that no lecturer can appear on the campus more than once in a credit course unless he has academic credentials.

As the course opened yesterday, the 100 students who had signed up and found that no room large enough to hold them had been assigned. Four professors each took 25 students to small rooms where they gave opening instructions. U.C.'s Academic Council is to consider Cleaver's lectureship case tomorrow.

Cleaver faces trial Dec. 2 on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder during an April shoot,ut between the Black Panthers and Oakland police.

He was on parole at that time after serving eight years of a 13-year sentence for a similar crime.

Cleaver urged his listeners not to vote in November for Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey or George Wallace. He said a vote for any of those presidential candidates would back policies that have brought the nation to the brink of disaster.

However, Cleaver, the Peace and Freedom Party presidential nominee, said he wasn't asking for any votes for himself.

He declared the nation's power structure gives young people no political choice and is forcing them into the streets.

Although Cleaver, 33, he has been denied a place on the California ballot because the constitution requires that a president be at least 35 years old.

Grapes On Ships; Case To Courts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California table grapes; subject of a union boycott, moved across San Francisco piers again yesterday and were loaded aboard ships.

The action came as five fruit growing organizations filed a $75 million damage suit against unions and steamship firms.

Growers previously had filed a $25 million damage suit against the Teamsters Union, charging violations of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Previously, pickets from the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee had stopped grape shipments at the piers when teamsters refused to cross their lines.

The farm workers union seeks to unionize vineyard workers.

Filing the $75 million suit in U.S. District Court were the Ballantine Products Co., Barr Packing Co., Royal Valley Fruit Growers, California Fruit Exchange and Mendelson-Zeller Co.

Named defendants in the suit were the United Farm Workers, the Teamsters Union, Matson Navigation Co., Pacific Far East Lines and the Pacific Maritime Association.

The suit contends the two labor unions and the shippping organizations violated antitrust laws by refusing to handle the table grapes.

Robbery Charge Cut; Petty Theft Admitted

Seven E. Bigelow, 18, of Corte Madera, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to an amended charge of petty theft Aug. 31 in Corte Madera.

The district attorney's office reduced the charge from one of robbery. Bigelow was ordered to appear Oct. 25 for sentencing.

Polite 'No' To Panther's Reassignment

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Robert R. Smith of San Francisco State College yesterday turned down a "request" by his superiors that Black Panther George Mason Murray be reassigned to non-teaching duties.

Murray, minister of education for the black militant group, has been an instructor in English for the past two semesters.

Trustees of the state colleges voted 8 - 5 last week to "request" Smith to reassign Murray. The president emphasized at a news conference yesterday that the trustees' action "was a request, not an order."

Smith said he was responding to Chancellor Glenn Dumpke that "I respectfully decline the request to reassign George Murray."

"Mr. Murray was hired on the recommendation of the English faculty according to procedures used throughout the California State College system," he said. "He did a competent job here for two semesters last year and the trustees have acknowledged publicly that his teaching qualifications are not in question."

Smith said the concern of the trustees apparently stemmed from Murray's actions and statements outside the classroom because "the exact basis for their request has not been communicated to me in any written charges and his record at this college does not warrant action at the present time under our rules and procedures."

He also said Murray was part of a critically important educational program for disadvantaged young people and his reassignment might endanger the program.

Napa Driver, 24, Dies In Smashup

Charles Erik Campbell, 24, of Napa, was killed early today when his small sedan veered off Highway 101 and smashed into a concrete culvert in Terra Linda.

The California Highway Patrol said Campbell was still alive but unconscious when a patrol car arrived at the scene, but died moments later before he could be freed from the wreck. He had multiple injuries of the head, both legs and left arm.

A witness William Russell Dyer, 49, of 1508 Weaverly Street, Petaluma, said he was driving behind Campbell's car when he saw it swerve onto the shoulder, then bounce into the air and disappear into a ditch channel.

The car slid some 96 feet along the soggy channel bottom before slamming into the culvert, pinning Campbell inside the car.

Campbell was pronounced dead at the scene at 1:15 a.m. by Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig. It was the 26th traffic death in Marin this year, compared to 27 fatalities at this time last year.

Campbell was president of the Western States Service Station Employees Union, and may have been returning from a business trip at the time of the accident, according to relatives.

He is survived by his wife Janice and a 2-month-old daughter, Kristina Lynn, of Napa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campbell of Upper Lake, Lake County; four sisters, Kathleen Campbell of Upptr Lake, Ruth Campbell of Massachusetts, Dorothy Tuleja of Redding, and Carol MacDonald of Mississippi, and two brothers, Steven and Scott Campbell of Upper Lake.

Hew as born in San Francisco and was graduated from Upper Lake High School.

Funeral is pending at Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Wornum, O'Leary To Start Debates

Michael Wornum of Mill Valley and Donald J. O'Leary of Tiburon, candidates for supervisor from the Third Supervisorial District, will speak on Radio Station KTIM's Sounding Board program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The broadcast will start a month-long series of programs devoted to presenting candidates prior to the Nov. 5 election. Scheduled for later shows are candidates in the Fourth Supervisorial District Seventh Assembly District and Marin General Hospital District.

Tomorrow's program will be repeated by tape recording at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Community Group Sees Negro Films

The Mill Valley Community Relations Committee last night viewed the first three in a series of 15 films on Negro history and culture, Rev. D. Murray Hammond, chairman, reported.

The films are being reviewed in advance of a community presentation tetatively planned for the spring, Hammond said.

For the next four weeks, three films will be shown each Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Hammond Hall of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Old Mill Street at Lovell Avenue. The shows are open to the public, Hammond said.

The committee will meet next at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 in Hammond Hall.

ABAG Policy Voting Sparks Hub Challenge

The Association of Bay Area Governments' general assembly meeting last Friday was illegal because there was no quorum present, San Anselmo City Councilman James F. Reed declared last night.

Reed, who represented San Anselmo at the meeting in Berkeley, suggested that the city council send a "strong letter of protest" to ABAG, objecting to voting on policy recommendations when a quorum was not present.

ON AGENDA

Reed's proposed protest will be before the council when it meets Tuesday. He made his proposal at a joint meeting with school district trustees, but no action was taken on it last night.

The policy recommendations approved by the general assembly were to guide final preparation by ABAG planners of a Bay Area regional plan. Reed cast the only "no" vote in a 43-1 vote to approve the policies.

A careful reading of ABAG's bylaws, however, appears to show that Reed has no case.

The bylaws, under Article VI, state: "The affirmative votes of a majority of a quorum of county representatives and of a majority of a quorum of city representatives are required for policy recommendations or action."

OPPOSITE VIEWS

ABAG's special counsel, Arthur Harris, told the Independent-Journal today that, in his opinion, the Friday vote definitely was in accord with the bylaws. That the vote was legal, he said, "is as clear as a bell."

Harris explained the bylaws meant that a majority of a quorum of county representatives would be five county votes, and that a majority of a quorum of city representatives would be 21 votes. There are 80 cities and 8 counties in the association.

The by-laws do not also require that a quorum of the full membership be present to vote, Harris said.

Volunteer Fire Leader Elected

Irving L. Schwartz, a registered civil engineer, was elected president of the Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Association last night at a meeting at the Marinwood firehouse. Schwartz is assistant civil engineer in the Marin County Department of Public Works.

Schwartz succeeds William J. Newman, who served as president for the past year. Schwartz and the following new officers will serve for one year: Donald Stiver, vice president; Richard Bradshaw, secretary, and Rinaldo Amini, treasurer.

'CAN BE REHABILITATED'

Sommerhalder 'Always Afraid'

By STEPHEN COOK

Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, double killer and tough leader of a Santa Rosa motorcycle gang, is a frightened young man who lacks self-confidence, a San Rafael phychiatrist said today.

Dr. Samuel T. Anderson, who also said the 24-year-old-murderer can't handle strong emotions, testified to a jury of seven men and five women who must decide if Sommerhalder is to live or die in the gas chamber for his crimes.

The jury has convicted him of killing Curtis and Shirley Ackley in Santa Venetia Jan. 12. It has also heard testimony that Sommerhalder led a murder, kidnap and rape in Santa Rosa Oct. 7 and administered at least two severe beatings during his life.

Witnesses have also testified that Sommerhalder ruled the Grim Reapers motorcycle gang in Santa Rosa with an iron fist.

Dr. Anderson said Sommerhalder could be rehabilitated, but the process would be long and difficult.

"Mr. Sommerhalder has an impaired ability to learn in the area of emotional control. Things get to him more than they do to others and his ability not to respond is poor," said the psychiatrist.

"He has an inability to handle strong feelings — either to express them or to accept them from others. He gives the appearance of being very fearful, but he is not aware of it. He is always afraid, though not on a conscious level.

"He is afraid of relationships with others, of how people feel about him, how they react to him. He is hostile, particularly when he gets that fearful feeling," Dr. Anderson said.

The doctor also reported that Sommerhalder is sometimes too conscientious:

"Hei s overly serious whenever he has responsibilities or pressure. He becomes rigid. He is not casual enough about his responsibilities," he said.

"His attitude varies from hostile and aggressive to being overly compliant and eager to please," the psychiatrist said.

Dr. Anderson said Sommerhalder should be treated primarily with psychologically active drugs, secondarily through group therapy.

He described the killer's reactions to the Rorschach inkblot test and said Sommerhalder's over-reaction to color blots indicates "he is overwhelmed by or over-responds to emotional stimuli.

Dr. Anderson said he is not certain of the meaning, but noted that Sommerhalder had no reaction to the blot usually identified with female sexuality.

His response was negative to an inkblot usually identified with authority, he said.

20-Year-Old Is Jailed On Drug Probe

James Victor Shilzony, 20, of 4 Crystal Court, Alto, was jailed last night after narcotics agents allegedly found marijuana and marijuana plants in his bedroom.

Inspectors of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau also reported they found 29 purple tablets in the youth's room and said they booked him on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale and possession of a dangerous drug.

Agents, armed with a search warrant, said they found approximately three kilos (6.6 pounds) of marijuana in the house.

Some of the grass was in a suitcase marked as belonging to a Sgt. George W. Driskill. The suitcase also contained a strainer and some loose marijuana in an Army helmet, officers said.

The officers said they would seek a warrant for Driskell's arrest.

In addition to a small amount of manicured marijuana, 15 small marijuana plants were found in Shilzony's room, officers said.

Shilzony was freed on $2,500 bail and told to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Driver Treated For Face Cuts

William E. Hankins, 42, of Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead after the car in which he rode struck a pickup truck in commute traffic on Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the car, driven by Lloyd Jay Smith, 44, of 140 Maria Drive, Petaluma, hit the truck driven by Raymond Martin Bettencourt, 31, of 155 Center Road, Novato, when at the Lincoln Avenue off-ramp, San Rafael, at 7:10 a.m..

Smith was cited for following too closely.

Branson Students Are Commended

Four students at the Katarine Branson School, Ross, have received letters of commendation for their performance on the 1968 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

They are Rachel B. Hooper and Karen E. Innes of Ross, Diana Grimes of Oxnard, Ventura County, and Kate Macartney of Reno, Nev.

General Pens Missile Base Reassurances

The Army assured the Sausalito City Council last night that wherever its antimissile site was located "reasonable effort" would be made to reduce annoyances.

The council had written the Army objecting to putting a missile base on Wolfback Ridge, one of the sites under consideration in the Bay Area. The other two are Angel Island and San Pablo ridge in Contra Costa County.

A final decision on a specific site has not been made, Brig. Gen. George Mayo Jr., deputy manager of the Sentinel system, wrote the council.

"In any event, the Army will make every reasonable effort to reduce, as far as practicable, any undesireable effects that the Sentinel system might have on the surrounding community activities," the letter said.

Gen. Mayo stated the area had been surveyed very carefully on several occasions for every possible Sentinel site and that potentially usable sites were few in number.

"Please be assured," he wrote, "that the Sentinel system manager is appreciative of the position taken by the city council; however, we have no alternative but to continue our search for the most suitable site on which to locate the Sentinel system."

2 Vacant College Board Spots Filled

Charles W. Gray of San Rafael, an authority in industrial relations, and attorney Donald K. Felt of Mill Valley were named last night to fill two seats on the Marin Junior College District board.

Trustees appointed Gray to complete the unexpired term of Thomas Skornia which expires June 30, 1971, and Felt to complete the unexpired term of Alan D. Ewan which expires June 30, 1969.

Felt, 34, an attorney in San Francisco, lives at 90 Val Vista Road, Mill Valley. A native of Chicago, he is a graduate of Yale University and Yale School of Law, New Haven, Conn.

Felt served as a lieutenant junior grade in the Navy Reserve 1956-58, and as an instructor in remedial reading at Yale 1959-61.

He was an active participant last spring for passage of Mill Valley Peace proposition.

Gray, 45, director of employee relations for a San Francisco department store, has served as chairman of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission.

He also was director of training and industrial relations for Bell and Howell in Chicago and was director of economics projects for the University of Chicago Industrial Relations Center.

Gray graduated from the University of Colorado in 1948 and holds a master's degree from that school. A Marin resident two years, he lives at 15 Palm Avenue.

Trustees selected the two men at a closed session from a field of 14 candidates, reported Louis H. Herkenhoff, acting president.

A 15th candidate, Hugh T. McCann Jr. of San Rafael, requested that his name be withdrawn from consideration, Herkenhoff said.

The two newly appointed trustees are scheduled to take their seats at a meeting of the board at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room G-1 of the physical education building at the College of Marin.

The vacancies were created when Ewan resigned Aug. 2 because he was moving out of the district and Skornia resigned Sept. 5 because of business pressure.

Sonoman Treated After Accident

Winifred M. Simpson, 58, of Sonoma, was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday for back pain after a two-car collision in morning commute traffic on Highway 101 in Terra Linda, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said she was a passenger in a car driven by Robert Lee Simpson, 67, of Sonoma, when it came over a hill at 7:40 a.m. and hit the rear of a car driven by George Peter Phinney, 17, of 1040 Fifth Street, Novato.

Dope Suspect Not Able To Bail Out

James Dewey Bell of San Rafael, believed to be one of the biggest dealers in illegal methamphetamine in the Bay Area, languished in San Francisco jail today, unable to make bail set on a federal narcotics charge.

The U.S. Commissioner yesterday set $2,500 bail for Bell, accused of participating in the sale of a half pound of methamphetamine to a federal agent for $625 Monday. Bell is to appear before the commissioner Oct. 10 for further hearing.

San Rafael police and Marin narcotics agents searched Bell's home at 277 Union Street Monday and found more than a pound of methamphetamine (speed) and almost 1,000 Benzedrine pills.

Bell, 34, according to testimony before the Marin County Grand Jury in February, once bragged to an agent of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau that he was selling three pounds of speed a week from his San Francisco base. Such a business could yield approximately $7,500 a week.

Inspector William G. Burgess, testifying before the grand jury, also said Bell told him that he was selling several more pounds of speed each week in San Jose, Hayward, Oakland, Los Angeles and Marin.

In this county, he allegedly told Burgess, he used three young men as his salesmen. On bigger deals, involving a half-pound of speed or more, he participated in the sale, he told the agent.

Burgess said Bell explained that he could not fully trust his smalltime salesmen on a big deal.

As a result of the testimony of Burgess and other agents, the grand jury indicted Bell and two of his alleged salesmen, Robert Drolla and Robert Nelson of San Rafael, for alleged sales of speed.

The grand jury testimony concerning Bell was sealed from public inspection by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court until he was ordered recently by the California District Court of Appeal to open the hearing transcripts. The appellate court had been requested to act by the Independent-Journal.

The three were arrested in February, along with more than 60 other persons, in the biggest narcotics roundup in Marin County history.

Bell was freed on $5,000 bail a short time later and has remained free on bail since.

Narcotics inspectors said the three sold them $730 worth of methamphetamine.

Bell, Nelson and Drolla are scheduled for trial the week of Oct. 14 in Marin Superior Court.

Stafford Lake Rules Discussed

Regulations for recreation at Stafford Lake were discussed by the North Marin County Water District board last night without decision according to Jerome B. Gilbert district manager.

The board directed the staff to prepare a set of rules containing such things as sanitary regulations, prohibition of certain animals and general health safety standards of the lake, to be presented at its Oct. 16 meeting, Gilbert said.

The board also discussed survivor benefits for district employees. It asked that Asst. Mgr. Eugene Churchill make a study of the benefits in other agencies and report back to the board in one year.

Students Collect Exchange Fund

Students collected a record $2,521 Monday night to insure continuation of the Terra Linda High School student exchange program, it was reported today.

Mrs. Terence J. Grew, publicity chairman for the adult committee of the program, said 239 students collected the sum in less than three hours in the Gallinas Valley. She reported it was the largest collection in the program's six years.

Seventy adults participated in the drive, she said.

Trial for his former co-defendant, Francis Mitchell Orella, has been set for the week of Dec. 2. The cases were severed at Brezeau's request in August.

Foundation Speeds Work On Park Site

The Novato Civic Foundation, with the help of public spirited local contractors, is going full steam ahead with the second phase of the construction of Pioneer Memorial Park, Edwin Grundstrom, foundation president, reported last night to the board.

The second phase of the work on the park has been estimated to cost $8,940, of which the City of Novato will furnish $1,725 in material and labor.

Fernando Clementino will do the ditching for the drainage without cost, Grundstrom said, and city public works crews will install the pipe. Backfill will be donated by Marin Landscapers, Grundstrom said.

Soiland Co. will install the sewers, starting Saturday, at no cost to the city or foundation. However, the foundation is having some trouble locating enough pipe because of a strike at Johns Mansville Co., Grundstrom said. Scheller Construction Co. will install the headwall where the drainage pipe enters the creek, he said.

When this phase of the work is completed, hopefully by the end of November, the foundation may be in debt about $500 for its share of the expenses, he said.

Copies of the plans for the park are being sent to various civic organizations to see if these organizations will undertake such projects as the sprinkler system and the spray pool, he said.

"We have hopes of having the park completed by spring," Grundstrom said.

The foundation, which had received a pledge of $1,500 from the Novato Hostess Club, was given a check for $1,581 last night, or more than the pledge, he said.

Contractors donated the use of their equipment to do the grading on the park. This was done on two weekends with the foundation paying the $5,000 labor costs.

Hub Council, School Board Cooperate

The San Aselmo City Council and the school district board agreed last night to work together on mutual problems such as capital improvements, sidewalks near schools, and school district unification.

Agreeing that they have the same taxpayers, the two groups said that coordination seems important. A capital improvements committee will coordinate large projects planned both by the schools and city, it was agreed.

Since both the council and school want eventually to see San Aselmo in a unified elementary district that would encompass the same area as the Tamalpais High School district, the council agreed to back the school board in this aim.

The school board in turn said it would consider city ordinaces when doing school construction and would study the sidewalk problem. The city is embarking on a program of making property owners install sidewalks, and Mayor Duane C. Ragan said it would be ridiculous to have sidewalks end at school property.

In other action last night the school board learned from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino that the long- standing three-way feud with Cypress Abbey Cemetery, Sunny Hills and the school district may soon be settled.

Godino advised the district to pay $15,000 to the cemetery for a road easement, with the money to be turned over to Sunny Hills since the road will go on its property. Godino said he thought this would be acceptable to the two other groups.

The board also adopted new report cards for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, which will indicate whether pupils are performing at grade level or not and whether they are working up to their ability.

The San Aselmo School Board also:

COMMITTEE — Appointed board members Pieter Toal, Franklin Latcham and Dr. Elmer A. Weden to a meet-and-confer panel and salary committee to deal with district employees.

EMPLOYEES — Hired Casper Sims at $431 a month as custodian at Red Hill School, replacing Guido Ostaggi, and Norma Molica at $390 a month as secretary at Sleepy Hollow School, replacing Dorothea Schultz.

Pill Inventor's Home Is Robbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Two gunmen invaded the luxurious East Side apartment of Dr. Harry Rudel, a participant in the development of the birth control pill, and made off yesterday with jewelry, paintings and sculpture valued at $250,000.

The bandits gained entrance to the Rudel apartment, which occupies the 10th floor of the building, by posing as deliverymen.

At gunpoint, they forced Mrs. Sylvia Rudel, 35, a nurse, and a maid into a clothes closet. Two small children were in another room and were not disturbed. Rudel was not home at the time.

She said she had been in San Antonio "two days ago, and a big Texan crunched my hand and said, 'I've been in love with you since I was a little boy 7 years old.'

Council Votes Plans On Bridgeway Work

The Sausalito City Council last night approved final plans for Phase II of the widening of Bridgeway — with most of the benches along the seawall facing away from the sea.

Phase II involves streets, sidewalks and seawall for the section of Bridgeway between Princess and Richardson streets.

Councilman Jan Paul Dyk began the questioning about the benches asking how many faced out.

Norman Wohlschlaeger, superintendent of public works, explaining the drawings, said five of the 50 benches would face out to sea.

The five, he added, were at the Richardson Street end of the project where the seawall was higher.

"Would it endanger the function of the seawall if more benches faced outward?" asked Dyk.

"The back of the bench is part of the seawall," Wohlschlaeger pointed out. "To have more benches facing out, we would have to widen the sewall, which we don't have the money to do."

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy, after ascertaining there were no comments from the handful of people in the audience, declared, "It looks good to me."

There was not question on the width of the traffic lanes — 12 feet for the northbound lane; 11 for the center strip for emergency vehicles, 11 for the southbound lane, and eight feet for adjacent parking.

Dyk moved that Phase II be approved and be put to bid. Mrs. Sweeny seconded the motion and the three councilmen present voted aye. Councilmen George C. Hoffman and Alexander R. Imlay were on vacation.

$4 Million Petaluma Downtown Overhaul Wins Chamber Backing

By BONNIE BARD

Endorsement of the Petaluma Core Area Plan was given by a majority of chamber of commerce members last night after hearing two hours of sometimes bitter debate on the merits and cost of the plan.

Of the 55 members present, 39 approved the plan, although 21 of these indicated modifications would be necessary. Sixteen others said they were totally against the plan.

Chamber directors will meet Monday to discuss an official chamber position based on vote results.

The straw vote was taken after two hours of debate with Councilman Robert S. Lipman and Petaluma merchant Frederick Mattei, speaking for the plan and real estate and insurance broker John King, merchant Owen Fredericks, opposed.

The general cost of the plan. estimated at $4 million, as well as assessments for parking improvements were discussed by panel members. Lipman charged that an economic bloc has directed the flow of money in Petaluma for many years and is guilty of perpetuating a downtown slum condition.

"Consumers of Petaluma have the means, money and will to go wherever they want to shop," he said. "These are the facts of the 1960s and 1970s and if the downtown is to be the hub of activity, some form of renewal will be necessary." He warned of the possibility of Petaluma becoming aother Novato and a bedroom community. "We don't want to have a group of subdivisions around a bunch of shopping centers and call it a town," he said.

Regarding the assessment of business properties for parking improvements, Lipman said that costs for "an average size building" when shared by the landlord and tenant would be $22 a month or 75 cents a day. He said conditions must be created to bring new business into the city and must not wait for economic conditions to push things along.

Speaking in opposition, John King charged the plan had been railroaded through the planing commission ad city council without giving property owners an opportunity to express themselves. Terming it an attack on free enterprise, he said: "The city officials dreamed up this plan—we were not given an opportunity to discuss it — now we're approached to pay for it."

He said if the shopping atmosphere in Petaluma needs a shot in the arm, all actions should come from individual merchant. King said there could be no guarantee that the investment would bring more business and said parking assessments would unfairly hurt small business.

"This is the poorest plan that could ever be presented to the city, and you must wake up to that fact and look twice before you approve this plan," he said.

Joining Lipman in urging adoption, Mattei said the business community must provide the leadership in solving the major problems of traffic flow and parking. He said business would reap most benefit from the first phase of the core plan and should accept financial responsibility for it.

Owen Fredericks, past chamber president, spoke in opposition, saying other community problems should be given priority over downtown redevelopment.

"A third of the population lives on the east side, but only a two lane road leads them to the west side," he said, suggesting an overpass on Caulfield Avenue as a solution.

Fredericks also suggested a one-way traffic pattern to ease flow of traffic and the enlargement of existing parking lots rather than the remolition of buildings to create new ones.

In a question ad answer session after the debate, most queries were directed to King and challenged his position.

Berkeley Heeds Black Students

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Berkey Board of Education accepted "in principle" yesterday 14 demands of the Black Student Union of the city's high school.

Some of them were the hiring of five Negro counselors, introduction of "soul food" in the cafeteria, naming of a black coordinator, and the teaching of African dances in physical education classes.

Another demand was for dropping of the tracking system which separates students according to learning speed. Sullivan said it was being phased out and would be ended by Next September.

Publicity Workshop Set At Redwood

Ida Geary, writer, editor and teacher, of Mill Valley will conduct a workshop in publications and publicity at Redwood High School, Larkspur, opening at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 16.

The six-week course to be held Wednesday evenings is designed for newsletter editors and press chairmen of clubs and organizations.

Trailer License Share: $22,484

Marin County has been alotted $22,484 as its share of more than $6 million in trailer coach license fees distributed throughout the state for the first six months of the year.

The money will be split according to state law which specifies that fees for trailer coaches located in a city and a school district be divided three ways among them and the county. If located outside a city, the fees are split between the school district and the county.

THE POLITICAL SCENE

McCarthy To Tour State For Cranston Next Week

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Democrat Alan Cranston pressed ahead today in his drive to enlist Kuchel Republicans and McCarthy Democrats in his canpaign for the U.S. Senate seat in California.

Cranston was buoyed and his staff bubbling yesterday over news that he has won endorsement from a longtime Republican worker and key member of Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel's unsuccessful bid for renomination at the June primary.

The Democratic candidate against Republican Max Rafferty also was bolstered by word that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota — who got 1.3 million votes in the Democratic presidential primary here— will work for him.

McCarthy will campaign Oct. 12 through the 14 in major population areas for Cranston and two California Democratic congressmen who also share strong antiwar views — Reps. Don Edwards of San Jose and George Brown of Monterey Park.

Cranston continued also to aim at securing the votes of the one million Republicans who backed Kuchel, the GOP incumbent, in the primary. In an interview over Sacramento television station KXTV, Cranston said he has "more Republican support than any Democrat has had in modern times in a statewide race."

His comment came after a reception at the home of Sacramento Municipal Court Judge Earl Warren Jr., Democratic son of Republican U.S. Chief Just Earl Warren — who as governor named Kuchel a senator in 1953.

In Los Angeles, meanwhile, a top Kuchel supporter endorsed Cranston. The action came from Sidney Levine, a college classmate of Kuchel's and member of the Southern California executive committee in his campaigns.

Levine said Cranston is the first Democrat he ever has endorse, but complained "Rafferty is running on the wrong ticket." He said he agreed with a statement by Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox yesterday that Rafferty should run on the same er governor of Alabama, carrying the American Independent party colors on California's presidential ballot.

In Los Angeles, Rafferty replied that such a suggestion "cannot be taken seriously. I am not soliciting the help of George Wallace or Lester Maddox. I hope the latter recognizes this and will confine his comments to the affairs of his own state and leave the presidential race and the U.S. Senate race in California alone."

On the television show, Cranston remarked that 'the Campaign is getting a little bit rough, when you are called a traitor as I in effect was."

He referred to Rafferty's statement Saturday that on Vietnam, Cranston approaches advocating "a policy not only of national suicide but of national treason" by urging an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnma.

That prompted the Democratic national committeeman from California, Stephen Reinhardt, to urge today that the Republican party reprimand Rafferty for such language.

WALLACE

At every city Wallace introduces officials of labor unions from Alabama and Georgia accompanying him on his campaign through the heavily unionized Midwest.

In a nationwide paid political broadcast on CBS last night he said he has strong support from workers but some union leaders are using "smear tactics" against him.

He said the rank-and-file won't be "fooled by propaganda." The former Alabama governor said, "Anyone who threatens to take away the long-term gains of labor in this country should be defeated for president."

In the telecast he also touched on the controversy over debates between the presidential candidates by accusing Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate, of "being safe" in refusing to debate him.

"Mr. Nixon says he's willing to debate Mr. Humphrey but that he's not willing to debate me," Wallace said. "The polls show that the vice president is running third so if Mr. Nixon is willing to debate the third runner, he ought to be willing to debate the one who is running second."

SURVEY

BOSTON (AP) — The Christian Science Monitor reported today that George C. Wallace has been cutting less deeply into the potential Republican vote since Richard M. Nixon actually became the GOP presidential nominee.

A survey taken of Monitor political writers in the United States indicated the Wallace impact still is widening, however. The survey also indicated that Wallace now is making almost equal inroads in the votes of both parties, the Monitor said.

The Monitor said a survey taken before Nixon's candidacy showed the former Alabama governor digging much more severely into Republican votes.

MUSKIE

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has done all he can to outline what he would do about a Vietnam bombing halt, and now it is time for the Republicans to announce their intent, says his running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

At campaign appearances in Washington and Milwaukee yesterday, Muskie, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, said the similarities and not the differences of President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey should be emphasized.

Appearing to take aim at critics who say Humphrey should step out from under President Johnson's shadow on the question of Vietnam, Muskie said in Milwaukee that any vice president "becomes part of the team," and should not "compete on policy with the president."

"To repudiate the President is to repudiate himself," Muskie said of the office of vice president.

"I would tell the vice president not to spell out the differences, and I won't," Muskie said earlier before the National Press Club in Washington.

AGNEW

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Republican vice presidential nominee Spiro T. Agnew says Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has in effect promised the North Vietnamese a better deal than they can get from the Johnson administration.

Humphrey had said Monday that if elected he would halt the bombing of North Vietnam if Hanoi showed a wilingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

The Maryland governor was asked by a newsman yesterday to comment on Humphrey's position, during a television panel show in Chicago to be broadcast Saturday night. Agnew said:

"I think this is a very dangerous course for him to pursue and I think it may be the equivalent of providing several additional North Vietnamese divisions in South Vietnam as far as impeding a just and equitable solution to the war."

HUMPHREY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey is campaigning hard against George C. Wallace in the South—talking of Germany's Hitler and America's times of trouble.

Humphrey, calling Wallace a "creature of the most reactionary underground forces in American life," told a University of Tennessee audience:

"I say to you solemnly in the 1930s the reactionary forces of Germany thought they had found a man to speak for them, and a few years later, helped by an economic depression, that man had destroyed not only his creators but German democracy, the European balance of power. . .and the result was the carnage of World War II."

"You say these things could never happen in America," Humphrey said. "I devoutly hope and pray that you are right. . . But I know from deep personal experience we are closer to this possibility than I would have ever believed possible."

An audience estimated at 11,000 turned out last night. The audience—mainly students—was friendly. There were boos when Humphrey first spoke of Wallace and applause when he said the University of Tennessee was the place to criticize Wallace.

Humphrey steered his campaign from the border state of Tennessee far below the Mason-Dixon line to Jacksonville, Fla.

"There are forces abroad in this land striving to divide and embitter our people—radical extremists of the right and left—demagogues who preach fear and hate and division," said Humphrey. Humphrey recalled he had seen extremists whose chants and shouts are aimed at disrupting meetings.

But, he added, "there is another form of radical extremism—just as dangerous, just as corrosive to our liberties—the extremism of those who preach disrespect for our courts, for certain laws, who play to the basest fears and deepest suspicions of our people."

NIXON

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has promised leaders of the securities industry that, if elected, he will end what he calls the "heavy-handed bureaucratic regulatory schemes" of the Johnson administration, The New York Times reported today.

In a Washington datelined story, the Times carried the text of a letter it said was sent to industry leaders last Friday in which the Republican presidential candidate discussed his views on the industry.

The story also said in part:

Alan Greenspan, a top Nixon economic adviser, was quoted as saying the letter "was signed by Mr. Nixon and has the full force of a formal policy statement" but was not made public because it covers "a narrow policy area."

The letter charged the Johnson administration with being guided by the philosophy that "the government can make decisions for the investor better than he can make them for himself."

The letter specifically denounced legislation aimed at forcing mutual funds to reduce their charges to investors as "rate-fixing in a highly competitive industry." The legislation was passed by the Senate this year, over the opposition of mutual funds, but died in the House Commerce Committee.

Newspaper Uses Pictures Despite Queen's Request

LONDON (AP) — London's Daily Express ignored a royal request today and published pictures of Queen Elizabeth II in bed after the birth of Prince Edward.

Buckingham Palace expressed disapproval and a spokesman reiterated the queen's own wish that the "personal and intimate" photographs should not be published in Britain. But he said no action would be taken against the Express.

The Express ran one of the pictures across the whole top half of its front page. It showed the queen sitting up in bed soon after the birth of Prince Edward in 1964, holding the infant in her arms and smiling at other members of the royal family.

In its caption the four-million circulation newspaper said it was printing the photographs "in the knowledge that their very informality cannot but add to the public affection for the queen as a person."

Los Angeles To Arm Firefighters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City firemen are going to carry automatic shotguns for self-protection Fire Chief Raymond M. Hill says—"to shoot their way out if trapped."

Asst. Chief Robert E. Radke said yesterday that arrangements have been made to purchase 60 automatic .12-gauge shotguns and to train a limited number of firemen to use them.

Radke said he is "concerned about reported incidents from all over the nation of firemen being lured into sniper traps or other situations where defenseless men are stoned or attacked. . ."

Seminary To Get Mideast Oil Royalties

Royalty interests in an Arabian off-shore petroleum concession now being drilled have been given to San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo by Wendell Phillips, oil-rich archeologist, seminary officials announced yesterday.

Seminary spokesmen said they could make no estimate now as to how much if any money will be realized since the drilling is not yet completed.

Dr. Arnold B. Come, president of the seminary, said that Phillips' gift is unrestricted and income, if any, will be used for operating expenses, not capital outlay.

He also announced that the seminary will honor Phillips by naming the seminary's planned Berkeley facility "The Wendell Phillips Center for Advanced Theological Studies."

A native of Oakland, Phillips is said to be the world's largest individual holder of oil concessions. He is currently economic adviser to the Sultan of Oman.

An archeologist, Phillips led a series of expeditions in 1950-52 into South Arabia to confirm its historical chronology and verify its paleography. Subsequently, Phillips was made a sheik of the Bal-Harith tribe, the only American ever so honored.

He has also undertaken numerous expeditions in Oman, excavating the ancestral home of Sinbad the Sailor, Sumhuram.

In 1953 the Sultan of Oman offered Phillips the oil concession for Dhofar, a dependency about the size of Ohio. Phillips sold a portion of these rights for more than a million dollars.

In succeeding years, Phillips has acquired additional concessions in the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean off-shore areas of Oman, in Libya and also in Venezuela.

Phillips has published numerous books on Oman and on his expeditions. His latest book, "Oman: A History," is the first comprehensive work on that country. He is currently engaged in a literary project on the life of Jesus.

The concession for which Phillips has given the seminary the oil rights is being drilled by Royal Dutch/Shell, Union Carbide Petroleum Corp., Wintershall A.G. (a German company) and others.

Simultaneous with the seminary gift, it was announced that Phillips had also bestowed similar interests on the University of Pacific in Stockton.

Ghetto Youth Patrol Pressed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's public utilities commission is on record in favor of hiring ghetto youths to patrol buses.

Under the plan approved yesterday, 40 young men would be employed at $2.91 an hour by the Municipal Railway to learn to operate vehicles, guard against vandalism and intervene in altercations with youngsters.

Alex Zermano, Economic Opportunity Council Coordinator, told commissioners federal funds would not be available until November or early December.

Needed are some $188,000 in federal funds and a city appropriation of $90,000.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Walking Considered Beneficial Exercise For Heart Troubles

VAN DELLEN

Exercise became a salable commodity once the medical profession found that it benefits the heart and circulation. Books have been written on walking, jogging and golf.

In every mail, we get promotional material on bicycling, gymnastic equipment, physical programs, backyard swimming pools, and outdoor organizations. All of this must sound a bit silly to the hard-working laborer or housewife to whom exercise is a part of daily living.

EXERCISE conditions the heart and plays a role in preventing early senescence. It is an adjunct to the treatment of angina pectoris, hypertension, and poor circulation. More and more is heard about "walking through angina." Research teams report on the beneficial effects of progressive excercise for relieving heart pain and improving the electrocardiogram.

The victim of angina starts by attempting to walk a mile in 20 minutes, four times a day. Should chest pain develop he stops, then continues at a more leisurely pace until distress subsides. When he is able to walk one mile in 20 minutes, the man increases the pace and may include jogging in order to cover the distance in nine minutes.

WALKING HAS many advantages. Jogging is more strenuous and should be replaced by walking when shortness of breath or fatigue develops. Many city dwellers object to jogging because they are embarrassed by onlookers. Walking up and down stairs also is beneficial.

Tennis, handball, bicycling, swimming, skating, and rowing are excellent activities. Age and physical condition determine what exercise is best.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

FOODS PASS UNDIGESTED

A reader writes: Should foods such as lettuce and grapefruit, etc., pass through the bowel undigested? I have questioned the doctor about this but he says not to worry. But I do, because it has been going on for months, along with loose movements.

REPLY

This is a possibility and may occur especially when the bowel is slightly irritated. There is no need for concern unless other foods follow suit and signs of malnutrition develop. Why not suggest an X-ray?

BLOOD OF ALLERGIC

R. K. writes: Does an allergic problem affect the blood?

REPLY

There is an increase in a certain type of white blood cell (eosinophil). If food allergy interferes with eating, the individual may develop anemia or a disturbance in the clotting mechanism of the blood.

CORNEAL TRANSPLANTS

E. A. writes: Can the eyeball be removed from someone recently deceased and given to a blind person to enable him to see?

REPLY

It is not the eyeball but the transparent cornea that is removed at the time of death. It is then used as a transplant to restore vision in a person with scars or other opacities in the pupil.

CHANGE AND ARTHRITIS

Mrs. T. L. writes: Can the change of life have an adverse effect on arthritis?

REPLY

The menopause may accentuate arthritis but does not cause it. The two conditions often occur simultaneously because both are common the the late forties and early fifties.

Today's Health Hint—Drinking is learned behavior.

HA-HA

(Think school is a laugh?
See how funny it is when you can't
get a good-paying job.)

A small education is something you can't laugh off. It's the biggest handicap you'll ever have . . . today, tomorrow, the day after tomorrow, and every day of your working life.

It's no joke. To get a good job today, you need a good education. A good education is the number-one requirement for the better jobs with the better salaries . . . and the better futures, too.

So if you're in school now . . . stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, you can still get lots of valuable training outside the classroom. Just call on the Youth Counselor at your State Employment Service. Or visit a Youth Opportunity Center, which has been set up in many cities to help you.

TV Brothers Claim Censor Of Show Unfair

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for the Smothers Brothers says the comedians are trying to persuade the Columbia Broadcasting System to reconsider showing a segment that was censored from the show last Sunday.

The spokesman, Denny Shanahan, said Tommy Smothers thinks the scene is "one of the finest artistic things he's ever been associated with and hopes CBS will reconsider it."

The uncut version, broadcast in Canada, shows Belafonte singing "Don't Stop the Carnival," while Chicago police load demonstrators into a van. The scene was from previously telecast news film, Shanahan said, and no violence was shown.

Shanahan quoted Tommy Smothers as saying CBS cut the segment for reasons of policy and good taste.

Bankers Sued By Stage's Driver

Cabral, whose home is in San Benito County, said he posed with his horses and a stage coach at San Jose and at Donner Summit for $450.

He contends he was told by the bank and advertising agencies that the pictures would be used only for one year and only for billboard advertising.

Instead, his suit asserts, he sees himself galloping his team across the pages of magazines and newspapers, in brochures, in bank murals, on special checks and on television.

Fire Destroys Town Landmark

The home's occupant, known to all as Grandma Fowler, 93, escaped unharmed and there were no injuries reported.

Suspects Booked For Shoplifting

Two 16-year-old Santa Venetia girls were booked into juvenile hall Monday on suspicion of shoplifting and assault and battery.

San Rafael police said the two allegedly took $27 worth of clothing from Macy's in San Rafael and tried to resist the security guard attempting to stop them outside the store.

TV REVIEW

Children Excluded Nowadays

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Early prime time, which used to have the reputation of being the children's hour of television, can hardly lay claim to that function any more.

One reason is that sponsors learned that high ratings from children too young to have real buying power are strictly window dressing in network competition.

At any rate, consider — day by day—the first hour of prime time on the three commercial networks this season:

On Mondays, there is "The Avengers," a sophisticated British spy series. And there is "Gunsmoke," whose excellent reputation results in part from its adult characterizations.

On Tuesday, "The Mod Squad" is an action-packed series about youths that work undercover for the police, and appeals basically to mature youngsters and adults. "Lancer" is a western.

Wednesdays offer "The Virginian," another western, and "Here Come the Brides," a logging settlement lacking in wives and other females. There is also "Daktari," a very popular children's entry.

Thursdays have "Daniel Boone," a frontier piece that has always had pull with the young audience, and "Blondie," which should appeal to children with its comic strip flavor.

On Fridays, there is "The High Chaparral," a rugged western. Opposite this is "The Wild Wild West," also hardly kid stuff, unless you're talking about quality.

On Saturdays youngsters can choose among "Adam-12," A police show, "Get Smart"; The Jackie Gleason series; "The Newlywed Game," and "The Dating Game."

Sundays, the children do have a field day. They can watch the Walt Disney hour, or "Gentle Ben," or the new science-fiction series aimed at them, "Land of the Giants," and for those a little older, there are also the Ed Sullivan show.

Czech Athletes Can't Hide Sparks Of Bitterness

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Czechoslovakian and Soviet Athletes are maintaining a cool aloofness from each other—but they can't hide the sparks of bitterness—in the Olympic Village here.

"The Russians?" one muscled Czech athlete reacted to a query. "We look at them and we see only air."

Since Soviet tanks moved across the Czech border a month ago and parked on the main square of Prague organizers of the Olympic Games have seen fit to keep the two Communist teams as far apart as possible.

They mingle but they don't fraternize.

The Czechs wear the huge letters CSSR—signifying Czech-Slovak Socialist Republic. The Russians are recognizable by the familiar initials CCCP, meaning the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Originally, they were scheduled to occupy adjacent quarters and to eat in the same dining room—an iron curtain cafeteria containing also the East Germans and the Poles.

A discreet change was made in the apartment allocation. The Russians remained in dining room 1-A, where the main Communist nations eat. The Czechs were transferred to dining room 4-B. They eat with the Hollanders and the French. The Americans are next door.

"Eat with the Russians?" a Czech said with a grimace. "If they made me do that, I never eat. I starve to death."

There had been reports that because of the political situation in Prague, the great distance runner—winner of the marathon, 10,000 and 5,000 meter runs at Helsinki—had gone into hiding and may have sought sanctuary elsewhere.

"That is not true," a Czech official explained. "Zatopek was very unhappy at first when the Russians invaded. He refused to leave his apartment. But now he is coming to the Games. He is coming at the request of the International Olympic Committee.

School's Not Finished But Team Is Winning

GOOD MORNING — I don't know if I could stomach football practice every morning. I mean, cereal and ham 'n' eggs over easy don't sound too appealing if you'd have to follow them up with a dessert of blocks and tackles, quick openers and safety blitzes.

Yet, the kids up Novato way apparently thrive on this unusual schedule. Since their spanking new campus won't be completed until next month, students at San Marin High School have to double up and share facilities at Novato High, meaning the San Marin football team practices in the ayem and attends classes in the afternoon.

Since the San Marin Mustangs are undefeated after their first two games, there must be something to that old adage about the early birds getting the worm.

Problems Of Newness

Bob Martin, 30-year-old athletic director and head football coach at San Marin, was an office visitor the other day to tell us something about the problems of opening an athletic department at a new school.

Teeny-weeny problems like no football field for the football team, no swimming pool for the swimming team, no track for the track team, no diamond for the baseball team, etc.

"We're using the football field at Sinaloa Junior High for our first three home games and will use the Novato High field for our last four home games," said coach Martin, who moved to San Marin High after spending three years at Terra Linda and two years at Novato highs.

Just Sophs And Juniors

San Marin, with only sophomores and juniors, is playing a junior varsity football schedule but will play varsity competition for all other sports this school year. The Mustang footballers have already beaten St. Ignatius 18-6 and Terra Linda 20-13 and take on Redwood's jayvees this Saturday at Sinaloa.

He listed quarterback Ken Gnoss, a ". . . real good leader and fine boy," and 6-3, 195-pound tackle Kerry Atkinson as the outstanding back and lineman on the 58-player roster. That's quite a turnout, by the way — about one-sixth of the school's male enrollment.

Home At Indian Valley

Martin said the San Marin gymnasium should be completed within a month to take care of the basketball and wrestling teams; the golf team will use Novato's Indian Valley as its home course, the track and field team will borrow Novato High's track and the baseball teams probably will have to borrow a diamond. "I don't think our field will be ready in time for baseball season," said Martin.

Besides directing the athletic department and coaching football, Martin also will coach wrestling. He has seven coaches in his department: Carroll Dillon, assistant in football and head of junior varsity baseball and Class B basketball; Chris Ostrom, swimming; Andy Frauenhofer, varsity basketball and golf; Bob Richards, track and cross country; Mike Quinn, baseball; Bill Graves, assistant track, and Don Nicholas, junior varsity basketball.

United States Women Tie France For Golfing Lead

MELBOURNE (AP) — A 31-year-old housewife and a college student teamed for a 156 total that put the United States into a first-place tie with France heading into tomorrow's second round of the Espirito Santo Trophy for the world team championship in Women's amateur golf.

Mrs. Anne Welts, 31, of Mt. Vernon, Wash., and Jane Bastanchury, a 20-year-old student at Odessa, Tex., College, fired 78s yesterday in the first of four rounds over the wind-swept 6,040-yard Victoria Club course.

The third member of the U.S. team, 19-year-old Shelly Hamlin of Fresno, had an 82 — but only the top two scores from each country count in the team total.

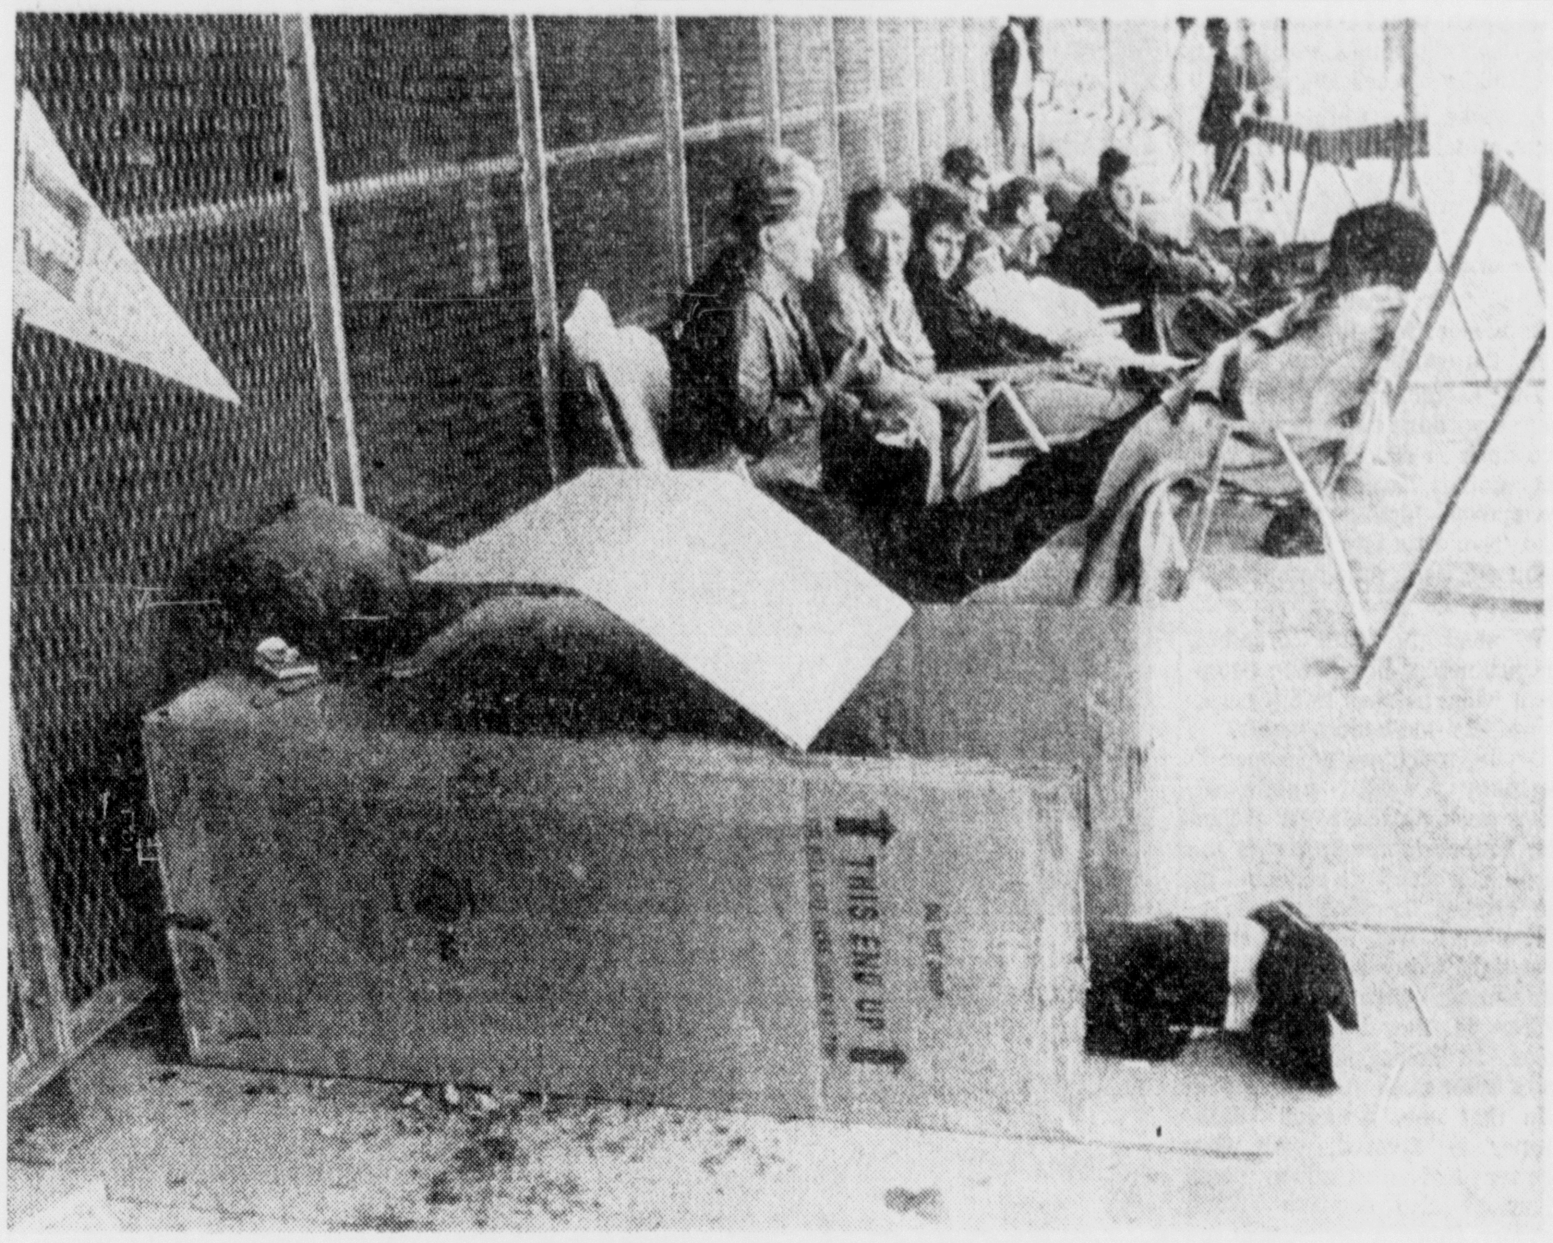
Canada and Australia shared third place with 158s, followed by Britain and Ireland with 163 each.

Irving Crane Wins Billiards Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Crane of Rochester, N.Y., won the International Pocket Billiard Championship and $5,000 last night by defeating Steve Mizerak of Perth Amboy, N.J., 150-112.

The victory gave Crane a 13-2 record in the 15-match round robin tourney. He had beaten Art Cranfield of Syracuse, N.Y., 150-93 in an earlier match Tuesday.



A FAN IN THE BOX

Art (Happy) Flesh, obviously is for the Birds. The Milwaukee resident and St. Louis Cardinal fan set up home in a large box and went to sleep while waiting in the standing room ticket line at Busch Stadium yesterday. Some fans began lining up Sunday for the 3,100 standing-room-only tickets that went on sale today, four hours before the opening game of the World Series.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

King Ready To Move In

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The World Series rumor league has Clyde King ready to move in as new manager of the San Francisco Giants and Joe Schultz to take over as boss of the expansion team in Seattle.

The resignation of the Giants' coaching staff and Herman Franks' mid-season decision to quit if he didn't win the pennant, open the door for King to move up from the Phoenix farm club. Franks' mobile home business may be sold for $2.5 million.

Schultz, a coach under Red Schoendienst with the St. Louis Cardinals, is reported to have the inside track at the Seattle job. Schultz, a former catcher with Pittsburgh and the old St. Louis Browns, managed in the minors for 13 years before he came to the majors as a coach in 1963.

THE CARDS have a clipping from a newspaper story posted on the bulletin board in their clubhouse in which Denny McLain is quoted as saying, "I don't want to beat them. I want to humiliate them."

IF MAYO SMITH is defying precedent by starting Mickey Stanley at shortstop after only eight games at the position, how about the 1913 New York Giants?

In the Series with the old Philadelphia A's, John McGraw had to play pitcher George Wiltse at first base and infielder Art Shafer in center field due to injuries to Fred Merkle and Fred Snodgrass. He had to play a second string catcher, Larry McLean because Chief Meyers had a broken finger. He used only 12 players in the Series and lost it 4-1.

Incidentally, Jackie Robinson was a versatile Series performer, playing first base in 1947, second base in 1949 and 1952, left field in 1953 and third base in 1955 and 1956.

LEFTY GOMEZ was talking about Bob Gibson's chance of breaking his record of six straight World Series victories before yesterday's workout at Busch Stadium.

"They're knocking me out of the record book," quipped Lefty, who had a perfect 6-0 Series record. "But there's one they can't tie—starting the first All-Star Game."

Warriors' Overtime Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors head into San Diego tomorrow night looking for thir third basketball exhibition victory in four starts when they meet the Los Angeles Lakers.

At San Jose last night, the Warriors overcame an 11-point deficit by outscoring the Seattle Supersonics 43-21 in the final period and an overtime for a 119-106 victory.

Jeff Mullins, who topped Warrior scoring with 24, led the rally that tied the score at 103 at the end of regulation play. Bob Lewis scored six for San Francisco in the overtime period.

Seattle's Bob Rule led all the scorers with 30.

Regulars Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee of the Wariors sat out the game but should be ready for the Laker game. Thurmond has a bruised heel and Lee an infected blister on his foot.

Tiger Fans' Emotions Higher Than St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Detroit Tiger and St. Louis Cardinal fans both speak the same baseball language, but after 23 yards of pent up emotions Tiger enthusiasm is coming out in a roar while the Cardinals' seems to be at a chirp.

It was back in 1945 that Detroit last was the scene of a World Series. On the other hand, St. Louis won a pennant last year and had only one year to get aroused about it.

Robert Weber came from Chicago two weeks ago to sell Cardinal souvenirs on a downtown streetcorner. He has been doing $50 worth of business a day, he said. But "they had a good $100-$150 a day last year and we were hoping to get it this year," he said.

"They (customers) have their pennants from last year so they don't buy new ones," he said.

A drug store across the street had Cardinal souvenirs in the window and a sign read: "We did it again." A band around a hat said, "Bravo St. Louis Cardinals."

Such subdued enthusiasm is not to be found in the Motor City. Bumper stickers are on almost every car displaying such slogans as: "Tigers deal the Cards out," "Sock it to 'em Tigers," and "Tigers eat Cardinals."

But St. Louis has a built-in disadvantage in such slogans. No matter how fierce a Cardinal is made to appear the red bird looks weak next to a tiger.

People have heard of tigers in their tank, but how would a cardinal under the hood sound? maybe if a tiger swallowed a cardinal it would have a chirp in its burp, but the whole thing eventually gets further off the track of two talented opponents squaring off in a World Series.

M.V. Golf Winner

Wayne Smith rolled up a 272 total over 62 holes to capture the junior championship of the Mill Valley Golf Club last Sunday.

Guess Who Leads Oaks' Scoring?

SALINAS (AP) — Rick Barry played his first game with the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association in an intrasquad game here last night and led individual scoring with 39 points.

Barry, who sat out a year's option with the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association, hit 13 of 35 tries from the field and made 13 free throws.

In spite of Barry's efforts, his Green team was beaten by the Golds 139-135 before 937 fans at the Palma High School court. Doug Moe and Wes Bialosuknia each scored 30 for the Golds.

A hometown hero, 5-foot-10 rookie Russ Critchfield, who set an all-time scoring record at the University of California, pleased the Salinas fans by chalking up 22 points for the losing Greens.

Mollenkopf: Single Platoon Would Hurt Game

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Coach Jack Mollenkopf, whose No. 1 Purdue team banks heavily on strong offensive and defensive units, said a return to one-platoon play would hurt college football.

"We need platoon football," Mollenkopf told the Downtown Quarterback Club yesterday. "All the colleges would lose about $2½ million if we didn't have it."

He said football brings in the money for other college athletic programs. "You men in business don't cut out that which brings in money."

His remarks added another page to the controversy two-platoon football has triggered since it was launched by Michigan against Army in 1947.

Mollenkopf said the Pacific Eight Conference proposed limited substitution and restrictions on platoon play last month to cut costs. "They'll take their proposals to the NCAA too," he said.

Bill Reed, Big Ten commissioner, has said there is a strong possibility the men who draft college rules will restore limited substitution in the next five years.

Mollenkopf said there is more entertainment in two-platoon play.

He said, "You go there to enjoy yourselves, and we've had that the past two Saturdays," referring to Purdue's 37-22 trouncing of Notre Dame last week and the 44-6 victory over Virginia the week before.

Reed said in a telephone interview last night from his Chicago office, "In many places you get this thinking about limited substitution. I know there is a very strong drive on this in many parts of the country. This is because of cost."

Whether a return to one-platoon football would hurt colleges financially is speculative, Reed said.

"I'm inclined to question it would hurt the game because there is the possibility more versatility would be required to adapt to it," he said. "This in itself is interesting football."

PACKERS HURTING

That Defensive Wall Crumbling

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Injuries, striking with the force of Joshua's trumpet, have caused Green Bay's vaunted defensive wall to crumble, temporarily sidelining the Packers' drive to a fourth consecutive National Football League championship.

Under Vince Lombardi, former defensive coach for the New York Giants, the Packers developed a dynasty using a ball-control offense and a stingy defense.

DIFFERENCE

But under rookie Coach Phil Bengtson, Green Bay's opponents have marched overland. And the success of the ground game has meant that opposing quarterbacks could start picking apart the normally tight Packer air coverage.

"The defense hasn't been good at all," Bengtson admitted after Sunday's 23-17 loss to the Detroit Lions that saw Green Bay slip to a 1-2 record and a tie for last place in the Central Division.

Joe Schmidt, Lions coach, touched on the same subject when he said, "I knew we could move the football."

The Minnesota Vikings two weeks ago had the nerve to run on fourth-and-one deep in their own territory. They made it and went on to defeat the Packers.

BLITZING

It's not like the past when Green Bay's defensive line would lead the charge, letting the linebackers help out the defensive secondary on pass coverage. Now the Packers are blitzing more, a strategy that Lombardi once said was used only to cover up a weakness.

The best-known Packer hospital cases have been in the offensive backfield where Elijah Pitts, Jim Grabowski and Ben Wilson underwent off-season surgery. But it's on the defensive line where the injuries have hurt the most. Only defensive captain Willie Davis has escaped.

LONG LIST

Tackle Henry Jordan hurt his back; tackle Ron Kostelnik missed some of the pre-season workouts with a bad leg; tackle Bob Brown has yet to see action this year after suffering a broken arm; tackle Jim Weatherwax is still limping after being injured in an exhibition, and end Lionel Aldridge twisted his ankle against the Vikings.

"It's not in very good shape," the Packer coach said of his defensive line. "Eventually we hope Bob Brown will be ready to help us."

READY

Brown says he is ready now. "I asked to play in this last game against Minnesota," he said. "I believe I could help the team."

When asked when Brown would return to the roster, Bengtson said, "I can't answer that. They X-ray the arm periodically to see how the healing is progressing. The doctors haven't said he could play yet."

About Jordan, Bengtson said, "We know that one of his strong points is not against the rush in a short yardage situation."

Van Brocklin Given Plenty Of Power

ATLANTA (AP)—Controversial Norm Van Brocklin takes over the football fortunes of the Atlanta Falcons with promises of plenty of power and plenty of time to turn them into a top team.

The National Football League's passing whiz of the '50s demanded—and got—a long-term contract of a reported five years, full control of the team and a free hand in future scouting, trading and drafting of players.

IN CONTACT

Van Brocklin, 42, apparently has been in contact with Atlanta owner Rankin Smith for several weeks about taking the coaching job but not until yesterday morning were his requests agreed to.

Smith, who has been unhappy for some time with the performance of the Falcons under Norb Hecker, fired Hecker and hired Van Brocklin after published reports that such a change was upcoming.

SPEEDED THINGS

"Let's just say that the newspaper stories speeded things up," said Smith, whose Falcons have won but four games since they joined the NFL in 1966.

Van Brocklin, who arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night and said, "I'm still in love with football," plans to keep Hecker's coaching staff for the rest of the season and also plans few changes in the offense and defense for the time being.

Richard L. Bass, Rams' Runner With A Tunnel

By the time we got to Cleveland, the resident Bob Hopes were waiting with their Sunday-best witticisms.

Conundrum: What do the Rams do differently from any other football team? Answer: They put their offense in when the other team has the ball.

JOKE: THE Rams see it so seldom, they have 20 people on their squad who couldn't describe a football. And also: Who are the top receivers on the Rams? The linebackers, silly!

To hear the wags tell it, the Rams couldn't gain through a paper hoop. But the truth of the matter is, the Rams' offense is not so much invisible as it is unobtrusive. They gobble up territory the way the Communists do countries. The other guys just look up in surprise and say, "Whatever are you doing here?"

YOU TAKE Richard L. Bass, our man in the backfield, late of Her Majesty's secret intelligence, the last of the great fops. Beau Richard helped himself to 134 yards Sunday without drawing any more attention to himself than a jewel thief or a guy hired to guard the silver at a society wedding.

The first thing they do with Richard on game day, I am sure, is to blow him up. He weighs 200 pounds, suited up, but if he ever runs over a nail and springs a leak, he will be flat enough to mail.

RICHARD DOESN'T run over or through anybody anymore. He goes UNDER. There are some linebackers in the league who think he has a tunnel. He's like a kid sneaking under a fence. The two lines come together. Roman Gabriel hands him the ball surreptitiously, and all of a sudden, Dick emerges in the secondary like a guy crawling up out of manhole cover.

SOMETIMES IT takes the other guys' linemen several seconds to FIND him. They're down on their hands and knees like a guy feeling for a collar button under a dresser. By that time, of course, they'd have a better chance of finding Judge Crater. Dick is long gone and it's the defensive halfback's turn to guess which shell has the pea.

The Rams count on Richard for a 1,000 yards a season. So does the garment industry. Beau Richard, you see, has a bigger wardrobe than Western Costume. His apartment is just a kind of a closet with beds. Some guys wouldn't dream of wearing the same clothes two days in a row. Dick wouldn't dream of wearing them two hours in a row.

HE USUALLY looks like he's on his way to duel. Lace collar and cuffs, velvet frock coats, a handkerchief tucked in his wrist. He makes Eustace Tilley (the cover of The New Yorker) look like a carpenter. He's the only guy in the National Football League who has a monocle. If fox-hunting ever makes a comeback, Richard is ready. All he'll need is the trumpet. He takes his riding crop and derby just to ride a bus.

Richard has the requisite number of Nehru jackets, but, spiritually, he prefers the 18th Century. You want to ask him what he did with the three-cornered hat or the powdered wig. He had on a metallic turtleneck in Cleveland that had so much gold in it, you could hock it. They didn't sew this shirt, they forged it. It was so bright it looked radioactive. A lance would break on it.

FOOTBALL IS just a sideline with Richard. I believe his checks go direct to Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Carnaby Street and the bootmaker he shares with Prince Phillip's polo team. Dick wants to fill the void not left by Red Grange but by Louis B. Mayer. If you see him on the phones on the bench during a game, it's not to the scouts in the pressbox, it's to the William Morris office. Richard is really a theatrical agent. He has more phones in his home than Cuba. He's currently handling a sensational young singer named Richard Dickson. He is also auditioning an off-Broadway show he may want to angel.

RICHARD, AS you can see, is a man for all seasons. The Rams, naturally, want him to cast the Super Bowl — and put a good part in it for himself. Even if they have to put a phone in his uniform so that Abe Lastfogel can't put one over on him while he's running with the ball or David Merrick needs him.

WITH WINTER coming on, Dick was another problem: Shoring up his fall wardrobe. He has been pricing mink coats. Not for his wife, for him. Dick might someday be the only guy in the country a chorus girl gives a mind to. But Dick feels California is too warm for a full-length mink. "I may just settle for a stole," he says resignedly.

NFL Cardinals Displaying A Double Duty Punt Man

NEW YORK (AP) — When a punt sails skyward in a St. Louis Cardinals football game, the chances are excellent that one of Chuck Latourette's feet or both of his hands will be on one end of it.

Not only does Latourette do the Cards' punting, he returns them, too. Not his own, of course, but the other side's.

He did that so well Sunday in a 21-20 victory over New Orleans that he set a National Football League record for highest punt return average in one game—47.7 yards.

The second-year pro from Rice ran back three punts—one for 11 yards, another for 46 and a third 86 yards for a touchdown. He also hauled back three kickoffs for 90 yards and his total yardage on punts and kickoffs of 233 surpassed the St. Louis offense of 219.

Oh, yes—Latourette also punted Sunday, four times for a 37-yard average.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)— Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa was a well-known high school athlete long before he came to prominence in politics.

Cricket To Golf's Rescue

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — If the Alcan $200,000 Golf Tournament gets started at all today they can thank Britiish cricket.

Cricket experts who know best how to dry out selected grounds arrived to bail out the 7,140-yard, par 74 Royal Birkdale Golf Club links which have been under a week long rain.

At stake is a 64-man tournament which includes the Alcan Golfer of the Year title, restricted to 24 professionals who have qualified to shoot for a first prize of $55,000.

The two tournaments run side-by-side, with the big one toward the end of the day.

The promoters changed the course yardage twice in the past two days in order to cope with the weather. Tuesday night they went even further to relax a rule. They said any player could clean his ball any numbers of times on the greens.

To meet the water problem, the promoters brought in equipment which is used to dry cricket wickets and collect water.

Drying machines developed in Germany were summoned. They work on the roller principle, squeezing the water to the surface, where it is collected by the cricket machines.

The work was to be done at first light today and the 64-man tournament then starts, The Golfer of the Year, over 72 holes, 18 holes per day, gets going after noon.

In that one, America's Billy Casper is favored, with Gay Brewer and Australia's Peter Thomson also drawing strong support. Other Americans in the 24-man field are Frank Beard, Gardner Dickinson, Bob Murphy, Miller Barber, George Archer, Tom Weiskopf, Bert Yancey, and Lee Trevino.

By KIMO CAMPBELL

Soccer, a game regarded with fanatical attention throughout most of the globe, has yet to make much of a dent in the minds of American sports fans, who still prefer first downs, punts and fast breaks to headers, penalty kicks and diving saves by the goalie. But a small crack in the wall of indifference is beginning to show — within their small area of influence — and a group of students at the College of Marin is trying to widen it.

The COM soccer team is not supported by the college athletic department, particularly now that the department is having trouble financing the established sport. But athletic director Harry Pieper has given the team his help by scheduling games, use of the school facilities and everything short of financial aid.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

The team, made up of homesick, soccer-bred foreign students and some Americans who have never played before, has no coach, no uniforms, no goals, and no equipment except that which the team members own. But they make up in enthusiasm what they lack in material.

Forty-two students have turned out, 18 of them American-born, the rest an international potpourri — French, Turkish, Greek, Colombian, Argentine, Scotch-Hawaiian, Israeli. Many are ineligible under California junior college rules because of the residency requirement, which was designed to discourage proselyting basketball and football players, but in effect discriminates against foreign students. So the Tars play an informal schedule, for now.

Last week's opening games, in striking contrast, pointed out the strengths and weaknesses of the Marin team. The first game was a 10-0 loss to City College of San Francisco, equal to about 68-20 in football. To explain this lop-sidedness, a few facts about CCSF:

The Rams lost a match last year to a "loaded" Merritt College team, 5-4, later beating Merrit twice. The loss was CCSF's first in 100 games. CCSF won the Bay Area championship five years running, against Cal, Stanford and others of that ilk, whereupon the four-year schools kicked them out. So CCSF stuck to junior college competition and has won the state title five years straight. In 1965 the Rams beat a USF team that went on to win the NCAA championship the same season.

This year's CCSF team, led by All-Americans Otie Cannon (five goals against Marin) and Alan Chu, plays with beautiful style and precision. Against the Tar tyros, they looked like Green Bay scrimmaging the College All-Stars. But the Rams' coach, Roy Deiderichsen (190 wins, 12 losses, 10 ties in 20 years) felt that Marin was far from hopeless.

"Your team," he said, "is no worse than at least four teams in our Western J.C. Soccer Conference — Menlo, Diablo Valley, Ohlone, West Valley. City College, San Mateo and Merrit are too far ahead now, but the rest you can compete with right now. This is our first year under California J.C. eligibility rules, and any of our players could play football or basketball."

The Tars turned around the next night and swamped Napa 8-0 in a preliminary to the Marin-Napa football game, showing a vast improvement, attributable not only to the lower calibre of opposition, but to better teamwork (the CCSF game was Marin's fourth scrimmage) and confidence.

REGAINED CONFIDENCE

Jaime Torres, a Colombian student who resembles a clarinet, scored five goals against the Chiefs, with Alain Devise netting two. Orhan Terzi, a Turk who is one of the troika of player-coaches running the team, felt that the game gave back some confidence lost in the expected rout by CCSF, and showed the players that they could play respectable soccer.

The team is now looking for a coach, and chipping in for equipment. It may be a few years before 5,000 fans will pack Marin Stadium to see a soccer game, but the players are learning, staying in shape, and having a lot of fun (including the writer, last-string fullback, thus a prejudiced witness) which, I submit, is the object of college sport.

Decision To Fire Kennedy Made Three Months Ago

OAKLAND — You were promised winter sports commentary in this space, I know, but with the firing this week of Bob Kennedy by Charlie Finley, permit, please, the Summer malady of the A's to linger on.

For what I am now prepared to offer is the reason for Kennedy's firing moments after the final game of the season. The decision had been made three months earlier.

It came in the ninth inning of the first game of a doubleheader in Detroit on July 7. (How's that for pinpoint gossip?)

THE A's and Tigers were tied 4-4 going into the bottom of the ninth. Oakland starter Lew Krausse was pitching a five-hitter and seemed in full control of matters. There was one out and muscular Willie Horton was due up for Detroit.

That's when Kennedy hanged himself — at least in the benevolent Mr. Finley's eyes. Bob jerked Krausse for rookie relief pitcher Ed Sprague of Hayward. Sprague throws, or is supposed to throw, a sinkerball. The theory in baseball is that you cannot hit a sinkerball into the seats; one tends to bang a low pitch on the ground. Kennedy hoped that Sprague would throw a sinker pitch and Horton would bounce out.

Horton homered.

FINLEY WAS probably ready to dump Kennedy at that moment. But one fellow who knows the habits of the A's owner said, "Even Charlie knew he'd be going too far too soon in a new town to fire his manager in mid-season."

It's obvious Kennedy never knew he was in trouble, which is usually the case when you're about to be fired — in any business. Even the file clerk knows before the victim.

A WEEK AGO my sixth sense (the nag) suggested I should speak to Kennedy about his future. "Awright already," I said, and trudged to the dugout.

"Mr. Finley and I have an excellent relationship," Bob told me. "And I've got a two-year contract. I haven't heard from Mr. Finley in several weeks, but he'll be in this weekend and we can start planning for next year."

Finley sure did come in over the weekend and sure did start planning for next year.

THE SECRET words Kennedy uttered, and of which he should have been wary, were "haven't heard in several weeks."

My spy tells me, "When Finley doesn't talk to you for a few weeks, you're through."

So Kennedy, who nursed and spoon-fed a bunch of green kids into the fringe of the first division and gave Finley his first over-.500 team was through.

Bob was a nice, uninteresting guy who would answer every question politely. His kids liked him, played for him respectfully.

NOW ARRIVETH Hank Bauer, separated a half dozen years ago from the same job by Finley. At that time, the story goes, Bauer asked at season's end, "How about my contract for next year?" And Finley's supposed to have told him, "We'll talk about it later." And Hank's supposed to have said, "Forget it."

Hank is nice — and interesting. He probably will not permit Finley to call as many lineup shots as Kennedy did. Which means Bauer again will lose the A's job, after 1969 or '70.

YOU WANT motivation? I'll give you motivation.

One day while Bauer was with the A's in Kansas City, Finley called on him. The owner said he noticed a grass stain on Hank's uniform bottom. The owner said the manager should clean it off.

"That," said the tough former Marine, "is not a grass stain. That is mistletoe."

There, friends, was a real sinkerball.

Clem Daniels To See More Action In L.A.

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Clem Daniels will see more action Suday against Los Angeles than he did last Sunday against Atlanta, according to 49er coach Dick Nolan.

Daniels, former Oakland Raider star, joined the team just before game time and gained a yard on three carries.

Nolan also said that rookie Kevin Hardy might be used as a punter. But he said that last week and Steve Spurrier still handled the kicking chores against Atlanta.

The return of the 49er running attack mainwhile was indicated by latest NFL figures which showed Ken Willard (198 yards gained) and Gary Lewis (190) sixth and seventh in the rankings. Clifton McNeil of the Prospectors led pass receivers with 15 grabs for 204 yards.

San Jose '11' Loses Star

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Coach Harry Anderson is casting around today for a replacement for Walter Shockley, tailback and San Jose State's leading offensive threat.

The Spartans, who play California in Berkeley on Saturday, disclosed yesterday that Shockley suffered a knee injury during the last weekend victory over Fresno State.

Before being injured he had scored two touchdowns against Fresno, gained 66 yards on 21 carries and caught a pass for 17 yards.

As San Jose was walloped by Stanford the week before, he gained 82 yards on 14 carries and caught four passes for 70 yards.

BOATING

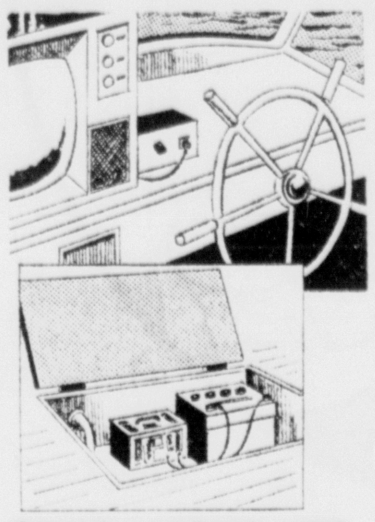
Electronics Industry Offers New Gadgets

There's a terrific electronic gadget for boats out this year. It's a device which steps up the 12-volt direct current of a boat's battery to 117-volt 60-cycle alternating current as supplied to homes and industry.

It comes in kit form, so it has to be put together at home, and costs $100. It's called a power inverter.



POWER INVERTER LETS YOU PLUG IN HOME APPLIANCES AFLOAT

The idea is not new. What is new is that this device will give enough power to run most home appliances. It delivers 500 watts of power which will run a TV set (black and white, or color); shavers; electric drills and saws; kitchen appliances, such as mixers, blenders and can openers; and entertainment equipment, such as phonographs and tape recorders.

And it provides enough power to run a few of them simultaneously.

THINGS IT won't run are a compressor type refrigerator — the motor needs a very heavy starting current. Nor will it run heating devices, such as electric kettles —they need 1,350 to 1,500 watts of power — or clothes dryers, which need 5,000 watts or more.

This is only one of several new electronic devices pitched to the boater. Many of them also come in kit form which cuts the price considerably. Most kit assemblies are well within the scope of the average handyman.

OTHER NEWS in marine electronics is the support the Federal Communications Commission is giving manufacturers to push the new-style radiotelephones which operate in the frequency modulation bands. This is to ease the pressure on the old standard marine bands which are so congested with inconsequential chit-chat that a boater who wants to make an emergency call to the Coast Guard is hard pressed to yell his way in.

Marine electronics is a thriving industry and as more and more boaters get new gadgets, we get questions:

Q. Is a depth finder worth the money for a small runabout boat?

A. If you operate in an area where running aground could cause serious damage — what do YOU think? You can get a good one for well under $100. There's a new one this year that works either off a boat's battery or dry cells. It's really pitched to the angler who is working small inland lakes.

Q. Are the new VHF-FM radiotelephones more expensive than the old marine band phones?

A. The cheapest I can find is about $450, whereas the same power radiophone for the old marine band was about $300.

Q. What are the advantages?

A. It's just the same difference as between old-fashioned standard broadcast AM (amplitude modulation) radio and FM (frequency modulation) radio. There's better speech quality, no static, less interference, much more "space" in the band for more channels. The only disadvantage is that FM transmissions are limited to line of sight.

Q. I'm building a fuel vapor detector or "bilge sniffer" from a kit. How does it really work?

A. The "detector" part is a very small platinum wire through which a tiny electric current flows. In the presence of flammable vapors, the electrical resistance of the wire changes, depending on the concentration of the vapor. This is measured and shows on a warning dial. Don't ask why platinum does this. I don't think anybody knows.

Q. What's the technical name for the gadget which tells how far over a sailboat is heeling? Who sells them? How much?

A It's called an inclinometer. Write: Rieker Co., 1919 Fairmount Ave., Philadelphia, Pa. 19130 or Thatcher Marine, 930 Westwood Dr., Allison, Ill. 60101. Prices run from $10 to $100.

Q. My propeller was "eaten away" by corrosion in salt water. I'm told there is a new device that will stop this. What is it?

A. This is one of the most revolutionary and useful of all electronic devices for salt water boaters. It really stops salt water galvanic corrosion completely. It's a very simple, cheap device and is called MerCathode. Ask any marine dealer about it.

Mill Valley Netters Win Practice Match

The Mill Valley Recreation Department's men's tennis team will open its league season Sunday on the Boyle Park tennis courts starting at 9 a.m.

The team won its first practice match, 9-2, over Standard Oil last Saturday at Golden Gate Park.

Tar Harriers Take Third Win

College of Marin's cross country team, running without No. 1 man Steve Carroll, still burned up its Kentfield course to take its third straight victory of the season, downing Laney, 26-31, yesterday.

George Stewart set a course record of 23 minutes, 32 seconds over the four-mile distance as the Tars captured three out of the top four places. Darren Walton was third and Rich Cordone fourth.

The Tars took their first conference win in the new Camino Norte loop last Friday by zipping past Contra Costa in Richmond, 15-43, as Carroll led a sweep of the first five places with a 24:22 time.

Marin Swim Club Names New Coach

Galen Hopkins, 46, veteran swim coach, has been hired by the Marin Swim Club as administrative head coach, it was announced yesterday.

A native of Sonoma, Hopkins began his coaching career in Santa Rosa Recreation Department in 1941 while a student at Santa Rosa Junior College. He also coached the Reno Recreation Department swim team while attending University of Nevada in 1949.

Hopkins was principal of Yerington, Nev., High School until 1951, when he moved to Sacramento and joined the schools office.

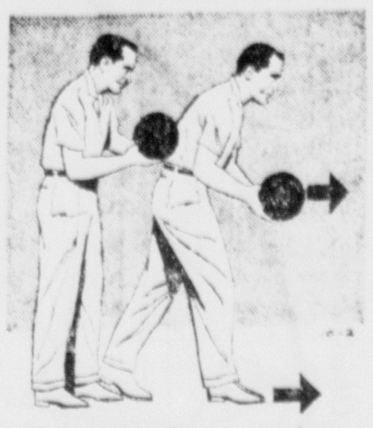
MASTERS DEGREE

He returned to coaching with the Arden Park Dolfins from 1951 to 1955 and the Arden Manor Swim Team from 1955-1960. During this time he received his masters degree in psychology from Sacramento State College. In 1962 he became head coach of the Del Norte Swim Club.

Hopkins, who is married and the father of four, has also served on the Executive Swim Committee of the American Amateur Union (AAU) and is presently a member of the Junior Olympics Swim Committee. He and his family plan to move to Marin County.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



If there is a key to good timing, it is the initial movement of the foot and the push-away of the ball. They must begin at the same time. If you use the four-step delivery, this means that the instant your right foot starts forward, the ball also should start moving. This must become a natural part of your approach or you will never develop a smooth delivery.

Rams 12-Point Pick Over 49ers

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Harrah's Tahoe Racebook yesterday listed the Los Angeles Rams as 12-point favorites over the San Francisco 49ers in their National Football League game Sunday.

The Oakland Raiders were favored by 19 points over the Boston Patriots for their American Football League game at Oakland and Stanford was quoted at nine points over the Air Force Academy for their Saturday game at Stanford.

World Series Means Lots Of Money Spent

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Richard Sauget, a catcher for the Atlanta Braves' Richmond farm team, knows perhaps better than anyone what effect the 1968 World Series will have on St. Louis this year.

Sauget, 24, has just received his master's degree in economics from St. Mary's University in San Antonio—after completing his thesis on the economic impact of the 1967 World Series on the St. Louis area.

Some startling conclusions are brought to light in his exhaustive study of the three-day period during which the Series was played last year in St. Louis.

Using a carefully worded questionnaire to interview fans attending the games and applying his knowledge of economics to the results, Sauget concluded that out-of-town fans poured more than $8 million into the St. Louis economy.

St. Louis fans spent nearly $1 million during the three-day period as a direct result of the Series, his findings showed.

Taking into consideration recirculation of the intown and out-of-town fans' money, "slightly over $20 million" was spent during the World Series in St. Louis last year, Sauget concluded.

After graduating from Notre Dame with an economics degree in 1966, Sauget, a 6-3, 250-pounder signed with the Atlanta Braves.

Despite his busy baseball schedule and duty with the Army Reserves, Sauget still managed to attend St. Mary's and complete his thesis.

"I wanted to do something that would apply to baseball, or sports in general," Sauget said in explaining how he selected the subject.

TAKE YOUR BUSINESS TO KINSEL'S

I've been a businessman for a long, long time. Not always a good businessman, perhaps, and therein lies a story, as the cracker barrel boys would say.

For example, I was a so-so businessman at nine hustling newspapers in Detroit. Oh, I sold papers with fervor—and with determination, sometimes shouting imaginative headlines when paper-selling news was scarce. But, I failed to hit the high in newspaperdom because I got cold in winter and took time to warm up occasionally, and, in summer, I'd sneak off to the gingerale shop to cool off. Detroit in Winter and Detroit in Summer will get to a guy sometimes.

Then, too, I missed out on the brass ring of greatness in that line because I never felt eating was urgent enough for me to take guff from the nasties who thought their 3 cent purchase gave them special license to browbeat. I might have been hurting for those extra sales and extra pennies, but I felt a lot better telling the creeps to "take their business to Kinsel's" (the hottest corner in town where the newsboy took all the guff and got fat on it).

In the years since, my particular business has been largely automobiles, and, thankfully, the vast majority of people I've met have given me a warm glow and a good living and a most precious asset, a reputation as a straight operator. A few along the way, however, have given me a solid pain in the you-know-what area. Things and my attitude toward this minute segment haven't changed since my newsy days. These unchosen few can well take their business to Kinsel's—or anywhere else.

To be a successful businessman, a man is not required to take abuse or cower in fear at the unwarranted rage of a "customer" who makes a career out of scowling. The scowler usually is a coward at home or at work, and thinks his buck buys him a docile target. With me, his buck buys service, value, and courtesy. If unwarranted abuse comes with the buck, he can spend the next one elsewhere.

I have a special disinterest in prolonging contact with the guy who pays for services rendered, stops payment on his check, and demands a carefully calculated reduction in the bill, claiming foul. He's right about one thing. It is a foul, and he's committed it. This guy relies on the reluctance of good businessmen to resort to the courts for collection, and he invariably succeeds in his special form of blackmail. Any adjustment made under duress is hardly proper or just, for either party. This unethical "customer" will find his modus operandi carefully recorded in credit files to create some future inconvenience for him.

Another guy who can go to Kinsel's is the joker who expects some special award for his patronage and "goodwill." A good deal apparently is not enough. Honest, reliable service is fine, but what else? Really, fella, there does come a point in time when the gross profit is all used up, and there ain't no more. And, will you grieve over the undearly departed dealer who didn't keep track of this point in time?

How about the hard-to-take loyal-customer-who-will-never-never-buy-again who is all pushed out of shape because the parts manager didn't hang around the dealership all day Sunday just to provide him with the set of spark plugs he's been waiting all week to install himself? After all, just because he works 40 hours a week is no reason why the employees of an auto dealership should expect a bit of home life.

In my dealership, Marin Dodge, the vast majority of customers and potential customers I dearly love. I'm still that independent Detroit newsy, full-grown, however, so I may not be too polite to the isolated exceptions like those I've just described.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 2, the 276th day of 1968 with 90 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1960, a bomb blast in New York City's Times Square injured several hundred persons.

A thought for the day—French essayist, Michel de Montaigne, once said: "Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One Player Insists On South Hand In Duplicate Action And The Reason

"I always sit South in a duplicate game," writes Daniel H. George, of Gloucester, Mass., "because I read your daily column and know that South gets all those good hands. Maybe that's how I got into three hearts with these cards:

LEADS LOW

"I get the lead of the four of hearts, and East plays the queen. I win with the ace, play a diamond to the king and return another heart. East plays low, and I put up the king, noting the lucky fall of the jack. I figured that this particular East would have played the jack at the first trick with Q-J-x of trumps.

"Now I lead another diamond, and West takes the ace and gets out with a diamond to dummy's queen. I play ace of clubs and another club, giving the city slickers another chance to start the spades but I'm in tough luck because East wins and fires back another club, which I ruff.

LEADS SPADE

"Since I can't put it off any longer, I lead the jack of spades. West snaps up with the ace and leads another spade, but I can't guess wrong. Whne I play the queen from dummy, East wins with the king but then has to return a diamond or a club, and I can ruff in dummy and discard the last spade from my hand.

"My partner later says he would have played a low spade to dummy's queen, instead of leading the jack of spades. I explained that I knew the top spades were divided since if this particular West had a spade suit headed by ace-king he'd have opened the king of spades instead of that silly lo trump.

GAME OF LUCK?

"Anyway, I thought you'd be glad to know my partner has finally convinced me that this game is one of luck because if he had played South, he's have gone down. It's sure lucky I read your column every day and play South."

Luck is where you find it. The opponents weren't lucky to have this tough hand played by my correspondent. And what luck for me to get a letter that does my whole day's work for me.

Tax Reform Ranks High On Agenda For Lawmakers

NEW YORK (AP) — No matter which party wins the coming elections, tax reform will be one of the big issues of 1969. In fact the arguments are expected to begin shortly, although some say it's hard to say when they ever ended.

By the close of the year President Johnson must offer his recommendations on the subject, which involves not just billions of dollars and millions of pages of decisions, but almost as many points of view as well.

So complex have taxes become that entire businesses today are built on printing, interpreting and advising how best to use the laws, and the legal and accounting professions have bred mutations adapted only to the tax world.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated that the administration is especially concerned about the tax burden on the poor compared with "the serious problem of those taxpayers with very high annual incomes who make little or no contribution . . ."

This suggests that a very heated discussion of the negative income tax might be on the schedule.

Expansion of tax sources could be a major issue.

For years tax experts have been studying means of obtaining revenue from sources other than incomes. The present income tax ranges up to 77 per cent on personal income and nearly 53 per cent on corporations, which are high compared with other industrial nations.

Forecast: A Squeeze On Profits

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Despite some pessimistic reports on 1969 business activity, "the fundamental underlying strength" of the American economy should not be overlooked, Bank of America reports.

"Possibly of greater concern than the expected business slowdown would be a too vigorous expansionary reaction by fiscal and monetary authorities fearing a more severe economic adjustment than is actually in prospect," the bank's experts said.

In a special report entitled "Focus on 1969: The U. S. Economy," Bank of America predicts that profit margins will come under increasing pressures due to higher costs and a slower rise in business sales.

While a less aggressive policy will seem natural and prudent to some managements, the bank advises against over-reacting to short-term reverses — "business financing plans syould be kept flexible to take advantage of favorable market conditions."

Meanwhile, the family budget will face higher social security taxes and increased tax payments.

Thus, consumer spending gains in 1969 will be heavily weighted towards necessary services and nondurable goods expenditures with less demand for high-priced durables.

A general decline in interest rates, however, may be reversed by mid-1969.

Bank of America economists attribute this to a latent demand for long-term funds which will become active as prospective borrowers find rates attractive.

"A buoyant housing market also will require heavier financing and reduced federal grants-in-aid will maintain the high level of state and local government borrowings for major expansion programs."

International monetary problems are not expected to be as disruptive in 1969 as in 1968 and U. S. labor market conditions should be more settled although the unravelling of the wage-price spiral will continue to mean wage gains in excess of productivity.

All things considered, Bank of America believes 1969 should be regarded as another record year, but marked as a period of mild adjustment from the unsustainable growth rate of the past 12 months.

The subdued economic setting keyed by higher taxes and slower growth of federal government expenditures will provide the basis for a much-needed slowdown in the inflationary pressures which have been developing over the past several years, the bank concluded.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Speculative Appeal In Offshore Drilling

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $1,000 which I can afford to use for speculation. I'm interested in offshore drilling. Would you give me some information and investments in this area? —R. D.

A. Offshore drilling is an area of vital importance to the world. By 1977 offshore oil wells are expected to supply 32 per cent of the world's consumption.

Several factors contribute to the all-out rush by the oil industry into the oceans. First, a major supply crisis is developing, accelerated by a geometrically increasing rate of consumption. Second, the undersea reserve potential has been estimated at 1 trillion barrels of oil and 1.2 quadrillion cubic feet of natural gas. Further impetus is added by the success rate of offshore wildcats which run two to three times better than on land.

Enough acreage is available so that it is economically feasible to put together spreads which control the producing structure.

Investment in the industry is, however, recommended only for those who can afford to speculate since for many companies capitalization is thin and market action volatile. One of the early companies in the field, Reading and Bates, operates drilling rigs on a worldwide basis.

Revenue is also derived from the rental of deep-diving equipment, the underwater repair of drilling rigs and oil and gas production.

The proposed merger of Fluor Corp. with Pike Corp. will produce a growing factor in offshore drilling and service. Fluor derives 90 per cent of revenues from construction and engineering for the chemical and oil industries. Of the two, Pike is the less expensive means of participating in the proposed union.

A third coming offshore driller, Ocean Drilling and Marine, is an aggressive innovator. The company is pursuing various self-insurance programs and is designing a unique mobile drilling rig. Another interesting speculation, Falcon Seaboard Drilling, is in the midst of a major expansion and diversification program.

It should be emphasized that shares of these companies are speculative and at recent levels full priced. Buy only on weakness.

Ford Debut Sets New Sales Marks

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Ford Motor Co. dealers on the West Coast launched the 1969 model year with a record delivery of 9,702 new units during the introduction weekend, an increase of 33 per cent over a year ago.

Both Ford and Lincoln-Mercury division dealerships reported record breaking sales, orders and crowds in the opening two days of sales for 1969 products which first appeared in showrooms on Friday.

O. Fred Yando, Ford division's western regional sales manager, said dealers in the western states recorded 7,602 sales of cars and trucks.

Greatest interest in the new models was in the all-new Ford LTD, the Fairlane Cobra and the Mustang Mach 1, a high-performance sporty car.

Nationally, Ford division dealers established a Ford division sales record for a single day on introduction day with deliveries of 29,768 new cars and trucks.

Rupert F. Lewis, Lincoln-Mercury's western sales manager, said divisional dealers on the coast delivered 2,100 new cars on the opening two days.

Nationally, Lincoln - Mercury dealers began the new model year at a record pace by delivering 10,316 new cars on the two introduction days.
